- A] BF Panathenaic amphora. From Camiros. Unattributed. Third quarter sixth. Ca. 530 (Neils). *CV, France 10, III H e, pl. 88,1-4 (bibl.). De Ridder, Cat. i, 152 (facs.), no. 243. Kretschmer, Vas. 88. DS i, 1079, fig. 1329 (B, dr.). Beazley, JHS 47 (1927) 69, n. 25, and 82, n. 48. *Photo. Beazley Archive db. no. 1047 (much bibl.). La Cité des Images (1984) 107-108, fig. 155,a-b (A, B). I. Scheibler, 'Bild und Gefäss,' JdI 102 (1987) 60-61, 108. Bérard, Bilderwelt 161, fig. 8. H. A. Shapiro, Art and Cult under the Tyrants in Athens (1989) 33, pl. 12,c-d (A, B; the pictures dark). J. Neils et al., Goddess and Polis (1992) 37, fig. 23 (A) and 56, fig. 36 (B); cf. p. 176. Shapiro, ibid., 56 and n. 26, fig. 36 (B).
- B] A: the Panathenaic Athena, placed between two cock columns and approached by a small naked youth on each side (victors). Note the dinoi on top of the columns. B: an acrobat with shields (device: a whorl) standing on a horse with a rider; under the horse, a man with a pick axe; at left, a youth playing pipes; at the farther left, onlookers on stands (speaking).(1)
- C] B: to the right of the spectators from the top margin down: κάδος τῶι κυβιστῆι τοι.(2)
- D] For the acrobat (κυβιστής) on B, see: E. Simon, 'Zwei Springtänzer: DOIO KYBISTETERE,' AK 21 (1978) 68. N. Reed, 'The Euandria Competition at the Panathenaia Reconsidered,' Ancient World 15 (1987) 59-64. H.A. Shapiro, Art and Cult 33 tentatively accepts the term apobates. For kados see Agora 12, pp. 7 and 201 n. 1, and TGV 228, under 12F. Further Scheibler; also the cooking pot CAVi 1732 (Ceramicus) and the BF amphora CAVI 4861 = 7512 (Swiss Private).

(1)Shapiro thinks that B shows a Panathenaic agon of an unknown kind. (2)CV reads the first word καλῶς, but the third letter is not a lambda. The photo. shows it to be similar to a triangular alpha (S 2 on the chart in 'Script'), but with the diagonal extending a bit further down. Is there no repainting? Kretschmer read καλῶς τῶ κυβιστῆι τοι, explaining that κυβιστής = κυβιστητής (see also LSJ). κάδος was de Witte's reading. Shapiro reads: καλος τῶι κυβιστετῶι, 'Good for the tumbler', meaning I think καλῶς. The inscription appears to be issuing from the mouths of the spectators.

A] BF prize Panathenaic. From Vulci. Near Painter of Berlin

1833.(1) First quarter fifth. *E. Langridge (ref.). *CV, France 10, III H f, pl. 88 bis (to appear in CV, Bibl. Nat. 3), 1-6. Peters 61/6. Brauchitsch, no. 29. Beazley, AJA 47 (1943) 448. ABV 407/2. TGV 233 and 234, fig. 13n (facs.).

B] A: Athena. B: horse race.

C] A: τον Αθενεθεν ^ αθλον.(2) Under the foot, Grr.: 12 deltas and three unit strokes. Also ΨΙ.

D] Langridge's number; Beazley lists (erroneously) as no. 224.

(1)imitation of Eucharides Painter (Beazley); Peters attributed the vase to him. (2)a slight vacat before the last word.

B] A: Athena; column figures: Demeter and Persephone. B: a chariot, racing.

(1)Group B of Panathenaics with Demeter and Persephone (Eschbach). (2)after CV, where the first alpha is printed as disjointed and the first theta without the central dot.

A] BF prize Panathenaic. Nikomachos Series. 324/3 (archon Hegesias). *CV, France 10, pls. 90,2-7 and 91,1. Smets, no. 133. Beazley, AJA 47 (1943) 458/10. ABV 415/11, Add.(2) 108. *N. Eschbach, Statuen auf Panathenäischen Preisamphoren des 4. Jhs. v. Chr. (1986) 146/cat. 75, pl. 38,1-2 (detail of A).

D] De Ridder's description (he saw only the unrestored frs.) does not altogether correspond with CV's. Typical fourth-century calligraphy.

(1)Beazley in AJA gives the inscription as complete.

Paris, Cab. Méd. 251.

A] BF stamnos. Unattributed. Ca. 530. *CV, France 10, III H e, pl. 77,3-4, 78,1-3 (bibl.). De Ridder, Cat. 159 (readings). *Photo. Boardman, ABFV, fig. 221 (A). LIMC iii, pl. 330 Dionysos 308 (A). Philippaki, Stamnos, pl. 14,2 (A). Beazley Archive db, no. 473.

B] A: Dionysus with kantharos, with a satyr and two maenads.

- B: The Struggle for the Tripod, with Leto (or Artemis?); deer.
- C] B: partly nonsense or mock inscriptions: between the foreheads of Heracles and Apollo: $\eta\epsilon\alpha\rho\iota\omicron\varsigma$. To right of Heracles' face: $\alpha\phi\chi\upsilon\gamma\alpha(.)\tau$, retr.(1) To left of Leto's face: $\Lambda\epsilon\tau\omicron\varsigma(\chi)$, retr.(2) Under the foot, Gr.: Attic lambda and Etruscan 8. See TGV 107/24B 16. There are also some other signs, cf. CV.
- D] The first and last inscription look like bowdlerized names of Heracles and Leto, but it is hard to read the second in any way as Apollo. An illiterate?

(1)I have not a good reading of this; CV does not consider it retr. and prints: $\tau\alpha\sigma\chi\phi\alpha$. De Ridder has: $\epsilon\sigma\delta\upsilon\sigma\alpha\omicron\alpha$. There is a glare in the photo., but I saw ... $\omicron\omicron\sigma\tau$, retr. (2)CV has: $\alpha\epsilon\tau\omicron\sigma\chi$, retr., and interprets: $\Lambda\epsilon\tau\omicron\varsigma$, which is also de Ridder's understanding.

- A] BF hydria (Tyrrhenian). From Vulci. Unattributed, Beazley. Archippe Group, Bothmer. Third quarter sixth. 550-530. *CV, France 7, III H e, pl. 32,13 and 32,1-2. CIG 4.7642. ABV 104/127, Add.(2) 28.
- B] The chariot of Heracles.
- C] $\eta\epsilon\rho\alpha$. $\eta\epsilon\beta\epsilon$. $\Lambda\epsilon\upsilon\kappa\omicron\varsigma$, retr. (horse).(1) $\text{A}\rho\iota\omicron$, retr.(2) Slightly upward: $\iota\omicron\lambda\epsilon\omicron\varsigma$, retr. $\eta\epsilon\rho(\alpha)\kappa\lambda\epsilon\varsigma$, retr.(3)
- D] Attributed by Bothmer to the same painter as Boston 67.1006, CAVI 2819, q.v. [hence to the Archippe Group]. CV there thinks that the subject is the same as on the Boston (excerpt of Heracles' apotheosis). Much restored: are the inscriptions as read all ancient? The alpha in Herakles is a blot.

(1) $\text{Π}\epsilon\rho\kappa\omicron\varsigma$, de Witte; $\text{Γ}\eta\kappa\omicron\varsigma$ [with reversed three-stroke sigma], de Ridder, facs. (2)this should be another horse name. Arion?, de Ridder. (3)CV, text, has unreliable letter forms; the first three letters are visible in a photo., showing the inscription to be retr. (so also de Ridder i, 164).

- B] Satyr playing the flutes.
- C] Starting to right of his head and curving down along the margin: Νικοσθενες εποιεσεν.(1)
- D] The letters are similar to, but much neater than, Painter N's.

(1)a good picture in CV, pl. 48,7.

- A] BF oinochoe. From Corinth. Unattributed. First half fifth. *CV, France 10, III H f, pl. 66,4-5. De Ridder, Cat., fig. 28.
- B] A satyr playing the flutes; a goat.
- C] Nonsense: to right of the satyr's face and behind his back: clusters of dots. Above the goat's head: a row of dots.

Paris, Cab. Méd. 297.

- A] BF/WG lekythos. Unattributed. First half fifth. *CV, France 10, III J a, pl. 87 bis (to appear in CV, Bibl. Nat. 3), 5-9. De Ridder, Cat. 197 (facs.) and fig. 32.
- B] A warrior returning home.
- C] Nonsense: imitation letters: several inscriptions, one in a long loop. Mostly gamma's and nu's.

6103.

Paris, Cab. Méd. 299.

- A] BF/WG lekythos. Athena Painter. First quarter fifth. *CV, France 10, III J a, pl. 84,7 (much early bibl.). Fairbanks, Ath. Lekythoi (1907) Gp A, Class 1/6. Haspels, ABFL, no. 106. ABV, 704, Para. 260.
- B] A wounded warrior.
- C] Nonsense: τοιδ, retr. υτκ(γ)οσ. οσδ. τοσδ(ο).(1)

(1)so the facs. in CV, which is probably unreliable; pl. 85,1 shows: διοτ, retr. and, curved: ασδ.

6104.

Paris, Cab. Méd. 301.

- A] BF/WG lekythos. Manner of Haimon Painter. First quarter fifth. *CV, France 10, pl. 87,7-9. Haspels, ABFL, no. 227. ABV 546/227.

- A] BF lekythos. Emporion Painter. First quarter fifth. *CV, France 10, III J a, pl. 87,10-11. De Ridder, Cat., no. 303. Haspels, ABFL, no. 27. ABV 584/27, Para. 291.
- B] Two pairs of lovers (a man and a woman) with Eros between them.
- C] Between the lovers' heads in large letters: $\kappa\alpha\lambda\omicron^{\wedge}\varsigma$.(1)
- D] The inscription is above the head of Eros.

(1)the last letter is beyond the head of the man on the right.

6106.

Paris, Cab. Méd. 315.

- A] BF lip cup. Unattributed. Third quarter sixth. 550-530. *CV, France 7, III H e, pl. 47, 9-11. A. de Ridder, Catalogue ... Bibl. Nationale i (1902), pl. 8 (B). 'Script' 1070.
- B] Lip: A-B, each: a gazelle and a panther.
- C] Handle zone: nonsense: imitation letters: A:
 $\gamma\gamma\rho\rho\epsilon\upsilon\omicron(\pi)(\pi)\gamma\gamma\omicron\gamma\iota\pi\pi\omicron\chi\pi(\pi)(\pi)\iota\omicron\gamma\omicron\chi\sigma$. B:
 $\gamma\rho\pi\phi\rho\tau\gamma(\chi)\omicron(\pi)(\cdot)(\pi)(\pi)\iota(\pi)(\pi)(\pi)\iota\rho\omicron\phi\pi(\pi)(\alpha)\omicron\iota(\cdot)\lambda$.
- D] The inscription on A is given after the text in CV; that on B after fig. 11, which is very small. The readings are uncertain. The pi's and gamma's are hard to distinguish. Attic gamma. Pi variable.

- B] Int.: BF: a satyr running with a drinking horn. Ext.: RF: between eyes: A: acontist. B: plant.
- C] Intr.: along margin, facing in, starting at right top: (X)(ε)λις (ε)πο[ιεσ]{ε(.)}(v).(1)

(1)I combine my reading from CV, pl. 96,3 [1] with CV's text [2] and ARV(2)'s [3]: the first letter is given as chi by [2] and [3], but the photo. [1] seems to show a kappa; the second letter is = four-stroke sigma in [1], the fifth is triangular [ibid.]. After επ..., [2] has [oi], [3] has o[i]. At the end, [1] seems to have ε plus a bit of a stroke(?) plus reversed nu; [2] gives εσ[εν] (but De Ridder apparently gives the nu), and [3] has εσ(v), I readε(.)(v).

- B] A: Eos pursuing Tithonos.(1) B: old man.
- C] A: Οιονοκλες | καλος.(2) B: Οιονοκλες καλος.(3)

D] Formerly read Dionokles.

(1)not Cephalus (Beazley). (2)so the facs. in de Ridder; apparently a non-stoich. two-liner. ARV(2) says the καλος is retr. and with disjointed alpha. (3)so ARV(2) and de Ridder's text. De Ridder's facs. has only the retr. καλος, which seems to belong on A.

- B] A: Danaus and Amymone (or a companion)? (a woman with a hydria fleeing to a man with his scepter). B: a woman fleeing.
- C] Nonsense: A: (π)ιγυ. (π)(σ)δι(σ). B: φυδε(.)(1) Under the foot, Gr: Δ.(2)

(1)done from the facss. in De Ridder, which are unreliable. (π): probably an 'arrow' gamma. The second letter of the second inscription is miswritten; the last letter is a sideways sigma. The last letter of the third inscription is a horizontal stroke. (2)not in TGV.

D] Beazley, VA attributed to the Meletos Painter; in ARV(1) to the early Achilles Painter.

(1)De Ridder's facs. gives one Attic and one Ionic lambda, ARV(2) gives both as Ionic. All other letters are compatible with Ionic.

Kretschmer, Vas. 171 and 190-91. JdI 11 (1896) 25-26, fig. 6 (A). De Ridder ii, p. 272 (facs.). ARV(2) 987/4, Para. 437, Add.(2) 311. Robertson, AVCA 195 (not ill.): *J.H. Oakley, The Achilles Painter (1997) 48, 115/4, fig. 24A (profile), pl. 5 (A and detail, inscriptions partly visible; B) (bibl.). J. Boardman, Athenian Red Figure Vases: the Classical Period (1989), fig. 110 (dr., after Mon.

ined. ii, pl. 14). LIMC 7, pl. 6, Oidipus 3.

- B] A: Euphorbos with the infant Oedipus. B: a man.(1)

(1)de Ridder thought it might be Polybus, but he has only a stick, not a scepter. (2)after Reichhold's dr.; de Ridder gives some odd letter forms.

Paris, Cab. Méd. 373.

- A] RF neck amphora. Oionokles Painter. Second quarter fifth. *De Ridder 272-74 (dr., fig. 54), pl. 12. *Caskey-Beazley, 2, 40 (mention). ARV(2) 648/33.
B] A: Hermes and the young Paris. B: a king.
D] A small vase. CB: the inscriptions are connected with London E 319, by the Briseis Painter [ARV(2) 409/50, CAVI 4569]: "the matter is the same (καλος four times, καλε once; καλος three times, καλε once) and the writing, with four-stroke sigmas and carelessness in the direction of the letters, the same." - Attic alphabet with four-stroke sigma.

(1)de Ridder's text gives κολος, and no more.

6127.

Paris, Cab. Méd. 387.

- A] Fr. of RF bell krater.(1) From Tarquinia. Dikaios Painter. Last quarter sixth. 510-500. *Photo. and dr. *Beazley, AJA 31 (1927) 347/7. De Ridder, Cat. ii, 281 (poor facs.). Hartwig, Meisterschalen 346, 1, 15. ARV(2) 31/5. 'Script' 412.
B] Komos: males and a naked woman.
C] To right of the woman's body: Λυσιλ·λ·α.
D] A hetaera. Sigma lying sideways. The upsilon is incomplete.

(1)rather than a calyx krater (Beazley).

6128.

Paris, Cab. Méd. 388.

- A] RF stamnos. From Vulci. Persephone Painter.(1) Third quarter fifth. *De Ridder ii, 281-83, fig. 58 (facs.) and pl. 13. ARV(2) 1012/5.
B] A: Castor and Pollux on horseback. B: a warrior, with two men.
C] A: Κασσωρ. Πολυδ(ε)υκ(ε)ς.(2)
D] After de Ridder's facs., which usually are not very accurate.

(1)"Akin to the Achilles Painter in spirit.", Beazley. (2)de Ridder gives the two epsilons without the vertical.

Paris, Cab. Méd. 421.+

- A] Frs. of RF calyx krater. From Tarentum. Polygnotos. Third quarter fifth. *De Ridder, Cat. ii, 311-312 (facs.; not ill.). *Bothmer, Amazons 181/57 (not ill.). ARV(2) 1030/30 (bibl.). S.B. Matheson, Polygnotos and Vase Painting in Classical Athens (1995) 353/P 34, pl. 167. LIMC i, 602 Amazonas 236.
- B] A: Theseus and the Amazons: a companion and Theseus; a mounted Amazon. B: A Warrior Leaving Home.
- C] A: Φαλε[ρ]ος. [Θεσε]υ[ς]. [Αντ]ιοπ[ε]α.(1)
- D] + part of Cab. Méd. 420.

(1)so Bothmer; de Ridder claims there is not enough room for an iota and reads: [Αντ]ιοπ[ε]α.

6130.

Paris, Cab. Méd. 423.

- A] RF bell krater.(1) From Cumae. Group of Polygnotos. Third quarter fifth. *De Ridder, Cat. ii, 314-15 (facs.). ARV(2) 1055/72, Add.(2) 322. *S.B. Matheson, Polygnotos and Vase Painting in Classical Athens (1995) 211, 462/PGU 83, pl. 163. LIMC ii, 762 Eos 100; v, pl. 603 Kallimachos 1.
- B] A: Eos and Cephalus: Eos running after the hunter Cephalus (with pilos and spears); at left, a companion running away. B: three youths.(2)
- C] A: the inscriptions above the heads: Καλλι[μ]αχος.(3) A bit to right of the top of Eos' head: Εως. Above Cephalus' head: Κεφαλος.
- D] Done from the facs. in de Ridder and the ph. in Matheson.

Paris, Cab. Méd. 424.

- A] RF bell krater. From Cumae. Hector Painter. Third quarter fifth. *De Ridder, Cat. ii, 315-16 (not ill.; bibl.). ARV(2) 1036/12. LIMC iv, pl. 587 Demeter 365. T. Hayashi, Bedeutung und Wandlung des Triptolemosbildes (1992), cat. no. 113.
- B] A: Demeter with a plough; Persephone with a torch; Triptolemos in the winged car. B: a boy with a lyre and two youths.
- C] A: to right of Demeter's head: καλη. Triptolemos: καλος.

Paris, Cab. Méd. 429.

- A] RF bell krater. Pothos Painter. Ca. 430-420. *De Ridder, Cat. ii, 321-22 (not ill.). ARV(2) 1189/18, Add.(2) 342.
- B] A: Apollo seated, with satyrs and maenads. B: three youths.
- C] A: above the left pair of satyr and maenad: καλος.

6133.

Paris, Cab. Méd. 440.

- A] RF hydria (kalpis). Syleus Painter. First quarter fifth. *De Ridder, Cat. ii, 331-32 (facss.; not ill.). ARV(2) 252/51, Add.(2) 203.

- B] Zeus entrusting the infant Dionysus to the Nymphs.
- C] Nonsense? Above the head of a seated nymph, in a curve: five letters. By Zeus, two vertical inscriptions: five letters and four letters.
- D] The facss. in de Ridder are unreliable and not copied here. He reads the first as καλος, the second as Διον[υ]σοος, and the third as Ζευς(?).

Paris, Cab. Méd. 445.

- A] RF hydria. Unattributed. Date? The ff. include the alien frs. here listed as 'Cab. Méd. 445 (part)': *De Ridder, Cat. ii, 339-41, fig. 75, pl. 18 (bibl.). CIG 4.8393. Milliet-Giraudin ii, pl. 86.
- B] The ff. is taken from de Ridder: shoulder: four Hesperides; hand and club of Heracles. Body: palmettes.
- C] Shoulder: in addition to the inscriptions cited under 445 (part), de Ridder has: on one fr.: AK, on another: Λ. Read by de Ridder: [ηερ]ακλ[εϛ].

Paris, Cab. Méd. 445 (part).

- A] Frs. of RF pot. Manner of Kleophon Painter.(1) Third quarter fifth. *ARV(2) 1150/29. De Ridder ii, 340, above, left.(2) Beazley Archive db, no. 215,240. S.B. Matheson, Polygnotos and Vase Painting in Classical Athens (1995) 429/KLM 39 (not ill.; no bibl. other than ARV(2)).
- B] Fr. a: head and shoulder of a youth. Fr. b: upper part of a woman in a peplos.(3)
- C] Fr. a: ..ετ ολ...(4) Fr. b: Νικη.
- D] Two frs. built into the alien hydria Cab. Méd. 445, q.v. above.

(1)may be by the painter himself. (2)so Beazley. (3)"the fragment with the open hand does not belong," (Beazley). (4)so Beazley: I do not know how to interpret this.

6136.

Paris, Cab. Méd. 455.

- A] RF hydria. Unattributed. Second half fifth. *De Ridder, Cat. ii, 346, fig. 78. Mon. iv, pl. 47.
- B] Above one handle, a small Eros, seated; a seated woman with a mirror; a wreathed and bearded man; a woman with a kalpis; a box above a handle.
- C] Ερωϛ. καλος. καλα.(1)

(1)so de Ridder, no doubt wrongly for the third word.

6137.

Paris, Cab. Méd. 458.

- A] RF oinochoe. From Cervetri. Unattributed.(1) Altenburg Class. 530-520. *CV, France 10, III I b, pl. 96,4-6. *De Ridder, Cat. ii, 349 (facss.), fig. 80 (dr.). ARV(2) 12/10, ABV 422/6, Para.

181, 321, Add.(2) 109, 151.

- B] Fight of Achilles and Hector (who is on his knees).
- C] To right of Achilles' face: Αχιλλεὺς. To right of Hector's head and arm: ἠκτόρ, retr. On Achilles' left: χαίρετον, retr. Between his legs: πολαί, retr.?(2)

(1)listed among "sundry very early red-figure pots" in ARV(2).
(2)so CV, reading χαίρετον πολ·λαί; de Ridder has: πουδι, and reads: χαίρετον πολύ. Clearly, a better reading is needed.

6138.

Paris, Cab. Méd. 465.

- A] RF oinochoe. Near Curtius Painter. Third quarter fifth. *De Ridder, Cat. ii, 351-52 (not ill.). ARV(2) 935/5.
- B] A draped youth; tablets; at left, a dog.
- C] καλο[s].

6139.

Paris, Cab. Méd. 477.

- A] WG squat lekythos. Unattributed. Date? *De Ridder, Cat. ii, 356-59 (facs.), pl. 19 (some bibl.).
- B] A woman with torch and phiale.
- C] Nonsense: υ(α)υσ(?).(1)
- D] Four-stroke sigma with a squiggle at the bottom. The other letters are unclear.

(1)read upside down by de Ridder, who suggests: παυς.

6140.

Paris, Cab. Méd. 487.

- A] RF lekythos. From Sicily. Bowdoin Painter. 480-470. *Musée Departemental des Antiquités, Rouen, Hommes, Dieux et Héros de la Grèce (exhibition 10/23, 1982 - 1/31, 1983) 159/67. De Ridder, Cat. 361-62. ARV(2) 684/153, Add.(2) 279.
- B] A young victor holding sprigs and decked with fillets; on either side, a pillar (terma); behind that on the right, half of a discus is visible, perhaps showing an owl.
- C] On the discus, three dots which according to the Rouen cat. imitate an inscription (which is likely).

6141.

Paris, Cab. Méd. 490.

- A] RF squat lekythos. From Sicily. Unattributed. Date? *De Ridder, Cat. ii, 363, fig. 83 (dr.).
- B] Nike with a wreath; youth.
- C] Between the lower parts of the figures, imitation letters: two-liner, perhaps near-stoich.: γ(π)υ(σ)(σ) | γ(π)σ(.)?(1)
- D] Read by me as in the Attic alphabet, which perhaps it is not.

(1)from the dr., a very poor reading.

Paris, Cab. Méd. 492.

- A] Polychrome lekythos.(1) Diosphos Painter (Haspels). First quarter fifth. *CV, France 10, III I a, pl. 95,1,3-4. De Ridder, Cat. ii, no. 482, fig. 84 (dr.). Six, Gaz. arch. (1888) 206, pl. 21 bis. Pfuhl, M&Z i, 335, para. 352. Haspels, ABFL 236/96. Beazley Archive db, no. 14,032.
- B] A satyr pursuing a naked maenad.
- C] Many meaningless inscriptions. One: χε(.)υ.(2)

(1)so CV. I.e., Six' technique and WG. (2)so CV, text.

6143.

Paris, Cab. Méd. 493.

- A] Polychrome lekythos.(1) Unattributed. Date? *CV, France 10, III I a, pl. 95,2,5,10 (bibl.). De Ridder, Cat., no. 493, fig. 85.
- B] A youth leading a horse.
- C] Nonsense: imitation letters: to left of the youth's head: 6 letters. Above the horse's head: seven letters in a wavy line.
- D] Vertical strokes and some Attic lambdas; also V-shpaed upsilons and x-shaped chi's.

(1)so CV.

6144.

Paris, Cab. Méd. 494.

- A] WG lekythos. Carlsruhe Painter. Second quarter fifth. *Fairbanks, Ath. Lekythoi (1907), Gp A, Class 2/18 (not ill.). De Ridder, Cat. ii, 365-66 (facs.; not ill.). ARV(2) 734/88, Add,(2) 283.
- B] Artemis with bow and arrow; a deer.
- C] At left and at right: καλε ηε πας.

6145.

Paris, Cab. Méd. 508.

- A] RF alabastron. Unattributed. Second quarter fifth. *De Ridder, Cat. ii, 373 (facs.; not ill.). W. Fröhner, Les Musées de France (1872), pl. 40,2. Beazley, Panmaler 25 n. 59 (mention). Rodenwaldt, AA (1932) 19, top (mention). ARV(2) 1610.
- B] At extreme left: a small female servant to right, holding out an alabastron; a young woman, seated to right, holds out a wreath; on her right, a kalathos; at right, a youth facing.
- C] Above the kalathos, near left-aligned nonstoich. two-liner: ηε υυμφε | καλε.(1)
To right of the youth's lower body, vertically down, nearly left-aligned and nearly oblique stoich. two-liner: Τιμοδεμος | καλ^ος.
.....
. .. ^ . .(1)
The name fits the existing space exactly.
- D] Beazley, in 'Panmaler', points out that υύμφη here means the new bride ('Die Neuvermählfte'). The Timodemos without καλος on Louvre C 11,930, CAVI 6637, is later and another (ARV(2), ibid.). - A bridal scene: I have a note from Rebeca Hague-Sinos' ms. of her book on weddings (ch. 8, n. 34), which has now been published (with Oakley): ill. in fig. 12. The vase gives the groom's name [as a kalos] but not that of the bride. The name of the bride should not be mentioned: D. Schaps, CQ 1977, 323-30. A.H. Sommerstein, Quaderni di Storia 11 (1980) 393-409. H.-S. assumes tag-kalos.

De Ridder, Cat. ii, 391-93 (not ill., but some facss.). Bloesch, FAS 70/1. *ARV(2) 316/4, 1561, 1563, 1564, 1576, 1589, 1604, 1645, Para. 358, Add.(2) 214 (some bibl.). 'Script' 501. C. Bérard et al., A City of Images: Iconography and Society in Ancient Greece (tr. D. Lyons, 1989) 40, fig. 52 (Int.).
- B] Athletes: Int.: at right, two wrestlers, one throwing the other (who is upside down); at left, a young trainer. A: wrestlers, boxers. B: hoplitodromoi.
- C] Int.: Ασποκλες (young trainer). Euenor (wrestler). [A]ντιμαχ[ος] (wrestler). A: Kleiboulos (trainer). Phoinix (boy).(1) εανος.(2) Euagoras (bearded trainer). Timon (youth). Kleon (athlete). Επιχαρες, retr. (wrestler).(3) E[ρατο]σθενες. Kleisophos (trainer). Phormos (wrestler). Batrachos (wrestler). B: Αντιας (hoplitodromos). In two lines, the second word in smaller letters: Κεφισοφῶν|καλος.(4) Ambrosios (trainer). Δοροθεος, retr. and καλος. Batrachos (arming). καλος Ολυμπιοδορος. Under the foot, Gr.: ANI, retr.(5)
- D] Very much restored (repainted); the inscriptions now largely obliterated by repainting (ARV(2)). Done after de Ridder (whose readings are very poor) with corrections from ARV(2) so far as they are given. Tailed rho. CV, France 14, III H e, under pl. 93,1-5 (on Louvre MNC 332, CAVI 6707) mentions an inscription παῦσαι on Cab. Méd. 523, which is now invisible under repaintings: does it exist? Notes from Bérard's picture of the Int.: to left of the trainer's lower half, downward in a curve, and facing: Ασποκλες, retr. Above the feet of the 'upside-down' wrestler, in a curve, also upside down: Αντιμαχος, not retr. Of the third inscription only an omicron shows, below the two wrestlers. [I do not know to which wrestler each name attaches.]

(1)the facs. in de Ridder gives Φοινι. GAI i, 190 and 463, discusses this name as a doubtful occurrence of ει for ιΦοινεις(?). Ibid. mentions also a reading Χλισοφος (for Κλισοφος), once read but now painted over. Threatte thinks both are probably wrong readings. (2)de Ridder, text. (3)perhaps the father of the kalos Alkimachos (ARV(2) 1561). (4)tag-kalos, ARV(2) 1589. (5)Etruscan? Not in TGV.

- A] Frs. of RF cup. Part a: Oltos.(1) Part b: Ashby Painter.(2) Other: unattributed. a: last quarter sixth. b: first quarter fifth. *De Ridder, Cat. ii, 394-95, fig. 94 (all parts; dr.). Hartwig, Meisterschalen 389, 459-60, fig. 59 (part b). ARV(2) 58/52 (Oltos) and 455/11 (Ashby Painter).
- B] Part a: A: a horse. Part b: A: a man with stylus and tablets (i.e., writing); two males. So Beazley. De Ridder has in addition: Int.: head and back of a bearded man (hat on the back) to right. De Ridder also gives more figures for A and attributes part b to side B(?).
- C] Int.: --εσ(.).ε. Probably nonsense.(3)
- D] Obviously a pastiche. I assume that 525 includes frs. attributed to Oltos and the Ashby Painter, as well as other parts not attributed to any painter; the inscription is on an unattributed fr. Beazley Archive db, no. 212,622, has, under Cab. Méd. 525: RF cup fr., Ashby Painter, 500-450. ARV(2) 455/11. Subjects: Int.: draped youths, one leaning on staff, rock(?). [Ext.:?] draped men, one seated with writing tablet. A, B: draped youths, women. This is not clear either.

(1)early (Beazley). (2)late (Beazley). (3)the first and third letters are quite unclear in the poor dr. in de Ridder, which is the basis of the reading. De Ridder suggests καλος, but it looks more like [επ]οιεσε; it is probably meaningless.

Paris, Cab. Méd. 526 (part).+

- A] Frs. of RF cup. Onesimos (P). Euphronios potter. Ca. 500. Early (Beazley). Kretschmer, Vas. 147, 168. De Ridder, Cat. 395-96 (the pastiche). *ARV(2) 319/5 (much bibl. on the different frs.), Add.(2) 214. *Photos.
- B] Int.: a warrior holding out his helmet. A: Dolon, with Odysseus, Diomedes and Athena. B: uncertain subject: Agamemnon seated; legs of two males, foot of an animal.
- C] Int.: [E]υφρον[ιος εποιεσε]ν. A: Ολυ(τ)κ(τ)ευ(ς), retr. [Δο]λῶν, retr. Διομ(ε)δες, retr. B: Α[γ]αμεμῶ[ν], retr., for Αγαμεμνῶν. Under one handle: [Eυφρ]ονιος and below it: [εποι]εσεν.
- D] + Cab. Méd. 743, 553, L 41, Tarquinia and other frs. (see ARV(2)). The tau is miswritten.

6160.

Paris, Cab. Méd. 530.

- A] Frs. of RF cup. Unattributed. Date? *De Ridder, Cat. ii, 397-98, fig. 96.
B] Int.: a draped youth. A: a wrestler on the ground; a draped figure; part of a trainer.
C] Int.: κα[λος].

6161.

Paris, Cab. Méd. 531.

- A] Frs. of RF cup. Unattributed. Date? *De Ridder, Cat. 398-99, fig. 97 (dr.).
B] Int.: left part: rear end of a horse; shoulder and axe of an Amazon(?). A: rear end of a horse; another horse; pillar; legs of a man in Thracian costume.

(1)de Ridder gives [καλ]ος, which must be wrong. It looks like: ho(π)α[ις...], but de Ridder's drs. are very poor.

6162.

Paris, Cab. Méd. 532.+

- A] Frs. of RF cup. Ashby Painter. First quarter fifth. *De Ridder, Cat. ii, 399-401, fig. 98 (incomplete). ARV(2) 455/10, 1654, Add.(2) 243.
B] Int.: a man (judge?) binding a young athlete with a fillet. A-B: athletes (parts).
C] Int.: [h]ο π[α]ις κα[λος].(1)
D] + four other frs.

(1)de Ridder (may be incomplete).

Paris, Cab. Méd. 535.+

- A] Frs. of RF cup. From Tarquinia. Kleophrades Painter. Ca. 500. Early (Beazley). *Beazley, Der Kleophrades-Maler (1933) 17-18, pls. 8, 10, 1, 11-12, 15, 1-7 and 30, 5. CIG 4.8138. *J. Six, RM 3 (1888) 233-234. De Ridder, Cat. i, 401-403 (facs.); ii, 455 (699; not ill.). *Hartwig, Meisterschalen 123 and 400-406, pl. 37, 1-2. Beazley, JHS 30 (1910) 43/7 and 38. Bothmer, Amazons 132/9 (not ill.). ARV(2) 191/103, Add.(2) 189. *Bothmer, JPaulGettyJ 9 (1981) 1-4. 'Script' 430. Robertson, AVCA 56.
B] Int.: a young warrior putting on his greaves. A-B: Heracles and the Amazons.
D] + 699 and other frs. Four-stroke sigma in the signature only. Robertson gives the history of Hartwig's attribution of the signature to a younger Amasis. Robertson 84 says that this and no. 536+ (below) are a pair of cups, one of which is inscribed with Kleophrades' signature, just like the pair by Douris, Berlin 2283, CAVI 2328, and 2284, CAVI 2329.

(1)so Beazley, Kl. [699 has a sigma, according to de Ridder.]
(2)so Bothmer; Beazley has $\eta\epsilon[\rho\alpha]κ\lambda\epsilon\epsilon[\varsigma]$. (3)Beazley notes (as had Six) that exactly seven letters are missing. The last letter is fragmentary, but a certain sigma. The above reading is Bothmer's in GettyJ. Earlier readings are: $\text{Κλεοφραδες εποιησεν. Αμασ[ις εγραφοε] or [εγραφ]σ[ε]}$ Gerhard, revived by Hartwig. Αμασ[ις καλο]ς , O. Jahn, revived by Klein. Αμασ.....ς , Beazley, although he preferred Six' reading to Jahn's. Six read: Αμασ[ιος ηυυ]ς . Bothmer has now shown that the genitive should be in $-\text{ιδος}$. See further his article in JPauGettyJ.

- A] Frs. of RF cup. From Tarquinia. Kleophrades Painter. Ca. 500. Early (Beazley). *Beazley, Der Kleophrades-Maler (1933) 19-22, pls. 9, 10, 2, 13-14, 15, 8-12. De Ridder, Cat. ii, 403-404 (not ill.). Kretschmer, Vas. 203 and 238. ARV(2) 191/104 (much bibl.), Add.(2) 189. 'Script' 1006.
- B] Deeds of Theseus: Int.: Kerkyon. A: Minotaur; bull. B: Sinis; Skiron; Prokroustes.
- C] Int.: to left of Theseus' head: $\Theta\epsilon\sigma\epsilon\upsilon\varsigma$, retr. To right of Kerkyon's head and arm: Κερκυα[νευ]ς . (1) A: $[\Theta\epsilon\sigma\epsilon]υ\varsigma$. $[\text{M}]\iota\nu[\delta\ \tau\alpha\upsilon\rho\sigma]$. $[-]ς$. (2) $[\text{A}]\theta\epsilon\nu\alpha\alpha$. $[-]ο\varsigma$. B: $[\Theta\epsilon]σ\epsilon[υ\varsigma]$.
- D] + 647, 535 (part) and other frs.; see also ARV(2).

(1)on the form, see Kretschmer and GAI i, 130. (2)word end (Beazley). Is it the sigma of the Minotaur?

Paris, Cab. Méd. 537.+

- A] Frs. of RF cup. From Tarquinia? Douris. First quarter fifth. Early (period 1), Beazley. *De Ridder, Cat. ii, 404-405 (not ill.). ARV(2) 429/19, Add.(2) 236.
- B] Int.: Ajax with the body of Achilles. Ext.: unexplained subject.(1)
- C] Int.: $[\eta\sigma\ \pi\alpha\iota]ς\ \kappa[\alpha\lambda\omicron\varsigma]$.
- D] + Cab. Méd. 598.

(1)so ARV(2), q.v.; Gigantomachy(?), de Ridder.

6166.

Paris, Cab. Méd. 538.

- A] Fragmentary RF cup. Douris. Early fifth. Period 1 (B.). Transitional I (Rich) (B.-O.). *De Ridder, Cat. ii, 405-406 (not ill.). Bothmer, Amazons 143/26, 145-46, pl. 71, 3 (Int.). ARV(2) 428/16, Add.(2) 236. *D. Buitron-Oliver, Douris (Kerameus 9, 1995) 74/28, pl. 18.

- B] Int.: A Greek and an Amazon. A: unexplained subject (Achilles on Skyros?). B: fight: warrior; woman; man; warrior.
- C] Int.: $\text{ho } \pi\alpha\iota[\varsigma] \text{ } \kappa\alpha\lambda\omicron\varsigma$. A: $\text{ho } \pi\alpha\iota\varsigma \text{ } [\kappa]\alpha\lambda[\omicron\varsigma]$.
 $h[\omicron] \pi\alpha\iota\varsigma \text{ } \kappa[\alpha\lambda\omicron\varsigma]$.(1) B: ΘΗΟΝ [sic].(1)
- D] Beazley says he could not find a fr. figured in Mon. ined.

(1)de Ridder's readings seem unreliable. B.-O. has: Int.:
 $\text{ho } \pi\alpha\iota\varsigma \text{ } \kappa\alpha\lambda\omicron\varsigma$. A: $[h\omicron] \pi\alpha\iota\varsigma \text{ } \kappa\alpha\lambda[\omicron\varsigma]$. B: $\text{ho } \pi[\alpha\iota\varsigma \text{ } \kappa\alpha\lambda\omicron\varsigma]$.
[No nonsense given: Douris does not use nonsense so far as I recall, except for two nonsense letters added to $\kappa\alpha\lambda\omicron\varsigma$ in CAVI 1927.]

Paris, Cab. Méd. 539.

- A] RF cup. From Vulci. Douris (Beazley). Painter of London E 55 (Guy). First quarter fifth. Late (period 4), Beazley. *De Ridder, Cat. ii, 406-408 (facs. on p. 408). *Photo. ARV(2) 438/134, Para. 375, Add.(2) 239. *D. Buitron-Oliver, Douris (Kerameus 9, 1995) 87/E 11, pl. 125.
- B] Int.: Peleus and Thetis; at right, an altar. A: Return of Hephaestus. B: satyrs attacking maenads.
- C] Int.: on the left, written as one word: ΠΕΛΕΥΣ. ΘΕΤΙ(ς).(1)
- D] Mixed alphabet: Ionic lambda; three-stroke sigma. Stemmed upsilon with curved strokes.

(1)the spacing suggests that the final sigma of Peleus was added later; the final sigma of Thetis is in a smeared area and not clear in the photo., but is given in de Ridder's facs. B.-O., cat., has ΘΕΤΙ[ς].

6168.

Paris, Cab. Méd. 540.

- A] RF cup. Douris. First quarter fifth. Period 3 (Beazley). Middle period (B.-O.). *De Ridder, Cat. ii, 408-411, figs. 100-101, pl. 21. ARV(2) 435/93. *D. Buitron-Oliver, Douris (Kerameus 9, 1995) 81/139, pl. 80.
- B] Int.: komast: a bearded man with a stick and cup; at left, a flute case. A: two warriors leaving home; three bearded men; on the wall, two cups. B: a similar subject, no cups.
- C] Int.: $\text{ho } \pi\alpha\iota[\varsigma] \text{ } \kappa\alpha\lambda\omicron\varsigma$.

Paris, Cab. Méd. 542.

- A] RF cup. From Vulci. Douris. Python potter. 480-470. Late (Beazley). Late period (B.-O.). *Mon. ined. 5, pl. 35. *De Ridder, Cat. ii, 422-13 (facs.). CIG 4.8350. Kretschmer, Vas. 192. Hartwig, Meisterschalen 672 ff. Bloesch, FAS 99/27. ARV(2) 438/133, 1653, Para. 375, Add.(2) 239. Beazley, AJA 64 (1960) 219. 'Script' 979. *D. Buitron-Oliver, Douris (Kerameus 9, 1995) 83/178, pls. 100 and 145.
- B] Int.: Hera and Prometheus. A: Return of Hephaestus. B: komos.
- C] Int.: to right of Hera's face: ἠῆρα. To right of Prometheus' head and shoulder, along the margin: Προμεθ(ε)ς.(1) Under the foot, Gr.: monogram and ΛΛ|R.(2)

- D] For the subjects, Beazley refers to E. Simon, Opfernde Götter 90. Syllabic heta. Cartwheel theta. GAI i, 46 reads HPA, after Hoppin, RF i, 285/84, and explains it as η<ε>ρα (through carelessness). It is rather "syllabic" heta.

(1)the second epsilon unclear in the photo. (2)see the facs. in cat. Not in TGV.

- A] Frs. of RF cup. Manner of Douris.(1) Ca. 500. *De Ridder, Cat. ii, 413-414 (not ill.). JHS 10, pl. 2;(2) cf. Beazley, Kleophrades-Maler 19. ARV(2) 399, *448, 1566, 1569/26.
B] Int.: Dionysus, seated, and a maenad. A-B: satyrs and maenads.
C] A or B: Χ.....ρα.....τ.....ος.(3)
D] + Cab. Méd. 536 (part) and other frs.

(1)akin to the earliest work of Douris (Beazley). (2)combined with alien frs. (3)so ARV(2); remains of the kalos-name Chairestratos. A very unsatisfactory reading by Beazley.

Paris, Cab. Méd. 544 (part).+

- A] Frs. of RF cup. Related to Painter of Oxford Brygos. First quarter fifth. *De Ridder, Cat. ii, 414-15, fig. 102 (facs.); 418 (Int.). Hartwig, Meisterschalen 217-19, fig. 30a-b. *Bothmer, Amazons 153/84 and 159 (not ill.). ARV(2) 400.
B] Int.: arming. A: Amazons arming [= Hartwig, fig. 30a; this is the fr. discussed by Bothmer, p. 159]. B: arming: [so ARV(2); I do not understand de Ridder's division of A and B].
C] A: [καλ]ος(?).(1)
D] + Cab. Méd. 559. De Ridder's facs. is inaccurate.

(1)Bothmer. Hartwig had read a name like Hippothoe. De Ridder says he could see only a theta on his side B. De Ridder also read (on his side A) [κα]λος(?) in text, and [-]ιολ[-]ς retr., in the facs.

Paris, Cab. Méd. 546 (part).+

- A] Frs. of RF cup. Brygos Painter. - A] Fr. of RF cup (handle). From Tarquinia. Unattributed (handle only). Hieron potter. First quarter fifth. *ARV(2) 482/36. *De Ridder, Cat. ii, 417-19 (together with the rest of 558, see below; not ill.). *Photo. *Bothmer, 'Notes on Makron,' D. Kurtz and B. Sparkes, edd., The Eye of Greece (festschrift M. Robertson, 1982) 45. B. Cohen, 'The Literate Potter,' MetMusJ 26 (1991) 74 and n. 142.
B] No figured decoration preserved.
C] On the reserved part of handle, Dip.: hierōn : εποιεσεν.
D] Cohen discusses the painted signatures of Hieron, suggesting that the punctuation argues for the hand of Makron.

Paris, Cab. Méd. 558 (part 2).

- A] Frs. of RF cup. Unattributed. First quarter fifth. *De Ridder, Cat. ii, 417-19 (together with 558 (part 1), q.v.; not ill.).
B] Int.: a draped figure, seated. Ext.: parts of eight satyrs and seven maenads (also other frs. with maenads(1)).
C] Ext.: near the hand of the fifth satyr: [---]εο[---].

(1)all from one cup?

Paris, Cab. Méd. 561.+

- A] Frs. of RF cup. Makron. First quarter fifth. Still early (Beazley). *De Ridder, Cat. ii, 422-23, fig. 104 (part).

ARV(2) 468/143.

- B] Int.: the lower part of a woman. A: males and a woman.
- C] Int.: to left of her feet: h[ο παϊς καλός?] or: h[ε παϊς καλε?].
- D] + Cab. Méd. 711 and fr. perhaps from 560.

6178.

Paris, Cab. Méd. 562.+

- A] Frs. of RF cup. Near Painter of Munich 2676 (Brygan). First quarter fifth. Early (Beazley). *De Ridder, Cat. i, 423-24 (not ill.). ARV(2) 394/2 (ref. to a ph.).
- B] Int.: head of a seated woman; parts of a bearded man; strigil, aryballos, sponge.
- C] Int.: ho [παϊς] κα[λός].
- D] + two frs.

6179.

Paris, Cab. Méd. 568.

- A] Fr. of RF cup. Manner of Antiphon Painter. Ca. 480-470. Late (Beazley). *De Ridder, Cat. ii, 425 (not ill.). ARV(2) 345/75.
- B] Int.: a youth with an oinochoe and the himation over his shoulder, leaning on his stick; a pillar. A-B: athletes.
- C] Int.: [ho] παϊς [καλ]ός.

Paris, Cab. Méd. 570.+

- A] Frs. of RF cup. From Tarquinia. Unattributed. Brygos potter. Ca. 500.(1) *ARV(2) 399, 1650, Para. 369. 'Script' 543. *Bothmer, 'Notes on Makron,' D. Kurtz and B. Sparkes, edd., The Eye of Greece (festschrift M. Robertson, 1982) 46.
- B] Int.: a seated deity and Nike. A-B: divinities.
- C] On the handle: Βρ[---]. On the foot: Βρῦ[γος---].
- D] + 578, 580, and perhaps 722. The handle may not belong, but the foot no doubt does; the cup has no connection with the Brygos Painter (ARV(2)). See also 'Script', p. 88, where I say that the handle should perhaps be detached. The rho is triangular.

(1)"much earlier than the other cups with the signature of Brygos," Beazley.

Paris, Cab. Méd. 571.+

- A] Frs. of RF cup. Manner of Brygos Painter; related to Castelgiorgio Painter. First quarter fifth. *De Ridder, Cat. ii, 427-28, fig. 105 (one fr.); facs. p. 429. ARV(2) 386/(a).
- B] Int.: arrival of a youth?(1) A-B: Iliupersis: includes, on A, Neoptolemus seizing Priam by the arm, and, on B, Menelaus and Helen.(2)
- C] Brygan nonsense: A: to right of a column: (γ)ῦ[---].(3) Further: ῦῦ, ῦα and ῦ.(4)

(1)so ARV(2); not mentioned by de Ridder. Beazley says that the person greeting the youth may be male or female; he suggests Aegeus and Theseus and compares Louvre G 195, a very late skyphos by the Brygos Painter, ARV(2) 381/174. (2)de Ridder. (3)de Ridder suggests [Πρι]αμ[ος], which is highly unlikely. The gamma is disjointed. (4)so de Ridder in text. The inscriptions are probably all fragmentary.

- B] Int.: Dionysus with two satyrs. A: Dionysus with two satyrs and a maenad. B: three satyrs and three maenads.
 - C] A: ἡο παῖς καλός. B: καλός.
 - D] The inscriptions done after de Ridder, but the facss. are probably not reliable: the letter forms there are quite peculiar.

- A] Fr. of RF cup. Manner of Onesimos (P, manner). First quarter fifth. *ARV(2) 330/3. *De Ridder, Cat. 435-36 (not ill.)(1)
- B] Int.: a warrior pursuing a woman. A: unexplained subject (quarrel of Ajax and Odysseus?) [mostly feet are preserved.]
- C] A: [Ἀγαμέ]μνων(?), retr.(2)
- D] Beazley says that the Ext. "is extremely like the painter, the interior less so."

(1)according to Beazley in ARV(2), de Ridder couples the Ext. with an unrelated Int. [maenad and satyr.]; Beazley also refers to de Ridder, pp. 319-20/5 and 9. (2)Beazley's restoration.

- A] RF cup. From Vulci. Brygos Painter. First quarter fifth. *De Ridder, Cat 436-37 (facss.), pl. 21. ARV(2) 377/114, Para. 368, Add.(2) 226. A. Cambitoglou, The Brygos Painter (Sydney 1968) 34, pl. 8,2.
- B] Int.: a woman with a lyre at an altar; at left, a hamper. Ext.: plain.
- C] Int.: one inscription starts from the back of the head and runs along the margin. The other, similar, starts from the face.(1)

(1)de Ridder's facss. has ἡο παῖς for the first inscription, facing out, and καλός, facing in, for the second. But the photo. in Cambitoglou does not agree with this at all: nonsense letters (imitation)?

Paris, Cab. Méd. 587.+

- A] Fr(s). of RF cup. Brygos Painter. First quarter fifth. *De Ridder, Cat. ii, pp. 439 (and 453?). ARV(2) 377/108.
- B] Int.: komast: a bearded man (with his mouth open); in the field. a lyre. [A second lyre on 677?]
- C] 587: κ[αλός]. 677: [κ]αλός.(1)
- D] + 677? Beazley says: two frs.; 587 and 677? Both numbers are listed with question marks in the index, but I think the query in the text refers only to 677. The problem of combining the two frs. is that de Ridder lists each as having a lyre in the Int. picture: were there two lyres?

(1)is this one inscription, i.e. do the two frs. join?

Ridder, Cat. i, 473-76, figs. 111-12, pl. 22. ARV(2) 881/32
(bibl.). 'Script' 1106.
- B] Int.: a horseman. A-B: arming.
- C] Two-liners, apparently non-stoich. and probably horizontal:
Int.: $\eta\omicron\pi\alpha\iota(\varsigma)\mid\kappa\alpha\lambda\omicron(\varsigma)$. $h(o)(1)\pi\alpha\iota(\varsigma)\mid\kappa\alpha\lambda\omicron(\varsigma)$.
A: $[h]\omicron\pi(\alpha)\iota(\varsigma)(2)\mid[\kappa\alpha]\lambda\omicron(\varsigma)$. $\eta\omicron\pi\alpha\iota(\varsigma)\mid\kappa\alpha\lambda\omicron(\varsigma)$.
 $\eta\omicron\pi[\alpha\iota\varsigma]\mid\kappa\alpha\lambda\omicron(\varsigma)$. B: $[h]\omicron\pi\alpha\iota(\varsigma)\mid[\kappa\alpha]\lambda\omicron(\varsigma)$.
 $\eta\omicron(\pi)\alpha\iota(\varsigma)(3)\mid\kappa\alpha[\lambda]\omicron(\varsigma)$. $\eta\omicron\pi\alpha\iota(\varsigma)\mid\kappa\alpha\lambda\omicron(\varsigma)$.
- D] The readings are not always reliable. Mixed alphabet. Alpha variable; Ionic lambda; pi of odd shapes; sigma apparently always three-stroke but sideways.

(1)De Ridder shows an iota. (2)the alpha lacks the cross stroke.
(3)the pi is miswritten.

- A] RF cup. Ptr. of Brussels R 330 (Int.). Ptr. of London E 777
(A, B).(1) Second quarter fifth. *De Ridder, Cat. ii, 476-77, fig. 113, pl. 22 (Int., A). ARV(2) 929/80 (Ptr. Brussels R 330), 941/32 (Ptr. London E 777).
- B] Int.: a seated woman; a youth leaning on his stick. A: a youth leaving home: a woman; a youth with a spear (frontal, head to left); a woman; a youth leaning on his stick. B:
similar.
- C] Int.: between heads, in white: $\kappa\alpha\lambda\omicron\varsigma$. A: between the left woman and the left youth: $\kappa\alpha\lambda\omicron\varsigma$. Between the left youth and the right woman: $\kappa\alpha\lambda\eta$. To right of the right youth: $\kappa\alpha\lambda\eta$.
B: between the left woman and the left youth, at the height of the heads and close to the respective figures, in two horizontal lines: $\kappa\alpha\lambda\omicron\varsigma\mid\kappa\alpha\lambda\eta$:
back of the right youth's head: $\kappa\alpha\lambda\omicron(\varsigma)$.
- D] The inscriptions on A after de Ridder's text, those on B from the dr., fig. 113; their distribution is odd, especially on A. B: mixed alphabet: Ionic lambda and three-stroke sigma.

(1)Penthesileans. (2)the stoichedon is probably accidental.
(3)the lambda is incomplete.

B] Int.: a maenad. A: a man seizure a boy who holds a lyre (Hermes and Paris?, Beazley). B: a man with an oinochoe, and a woman.
C] A: two-liners: between the figures, stoich.:
ho παλς|καλος.(1) At right, non-stoich.(?):
κ(α)λος|h(o)(π)(α)λ(ς).(2) B: near the man, not a two-liner: ηο(π)αλ(ς) and καλος.(3)
D] The inscriptions after the facsimiles in de Ridder. In CB, Beazley notes that the inscriptions are similar to those on Boston 28.48. Mixed alphabet. Alpha variable and sometimes = delta; lambda Attic and Ionic; peculiar pi's; three-stroke sigma, once with a squiggle and sideways.

(1)in the text, de Ridder reads: ὁ παῦς καλός. (2)text: καλὸς ὁ [πα]ῦς. (3)text: ὁ παῖς καλός. I am not quite sure that my correlation of text and facsimiles is correct.

- B] Int.: a wreath of ivy leaves and berries; a satyr before a seated maenad who holds a thyrsus. A: a maenad; a youthful Dionysus (the head missing) with a thyrsus, seated; a maenad looking back. B: Eros flying, with a fillet; Ariadne with a fillet; another Eros, touching Ariadne's arm.
- C] The inscriptions are repainted. (1) Int.: καλος. (2) καλαι. (2) A: between the left maenad's head and the thyrsus: καλο[ς]. Between Dionysus and the right maenad's head: Διον[υ]σος. (3) B: Αριαδνα<v> καλαι. (4)
- D] Despite de Witte's confidence, I think the inscriptions may well be false (modern) or incorrectly restored. I suspect the whole vase is heavily restored.

(1)correctly, according to de Witte as reported by Oppermann (so de Ridder). (2)de Ridder, text. (3)so de Ridder's text; the facs. on p. 488 shows [Δ]ιονισος with three-stroke sigma twice, while the dr. of fig. 118 has four-stroke twice. (4)so de Ridder's text, surely misread; the facs. on p. 488 has: Α(ρ)ια(δ)να and καλαι. Originally reported as ΑΡΙΑΓΝΕ; see GAI i, 565.

However, the general aspect of the lettering resembles Boston 10.224, 'Script' 758, Fig. 138, CAVI 3765. Robertson: 'Pantoxena is beautiful in Corinth', referring to Corinth's fame for prostitutes, which the vase painter may have visited. Cf. also Robertson's translation of the inscription on Boston 10.224 (he does not know my article in Sprint Studies on Boston 10.224). Attic alphabet but with Ionic xi. - Is Κορίνθοι a place name or a personal name? In the entry for the fr. Boston 10.224 [CAVI 2765] I say that Robertson may be right with the former (this is also preferred by Pemberton and McPhee in ZPE) but the personal name in the dative would bring the phrase into conformity with the the common formula ὄ(or ἦ) δεῖνα καλός (-η) τῶι δεῖνα δοκεῖ. The second alternative is preferred in the index to the printout of CAVI. See now Kadmos 46 (2007) 175-76.

(1)after de Ridder, facs. on p. 498; the third line is only vaguely stoich., if the facs. is to be trusted.

Paris, Cab. Méd. 848.

- A] RF kyathos. Onesimos (P). First quarter fifth. Early (Beazley). *De Ridder, Cat. ii, 499-500, fig. 121, pl. 24. ARV(2) 329/135, Add.(2) 217.

- B] A satyr with kantharos and wineskin; a dancing maenad; a satyr with a drinking horn.
- C] To right of the left satyr's forehead: $\eta\epsilon\pi(\alpha)\iota\varsigma\kappa(\alpha)\lambda\epsilon$.
Further: $\eta\epsilon\pi\alpha\iota\varsigma$ and $\nu\alpha\iota\chi[\iota]$.
- D] The lettering as given in the facss. of de Ridder is very sloppy, especially for the second inscription. Alphas lack the cross stroke; the first pi is reversed, the second is shown as two vertical lines.

6231.

Paris, Cab. Méd. 849.

- A] RF kantharos. Penthesilea Painter. Second quarter fifth. *De Ridder, Cat., 500-501 (facss. 501). ARV(2) 889/167, Add.(2) 302.
- B] A: two pairs of satyr and maenad. B: three pairs of satyr and maenad.
- C] All inscriptions left-aligned and stoich. A: to right of the left satyr's head: $\eta\theta\pi\alpha\iota\varsigma|\kappa\alpha\lambda\omicron\varsigma$. To right of the second satyr's kantharos: $\eta\theta\pi\alpha\iota\varsigma|\kappa\alpha\lambda\omicron\varsigma$.(1) B: to right of the left satyr: $\eta\theta\pi\alpha\iota\varsigma|\kappa\alpha\lambda\omicron\varsigma$. To right of the second maenad: $\eta\theta\pi\alpha\iota\varsigma|\kappa\alpha\lambda\omicron\varsigma$. Near the third group: $\eta\theta\pi\alpha\iota\varsigma|\kappa\alpha\lambda\omicron\varsigma$.(2)
- D] Done after the facss. in de Ridder. The inscriptions are in the Attic alphabet and there is no confusion of letters, as elsewhere in the Penthesilea Painter.

(1)this inscription has careless omicrons and sigmas. The other inscriptions are apparently neat. (2)given in the facss., but not in the text.

Paris, Cab. Méd. 851.

- A] RF kantharos. From Vulci. Eretria Painter. Epigenes potter. Third quarter fifth. 435-430 (L.-H.). *De Ridder, Cat. i, 501-502 (facss.). Kretschmer, Vas. 75, 105, 174, 201. *ARV(2) 1251/41, 1688, Add.(2) 354. 'Script' 792. Branigan and M. Vickers, Hellas (1982) 65 (Nestor). Brommer, Vasenlisten(3) 340/B 1 and 461/B 2. *Lezzi-Hafter, Der Eretria-Maler (Kerameus 6, 1988) 25, fig. 4,h (detail, dr.), 290, fig. 96,b (sig.), 352/285, pl. 184 (traces of inscriptions).
- B] A: Patroclus and Antilochus departing from Nestor and Thetis. B: Achilles and Ukalagon departing from Agamemnon and Kymothea (a Nereid).
- C] A: $\text{Νεσστ}[\omicron\rho]$. $\text{Αντ}[\iota]\lambda\omicron\chi\omicron\varsigma$.(1) Πατροκλος .(2) Between Patroclus and Thetis, at mid-height, a horizontal left-aligned non-stoich. two-liner: $\text{Επιγενες}|\epsilon\pi\omicron\epsilon\omicron\epsilon$.(3) $(\Theta)\epsilon\tau[\iota\varsigma]$.(4) $[\text{Αγ}]\alpha\mu[\epsilon]|\mu\upsilon\delta\omicron\nu$.(5) B: To right of back of head: Αχιλλευς . Similar: $\text{Κυμο}(\theta)\epsilon\alpha$.(6) $[\text{Ο}]\upsilon\kappa\alpha\lambda\epsilon[\gamma]\delta\omicron\nu$.(7)
- D] Ex Luynes and Basseggio. Regular departure scenes made mythological by the inscriptions. Rare representations of events before the Trojan Wars. The readings are uncertain. Mixed alphabet: Ionic gamma and lambda; three- and four-stroke sigma.

(1)so de Ridder's text; the facss. has Αντλοχος . L.-H. reads

Αντιλοχος. (2)so the text; Πατροκλος, facs. (3)complete (Beazley). Photo. of signature: L.-H., Eret., pl. 184,B; dr.: fig. 96,b. (4)the theta lacks the dot in the facs. Θεις, L.-H. (5) L.-H., Eret. 291 n. 566: De Ridder, Cat. 502 says this inscription is false; L.-H. notes that it is in part above the head rather than beside it (as are the other inscriptions), but apparently she accepts it. (6)the theta lacks the dot in the facs. For Κυματοθεα(?). (7)Oukalegon in Iliad 3.146f. is a wise man (an old Trojan), which he is hardly here (L.-H., who thinks it odd here). υκαλεον, de Ridder who notes the previous restoration [O]υκαλε[γ]ον (cf. Il. 3.148), but is doubtful because of the spacing. Cf. also Malibu L.87.AE.120, CAVI 5034, where Oukalegon is a satyr.

Paris, Cab. Méd. 859.

- A] RF guttus. From Nola. Unattributed. Date? *De Ridder, Cat. ii, 505 (facs.), pl. 24.
- B] Sphinx; hare.
- C] On the bottom, Gr.: Αγεαγ(.)ε, retr.(?).
- D] I do not understand this Gr., which is certainly not Attic. Ionic gamma turned 90 degrees. (.) = two parallel vertical strokes. Not in TGV.

Paris, Cab. Méd. 866.

- A] RF plastic rhyton (head vase). Syriskos Painter. Vatican Class. First quarter fifth. 480-470 (Beazley, JHS). *De Ridder, Cat. ii, 508-509, fig. 123. Milliet-Giraudon iii, pls. 119A and 122A. *Beazley, JHS 49 (1929) 60/1 (not ill.). ARV(2) 265/80, 1538/1.
- B] Plastic: heads of Heracles and a woman. Neck: A: a man (Zeus?) seated, with a phiale and stick; Nike pouring from an oinochoe into the phiale; youth tending phiale. B: youth with stick; youth; youth with stick.
- C] Neck: A: four times καλος and the like. B: similar.(1)
- D] The facss. in de Ridder show all kinds of letter forms and inscriptions that frequently, but not always, resemble καλος. There are eight inscriptions in all.

(1)so Beazley in JHS.

Paris, Cab. Méd. 932.

- A] RF bell krater. Painter of Würzburg 523 (Corbett).(1) Early fourth. *Beazley, AJA 45 (1941) 597/8 (not ill.). TGV 162/14F 16. ARV(2) 1415/bottom.
- B] A: Dionysus seated, with maenads and satyrs. B: three youths.
- C] Under the foot, Gr.: οξυβ<β>αφα: ΔΔΔΔ.(2)
- D] A small vase. A batch notation: 40 oxybapha. The oxybaphon was probably a small handleless bowl; see TGV, p. 229.

(1)Manner of the Meleager Painter. (2)the interpoint consists of two short diagonal strokes.

Paris, Cab. Méd. H 2985.

- A] BF/WG lekythos. Athena Painter (Haspels). First quarter fifth. *CV, France 10, III J a, pl. 84,5-6. Haspels, ABFL 257/76. Beazley Archive db, no. 11,337.
- B] Palaestra: javelin thrower; trainer; flautist; runner.
- C] Four or five imitation inscriptions; see the facs. and photos in CV.

6237.

Paris, Cab. Méd. L 114(?).+

- A] Frs. of RF cup. Probably by Foundry Painter.(1) First quarter fifth. *De Ridder, Cat. ii, 441-42 (593 only; not ill.). ARV(2) 404/top.
- B] Int.: symposium: a man reclining and a youth playing flutes. A-B: symposium (593 shows a draped figure on a couch).
- C] Int.: [καλ]ος.(2)
- D] + Cab. Méd. 593 and 766.

(1)so ARV(2); attributed to the Brygos Painter by Beazley in ARV(1) and in Studies Robinson. (2)de Ridder.

Paris, Louvre.

- A] RF fr. Unattributed. Last half sixth. *Photo.
- B] Middle part of a maenad with a thyrsus.
- C] Fr. a: to lower right of the maenad: Καλλιχορα, vertically down and retr. (not facing).(1)
- D] Pape gives Καλλιχορα as woman's name from 'Inscr. 4.7592.Sp<ater>' and Καλλιχορη as a nurse of Dionysus from Nonnus 14.221. The position of this inscription in relation to the extant figure is peculiar: does it refer to her, or to another? The name is not listed by C. Fränkel or Kossatz-Deissmann as a maenad name.

(1)the fr. breaks off at the alpha.

Paris, Louvre.

- A] Fr. of BF Nikosthenic neck amphora. Nikosthenes potter. 530-520. *Vidi.
- B] Satyrs and maenads.
- C] Above the figures, near the neck: [Νικοσθ]ερες εποισεν.
- D] A large fr. [I think that this fr. is probably incorporated in a more complete vase: I could not find it as a fr. in Beazley. It might possibly be part of Louvre C 10,526, CAVI 6584.]

6240.

Paris, Louvre.

- A] Fr. of BF Panathenaic amphora. Leagros Group.(1) Last quarter sixth. 510-500. *ABV 369/117.

- B] B: a discus thrower and javelin thrower; two trainers.
C] [κ]αλο(ς).(2)

(1)related to the Acheloos Painter (Beazley). (2)the sigma printed as < in ARV(2).

6241.

Paris, Louvre.

- A] Fr. of BF pelike(?). Unattributed. Last quarter sixth. *Caskey-Beazley ii, 5 (not ill.). ABV 674 (mention).
B] A: athletes: discobolus; flautist; acontist with the right leg frontal.
C] A: The discobolus: [Σο]στρατος.(1) The acontist: [Χσα]θηπιπος.(2)
D] Both restorations are uncertain.

(1)CB prints the final sigma as reversed. (2)perhaps the father of Pericles (Beazley in CB).

Louvre E 734.

- A] BF hydria (kalpis). Connected with Sappho Painter's work (Haspels).(1) Ca. 500. *Photo. *Boardman, BSA 50 (1955) 62/under 28 (mention). Morin-Jean, Dessin des animaux (1911) 138, fig. 153. Haspels, ABFL 116.
B] Shoulder: two lions devouring a bull (to left).
D] Boardman's reading agrees with mine; hence I have identified the original CAVI 6242 vase with Louvre E 734.

(1)Sappho Painter (Boardman) [I think]. Near Sappho Painter (Beazley's note with a photo., but not in ABV or Para.)
(2)so my reading (as probable); Boardman: λοσ.

6243.

Paris, Louvre.

- A] Fr. of RF cup. Euergides Painter. Last quarter sixth. *Beazley JHS 33 (1913) 350/18.
B] A: head of a young warrior with Corinthian helmet, spear and shield (device: a polyp).
C] ho[---].
D] I have been unable to identify this fr. with any vase by the Euergides Painter listed in ARV(2) unless it is part of Louvre C 10,870+ (ARV(2) 90/38).

6244.

Paris, Louvre.

- A] Fr. of RF cup. Unattributed. First quarter fifth. *ARV(2) 1566/middle.
B] A: back of a male bending over.
C] [---]τα[---].(1)

(1)Beazley suggests: [Αρι]τα[γορας]. With or without καλος(?).

6245.

Paris, Louvre.

- A] RF fr. From Antibes. Unattributed. 450-400 (Bea. Arch.).
*Beazley Archive db, no. 15,453. Antike Welt 10 (1984) 59, fig. 3.
- B] Aphrodite.
- C] Aphrodite.(1)

(1)the spelling is unknown to me.

6246.

Paris, Louvre.

- A] Plastic vase (two heads: man and woman). Unattributed. 450-400
(Bea. Arch.). *Beazley Archive, no. 16,324. RA 1900, II, pl.
13 (A). A. Furtwängler, Neuere Fälschungen von Antiken
(Leipzig 1920) 20, fig. 17; 21, fig. 18 (A, B, Profile).
- B] No figured decoration mentioned.
- C] Kleomenes Nikiou Athenaios epoie.
- D] Furtwängler declared the vase a forgery.

6247.

Paris, Louvre 622.

- A] Plain lip cup. Unattributed. Third quarter sixth. *Vidi.
- B] No figured decoration.
- C] A: χαίρε : και πει ευ.(1) B: not seen.
- D] Much restored: the writing is very large and does not resemble the usual writing on LM cups; but some of it must be genuine.

(1)partly restored, in particular the interpoint and the following letter(?).

Paris, Louvre A 258.

- A] RF bell krater. From Curium. Orestes Painter. Third quarter fifth. *CV, France 5, III I d, pl. 23,9,12. ARV(2) 1113/10.
- B] Youth on a two-horse chariot; behind, another youth. B:
a woman between two youths.
- C] Two-liner, in white: Μεγακλης | καλος.
- D] A later Megakles, not otherwise known: see Davies, APF 381, Megakles VI.

Paris, Louvre AM 1371,1.

- A] Fr. of BF lip cup. Unattributed. Third quarter sixth. *Photo.

- A] SOS amphora. From Cervetri. Unattributed. Late seventh or early sixth. *BSA 73 (1978) 120, fig. 7a. *BSA 50 (1955) 69/5, fig. 1,3. LSAG 77/10C, pl. 2. 'Script' 34.

B] No figured decoration.

C] Gr.: Μυρμεξος.

D] = C 2429. Johnston in BSA 73 dated 'not early, probably sixth,' but the letter forms suggest a seventh-century date. For Myrmex see Pape and LGPN ii; the name is originally heroic. Clotheline script (see 'Script', p. 17).

A] BF column krater. Ptoon Painter. Second quarter sixth. *TGV 161/13F 8, 177/subs. list 1, 2. CV, pls. 158,4,6 and 160. ABV 83/1, Para. 31.

B] A: symposium. B: a swan between sphinxes. Under the handles and below: animals.

C] On the lip, Gr.: $\Phi\circ\langle\rangle$.

D] No doubt for Κορινθιοργής, the word for column krater. $\Phi\circ\langle\rangle$ is also found on Dublin, University College 114, TGV 161/13F 9, fig. 13,a, a BF cup, ca. 500.

A] BF hydria. Lydos. Second quarter sixth. Very early (Beazley). *TGV 141/15E 9; fig. 9,p; pl. 12; p. 216. ABV 108/13, Add.(2) 29.

B] Shoulder: a fawn between panthers. Body: a horseman leading a void horse; men and women.

C] Under the foot, Gr.: λεξε, retr.

D] See the commentary on this word, which Johnston considers unexplained, on p. 216. Unlocated, TGV 141/15E 10 [not in CAVI] has a similar word, which Beazley read with a tau rather than a xi [but it could be the same].

6255.

Paris, Louvre E 830.

- A] BF neck amphora (Tyrrhenian). Guglielmi Painter (Bothmer). Middle period (K.). Third quarter sixth. 550-530. *CV, France 1, III H d, pl. 2,1-7. ABV 102/105, Para. 39. 'Script' 192. J. Kluiver, BABESCH 71 (1996) 21/210 (inscrr. not mentioned), fig. 25 (shows inscriptions on B, small).
- B] Komos (obscene): A: men and women dancing. B: men, youths and women dancing.
- C] Nonsense: A: (ο)ονοι. νον. γον(.). B: similar inscriptions. Under the foot, Dip. in red: M. See TGV 99/13B 10.
- D] The first letter of the first inscription is a round blob.

ABV 103/108, Para. 39, Add.(2) 27. 'Script' 207. J. Kluiver, BABESCH 71 (1996) 9 and 21/211 (inscrr. not mentioned), fig. 24 (shows inscriptions on A), and pp. 21, 24 and n. 246 (discussion of 'signature').
- B] A: Dionysus and maenads. B: fight, with women watching.
- C] B: nonsense: ποειε. διεσ[-], retr. Under the foot, Dip.: a trace; see TGV 182/52.(1) K., with Ruigh's agreement, reads a signature: between the heads of the combatants, near horizontal: Διες, retr., and between their legs, bearing downward: ποετες. [I am very doubtful: I agree that the first letter of the 'name' is a delta (of shape S 1 in the chart in 'Script') and the ending suggests a name. But the fourth letter of the other word appears in K.'s photo. (fig. 24) as an iota, and I am not aware of the noun ποιητής as a substitute for ἐποίησεν on vases. The painter may be playing with a signature or the similarities may be coincidental.]

(1)CV gives ΓΑ, retr. "Much restored," Beazley.

- B] A: Amazonomachy. B: horsemen.
C] A: nonsense: τυνο. αυτ(.)(.). τυοι.(1)

(1)so CV. My readings differ: three inscriptions: between legs of two figures: οντρ(ο) [abuts a leg]. Between a leg and a shield: ονο. Under a shield: τυοι.

Paris, Louvre E 834.

- A] BF neck amphora (Tyrrhenian). Kyllenios Painter. (Para. lists as Kyllenios Painter (att. by Bothmer), Kluiver lists as Guglielmi Painter, att. by Bothmer!). Second quarter sixth. 560-550. Middle Period (K.). *CV, France 1, III H d, pl. 2,5,11. ABV 100/69, Para. 38. 'Script' 179. *Vidi (A). J. Kluiver, BABESCH 71 (1996) 21/205 (inscr. not mentioned), fig. 27 (left part of B [my A], shows some inscriptions).
B] A: a fight of six hoplites. B: a battle of seven. Below, three friezes.
C] Nonsense: A: three inscriptions: between the legs of two figures: νονοφισ. Between the legs of a third figure: νοφ(ο)ν.(1) Between the legs of two figures: νουσοφ.(2) B: τυοφν. γον. νονυ. νουυ.
Photos. seem to show: A: νονοφισ. νοφιν. νοουοφ.
D] The readings on B done after CV; they are rather unreliable. The readings on A are corrected from autopsy.

(1)a very flat soft-curved sigma, reversed; it could be an iota. (2)The inscriptions are on the left side of the figures.

Kluiver, BABESCH 71 (1996) 2/117 (inscr. not mentioned), figs. 1-4 (A, B, sides; 1, 3-4, show inscriptions small).
B] A: fight: three duels. B: horse race: three horses to right; at left, a tripod.
C] A: nonsense: eight (not seven) nonsense inscriptions. Between the B/A handle and the leftmost warrior, vertically down: 9 letters and two blotches. Between his legs, horizontal: οστυφοο, complete. To right of his head, curved: several letters. Between the legs of the second and third warriors, interrupted by the former's leg, diagonally downward: (χ)σσοσ^λ(.)σκ, retr., complete. To right of the third warrior's face, diagonally downward: four letters. Between the middles of the fourth and fifth warrior, downward: four letters. Between the legs of the fifth warrior, bearing upward: (.)εσν(.)σσ^σ.(1) Between the legs of the sixth warrior, horizontal but slightly curved: at least seven letters (the ph. is unclear).

(1)the first letter is a vertical stroke; the fifth is similar but seems to have a small 'head' at the upper left. A leg intervenes.

ABV 100/72, Add.(2) 27. Beazley Archive db, no. 310,071. J. Kluiver, BABESCH 71 (1996) 17/184 (inscriptions not mentioned), figs. 19-21 (19 is a detail of A showing one nonsense inscription).
- B] A: three pairs of warriors fighting. B: komos (4 men and a woman dancing, between sphinxes). Below: A, B, each: two animal friezes.
- C] A: three nonsense inscriptions between legs: the second inscription: χικσφλ.(1)

(1)This inscription is visible in CV, pl. 7,1. The others, as given in CV, are not worth reporting.

- B] A: Amazonomachy. B: horsemen.
- C] A: nonsense: between the second figure's legs, bearing downward: six letters retr., beginning with digamma 2 (in chart in 'Script'). Between the legs of a fourth figure, bearing slightly downward: five letters, retr., the last lambda 1. Between the head of an Amazon and a falling Greek, diagonally downward: $\text{f}\text{f}(\text{o})\text{f}$. retr.(1)
- D] CV's readings are not worth repeating. The vase has since been cleaned.

(1)K., p. 29 argues about the digammas, thinking (with Ruijgh's approval), that they are miswritten kappas. It is true that they look a bit like that on this vase. [I wonder if we are not dealing here and elsewhere with letters of an indetermined shape (i.e., letters the painter did not know the proper identification of) as I think there are no 'good' kappas in these inscriptions.]

- B] A: two Gorgons, fleeing; at right, Hermes. B: warriors between horsemen.
- C] A: behind (to left of) Hermes' face: $\eta\epsilon\rho\mu(\epsilon)\varsigma$, (1) retr. Four(?) nonsense inscriptions. Three are: by a winged creature at left: $(\nu)\nu\theta(\lambda)\iota\upsilon\omicron\iota$. (2) By the two Gorgons, horizontal: $\nu\omicron\iota\omicron\zeta\upsilon$ and $\nu\omicron\zeta\upsilon\omicron\gamma\omicron\iota\omicron$.
- D] Restored: see AA 1923-24, 64 (ABV). I do not repeat the readings in CV's text, except for Hermes, which is given as $\eta\epsilon\rho\mu\iota\varsigma$, with three-stroke sigma reversed.

(1)the epsilon is apparently miswritten as a slightly curved iota. (2)so my reading; from CV, I read: $(\nu)\nu\theta(\lambda)\iota\upsilon\omicron\iota$. The first letter may be a reversed nu or a sideways sigma.

- D] A small BF neck amphora. Para. 37/33 erroneously says that Bothmer attributed the vase to the Castellani Ptr., whence Immerwahr, 'Script' 202, and Boardman, ABFV, fig. 59, also att. to the Castellani. Corrected by Bothmer in CV, USA 16, New York 4, p. 3, who att. to the Prometheus Painter.

- C] Int.: nonsense inscriptions poorly reported in CV: to left of the man's face, in a downward curve: ΑΓΒΞΜΑΦ(.)(.), retr.(1) (combining autopsy with the photo. in CV). CV's text tries to read Αλεξ<ι>μα(χ)ος. To right of the man's head, similarly curved: [-]υκφβ(ατ), the last two letters upside down. A third inscription is between the man's legs. Ext.: inscriptions well-spaced on the lip, going partly under the handles: A: Beazley's reading in JHS: καλόν εἶμι τὸ ποτῆριον καλόν. B: nonsense: given as repetition of καν not less than three times.
- D] Restored. I suspect use of the Corinthian alphabet, as the use of beta (and of course xi) would be very unusual in Attic nonsense.

 B: ουεχευγκκ(ο)φχφχεκχφχεχ(ψ)κχευα.(2)
 D] B: large and very clear letters. Digamma may be for epsilon. One omicron on A looks like koppa with a very short foot; on B there are definitely two koppas. Pottier, in CV, thinks the inscriptions may perhaps be imitation of the cackle of the hen. They have sometimes been explained as onomatopoeic: see CV, Louvre 8, III H e, pl. 77,8, and Hampe, AM 60-61 (1935-36) 295/23. Neither explanation seems valid.

B] Int.: BF: a bearded komast running. Ext.: RF: between eyes: A: a naked youth running. B: a ram.
C] Int.: starting below the komast's legs and curving upward along the margin to near his left shoulder:
vacat <κοσθενες υ. εποι<εσεν> vacat. I.e.:
<Νικοσθενες εποι<εσεν>. (2)
D] At ARV(2) 161/1, Beazley says that the inscription is complete aft and probably also fore; there is just room for the first two letters in the missing patch to the right of the komast's ham, but the position would be strange [I observed none of this in the photo.]. This seems to me a clear case of an inscription being copied from a model.

(1)may be by one hand (Beazley). (2)there is perhaps a short vacat between the words. A leg interposes after the theta. No doubt incompletely written, as the surface before and aft seems well enough preserved. A good picture: CV, pl. 7,2.

- B] Int.: BF: a Scythian archer to left (mostly missing). Ext.: between eyes: A: Minotaur. B: louterion.
- C] B: above the louterion, from eye brow to eye brow, Gr., horizontal: Παν(φ)αιος εποιεσεν.
- D] + Louvre Cp 12,174 (Bothmer). The signature is considered false (modern) by Giroux and is not mentioned by Beazley. The Cataloghi Campana, ser. 4-7, sala D, no. 717 mention only 'tracce d'iscrizione' above the louterion; Bruhn and de Witte are the first to mention Pamphaios' signature. Giroux could not find any traces of dipinto below the present Gr. This is suspicious, but in AJA I point out that the signature is not that different from the Gr. signature of Pamphaios, Orvieto, Faina 114, ARV(2) 130/36, CAVI 5828. unattributed. That does not mean that I consider these signatures genuine. B. Cohen, 'The Literate Painter: A Tradition of Incised Signatures on Attic Vases,' MetMusJ 26 (1991) 89 n. 62 also doubts the genuineness. The phi resembles a theta.

 B] A: Athena. B: chariot race (two chariots).
 C] B: Νικῶν. Μυνοῶν. ηικέτῆς καλό(ς)έμοι δοκεῖ.(1) Under the foot, Dip. (in BG): ΣΟ with three-stroke sigma.
 D] A small vase. The inscriptions given as read by Bothmer after a cleaning of the vase, with a few changes. The text is not given in exactly the same way in Para. and ARV(2):
 ARV(2) has the lambda of kalos reversed and separates:
 ΕΜΟ ΙΔΟΚΕΙ; Para. has regular Attic lambda and separates the words. Neither has any punctuation, although Bothmer thinks (rightly) that the first two names are those of the charioteers. To judge by CV, the words seem to be written in groups of similar length, for it prints:
 MVNOW [sic] N,KON HIΠΠTE IMOΙ KONON, which is of course nonsensical. This is an earlier Hiketes than that praised by Douris and his contemporaries.

(1)the last sigma is printed as nu in both ARV(2) and Para. ;
 probably a sideways sigma.

 B] Shoulder: Warriors Leaving Home, with a man mounting a chariot. Body: Heracles and Triton, with two Nereids.
 of the horses' forelegs: τον. Between the legs of a hoplite and a man at right: λον. Body: on either side of the left Nereid's head: κο^νικοι. Within the coils of Triton's tail:
 κο. Between Heracles' and the right Nereid's legs: σικολλσ.
 Above their heads: τιμσ.(1) Under the foot, Gr.: V plus alpha with extended cross bar having short verticals; eta with two short horizontals; also a trace of a red Dip.: see TGV 129/8E 36, 140/13E 19, and 182/72. The first two signs are also found in Hackl, no. 139, the third in Hackl, no. 150.
 D] Several inscriptions look like miswritten proper names. The above readings are from CV. My own readings differ somewhat: Shoulder: above the chariot and horses: ιονικο(ς), the last letter unclear. Below: three short vertical inscriptions: χασ.

χασ. τοσ, retr. Body: above the left Nereid's head (with the head intervening): κο^νικος. In Triton's tail: κο (complete).
Below his body: σιγο^λ^νσ^ (feet interfere). Above Heracles and the right Nereid, very clear: τιμλοσ. Hasty brush strokes.

- B] No figured decoration: BG except for a reserved cartellino on the belly.
- C] On the cartellino, the letters crowded: Λυσίας μέποιῆσεν· ημίχων εἰμί, retr.
- D] = 3237. ημίχων εἰμί, Nachod; thought likely by Beazley (the painter may have run out of space in the cartellino); this seems right. Less likely: ἡμιχώνη, Kretschmer, accepted by LSJ; Kretschmer refers to the known χώνη, χοάνη, funnel [see Agora 12, 230 n. 7], a word that seems unsuitable here. The lettering is stilted, archaizing in some respects. Four-stroke sigma, not turned in retr. Stemmed upsilon with curved bars.

C] In large letters between the horses, in a double curve: ὄνισθέ με καὶ εὖ ἐ<μ>πολῶσει. Above the right horse (i.e., above the youth leading it): καλός.

D] The reading of the letters is mine; I have omitted two single dots, one after καὶ, the other after the lambda, as they seem accidental. The interpretation is Beazley's, except that I take the last word to be second singular middle. Note the change from plural to singular in the verbs. Is it: 'Help me [by buying] and you will do good business'? Cf. χαῖρε καὶ πρίο με?

- B] Int.: komast. A: warriors and horsemen. B: youths with horses.
- C] Int.: nonsense: around the tondo: at left: νοηοσε. At right: νοσε.(2) A: on one shield: device, a raven, and: ο(σ)ο(.)(3) On the other shield: device, a crowing rooster and an illegible inscription.
- D] Pottier's supplement of Hischylos (see below) is clearly wrong. Nevertheless, the first word looks like an illiterate attempt of writing ΕΠΟΙΗΣΕΝ. It calls to mind

London B 209, CAVI 4256, by Exekias, with the inscriptions Αμασις and ΑΟΙΗϚΝ (Attic sigma); see 'Script' 134. However, the imitation of epoiesen may have to be abandoned if Giroux is right (in CV, France 28) in suggesting that the cup may be by Pamphaios and the foot fr., Louvre Cp 11,254, CAVI 6621, q.v., signed Pamphaios, may be its foot; a less likely possibility is to connect the foot with Louvre G 69, CAVI 6432, q.v.

(1) the foot is missing (see above). (2) Pottier gives: nonsense: [-]γος νοηοσε. He thought that the intention may have been to write: [ηισχυ]λος εποιεσε, whence he suggests Hischylos as a supplement for Louvre G 4, above, also. Beazley says (without giving a text): "The inscriptions are meaningless." (3) the sigma is z-shaped (facs.); the last letter is a blob.

- C] Int.: Επιλυκο[ς εγραφ]σεν καλος.
- D] Surely confusion between a kalos-inscription for Epilykos and a signature of Skythes; which misled Pottier into positing a vase painter Epilykos (see ARV(2) 82). A similar conflation is found on Villa Giulia + Toronto 923.13.11 (ARV(2) 83/8, CAVI 7094: [---]ς καλος εγ[ραφ]σεν). It recalls the conflation of signatures and kalos-inscriptions on other RF cups, for which see Kadmos 45 (2006) 145. I would not read καλῶς.

(1)as ARV(2) had it; Giroux in CV, France 28 (cf. Add.(2)) says that A has four maenads, not Anacreon; cf. also Villard in CV, France 17. (2)Beazley printed the theta as a stemmed phi. - B] Int.: a youth with a lyre, running. A: Heracles and the Erymanthian boar; at left Athena; at right, the parents of Erystheus. B: Odysseus in a chariot; in front, Hermes.
- C] Int.: along the right margin: Μειμνῶ[ν καλ]ος. A: to Athena's lower right: Αθηναια. To right of Heracles' head: ηρα[κ]λες. Above Eurystheus' head, interrupted by his raised hand: Ερυ^νθους, (1) retr. Along the mother's body, facing her: Καλλιφοβε. - D] For the subject of B Beazley refers to C. Robert. Villard gives somewhat different readings, which do not seem very reliable: Int.: Μεινονπν... (but he transcribes: Μειμνῶν καλος). A: Αθηναι. B: ηεμ..., retr. Μειμ[νῶ]ν κα[λος]. Bothmer, review of CVA, France 17, AJA 59 (1955) 67: read: Int.: Μειμνῶν [καλ]ος.

- D] + New York 1981.27. Much restored. Most of the figure in the Int. is modern; so is the upper part of Achilles (ARV(2)). Beazley gives only the inscriptions on B. He says that Autoboulos may be the charioteer, or go with kalos as a kalos-name. He notes that Kinea is complete; the addition of final sigma is mine. ARV(2) 328/115 mentions the use of ou for long closed o and gives parallels; see also GAI i, 241/4. Cleaned: see Bothmer, AJA 59 (1955) 68. Kineas is a human name; see LGPN ii and Pape. It is not listed by M. Moore as a horse name. B however shows only one human (the charioteer) and the name Autoboulos is written close to him. Could one make this the name of the charioteer and read: καλος Κινεα<ς>(?).

- C] A: between the raised cup and the back of the youth's head: Λεαγρος, and above the head: καλος. Below the hand holding the cup: παις.(1) B: starting in front of the youth's mouth and curving up over his head: μαμεκαποτεο, retr.(2) To left of the lyre: Λεαγρος καλος, retr.
- D] Perpillou explains the misspellings in the quotation as based on special rules, following in part S. Theodorsson, The Phonemic System of the Attic Dialect 400-340 B.C. (1974).

(1)Do the three words make one inscription (Λεαγρος|καλος|παις), and does it then refer to the figure? Beazley does not take it so. Note that Leagros kalos appears also on the other side. I rather think that both youths are celebrating Leagros. (2)this has been compared to Sappho fr. 36 Page: και ποθήω και μάομαι. If so, it is a free citation with numerous irregularities, which I still think should be considered miswriting.

(1)see Giroux; Beazley too says 'victor'. An odd scene: the victor, and the admirer on his right, between them hold a short vertical stick; Giroux thinks it may mark the place where the discus [is the victor a discobolus?] has fallen. I see a reserved area near the bottom of the stick: is it a discus seen from the side or a halter? (2)Beazley has Χαχ[ρυλι]ῶν επ[οισ]ε, "complete aft", but CV gives the final nu. Giroux remarks upon the traces of lambda and epsilon, whence I have dotted them. Note that Beazley gives the same ending for Louvre G 38, CAVI 6413, by the same painter.

- C] A: to left of Apollo's back: χαίρε. Above his head: καιρε, for χαῖρε. To right of his body: Α(π)ολλῶν. To right of Leto's lower body: {λ}Λετους.(1) Above Artemis' raised hand: χα(ι)ρε.(2) To Artemis' lower right, below her elbow: <Αρτεμιδο(ς)(?)>(3). B: To right of a bearded man's body: Σοτινος. Above the head of a discus thrower: Σοστρατος. Further to right, by a bearded athlete on the far right: (κ)αλος.(4) By the middle of a discus thrower, not facing him: Χαρεις, retr. To right of the body of a javelin thrower: Δεμόστρατε(5) and between his legs: χαῖ(ρ)ε.(6) To the lower left of (the above-mentioned) bearded athlete: Σοσιας, retr.(7)
- D] Cairns, p. 152 n. 8 gives complete readings of A and B. A: he thinks the three χαίρε are not related to the scene. B: Sotinos and Sosias are the two older spectators; καλος goes with Sostratos, and Demostratos is being greeted. It is unclear whether the discus thrower is Sostratos or Chares, the acrobat Chares or Demostratos; but neither the kalos nor the chaire inscriptions need refer to the figures depicted. Cairns also returns to the old reading Αἰδός and with some hesitation prefers the interpretation of O. Waser in Roscher, ML v 1043, that makes Λετουςαἰδός the title of the picture. Leto's modesty is shown by her attempt to veil herself. Cairns finds it difficult to attribute Αἰδός as a cult epithet to Artemis (JHS, p. 156).

(1)the first lambda upside down: the painter started the inscription retr., which would have faced the figure. (2)the iota resembles an Ionic gamma. (3)this is an old reading proposed by Jahn and Panofka in the form [Αρτε]μιδος, although

Jahn later recanted. Hauser in FR and CV read Αἰδός, with de Witte (the vase being intact here), which Hauser considers an error, while Kretschmer thought it deliberate. But I think the painter forgot to write the beginning of the name, which would have come above the elbow: this may imply a model. However, the first extant letter is drawn as a high-kicker by Reichhold. GAI ii, 211, also reads Αἰδός. (4)FR, pl. 112; not in their text or in CV. Beazley takes this together with Sostratos. (5)the last six letters are upside down, i.e., retr. (6)Beazley connects the two words, as I think they should be connected. "Gruss an den abwesenden D.," Hauser. But I now rather think that Demonstratos is the javelin thrower, while Sostratos is a kalos-name and thus not present. Differently, 'Script'. (7)so Beazley; not given as retr. in FR.

B] Komos of seven dancing youths.

D] Much restored (ARV(2)); now cleaned (Add.(2)).

(1)CV gives a different title: Orchestique grecque, pl. 1, a-b, figs. 1-6. (2)mentioned in TGV, pp. 36 and 239/13A n. 4.

B] A: Athena at an altar. B: a priest making libation at an altar.

C] Four nonsense inscriptions on A and B, each: in thick letters: A: περι. ερν(ν)ππ, retr. ιδσ(ν)σ(.). ονθολν. B: χτ>ν(σ)ν. ηνε(γ). ι(π)τε(ν)ν. οσθ(ι)ι|. (1) Under the foot, Gr.: AK. Not in Hackl or TGV.

D] The readings are by Langridge. I do not trust the readings given in the text of CV. Uncertain and variable letter forms.

(1)(.) is a misshapen letter. The 'gamma' in the sixth word is of 'Ionic' shape, probably a pi. The pi in word seven is reversed; the nu is irregular. The eighth word has two broken iotas followed by an incomplete stroke.

B] A: Athena. B: Aphrodite sacrificing.(1)

C] Along the fronts of the figures: A: Αθena.(2) Aphrodite is inscribed.(3) Under the foot, Gr.: KA, preceded by an unclear sigma.(3)

(1)Beazley says "priestess", but she is inscribed as Aphrodite. (2)Langridge's reading. (3)Bothmer, as reported in Add.(2). Langridge's reading is imperfect: A|(A)OΔ|TE, the second alpha really = a pointed rho. Hence: A^φροδι^τε.

(1)The photo. shows that the name was on the figure's right, curving along the margin and no doubt starting at the back of the (missing) head; the kalos must have been on the other side. (2)I doubt there was more on A; Beazley says that a kappa remains on B. (3)C 84. S 1356. S 1365 (2 frs. of B). G 76. [I do not know the source of this list.]

Above Dionysus' left shoulder: vδ. B: between the left and middle maenads: (v)δχι. Between the middle and right maenads: χανιφ, retr. To right of the right maenad: vχδ.(2)

- D] The painter is a BF artist, whose work is akin to the Nikoxenos Painter; see ABV and ARV(2). By the same potter as London E 2, CAVI 4416. The inscriptions are very similar to vases of the Leagros Group, especially on A and B. This makes one wonder about the date: ca. 500?

(1)so the photo. in AJA 39. The omega may less likely be a mu written upside down. The epsilon is unclear. CV, in the text, puts the two inscriptions together: χιμεονδομι. (2)The exterior after CV, text.

C] Int.: in blotchy letters: at the youth's right: κ(α)λο(ς) and a blotch. Two more blotches to left of the youth. A: nonsense: λολοκλ.(2) B: not inscribed?

(1)recalls Epiktetos (Beazley): the outside is near Epiktetos, the inside not, but both are by the same hand. On p. 1624 Beazley further compares the vase with Vatican, Astarita 585, and Athens 17,303, CAVI 922, while Giroux says it is by the same hand as New York 22.139.38, attributed to the Circle of the Nikosthenes Painter, ARV(2) 133/15, which makes better sense. - B] A: Heracles and Antaeus, with three women fleeing. B: a musical contest: a boy flute player mounting a bema; at left a seated boy, at right two others.
- C] A: below the wrestlers: ηρακλες. A[v]ταιος, retr.(1) To right of the left girl's face: Ευφρωνιος εγραψεν.(2) B: to right of the head of the boy at left: Λεαγρος, and below: καλος.(3) To right of the flautist's head: Πολυκλες. By the boy seated to right of the podium: ηυ[λ]ας (Giroux). To right of the head of the boy at far right: [K]εφισοδορος, retr. Along the upper edge of the bema, in BG: Μ[ε]λας κα(λ)ος.(4)
- D] Shapiro: the name of the flautist mounting the bema is Polykles who used to be thought of as the first seated youth on the right, but Giroux discovered an inscription ηυ[λ]ας for him. (Giroux found that all figures are inscribed.) Polykles occurs as the name of a citharode mounting a platform on a BF oinochoe, Villa Giulia 20,839 + 20,843 [sic? See CAVI 7150], ABV 673, contemporary with Euphronios (unpublished: see Shapiro n. 210). The three listeners are thus: Leagros (tag-kalos), Hylas and Kephisodoros. Shapiro reads the inscription on the bema as Melas kalos, praising another member of the elite circle who is not present. Melas appears on Munich 8935 (AA 1976, 506, CAVI 5363) as a young symposiast and on Malibu 82.AE.53 (Smikros psykter: Frel in Moon, Iconogr., 147-50, CAVI 4959) as a young athlete. Shapiro thus rejects (in n. 213) Giroux's suggestion of reading the inscription on the stone as Hylas, a duplication, and prefers the old reading Melas. He thinks Polykles may have been a Panathenaic victor, although the occasions where he appears on vases are private.

(1)so 'Euphr.' (2)the letters are slightly separated before the verb and before and after φσ. (3)the Leagros kalos is written as pertaining to the left boy. (4)Beazley says that Melas is the flute player, but see now Shapiro, above. The BG inscription is sloppier than the others. 'Euphr.' now reads [-]αsκαλος and suggests either Melas or [hυλ]αs.

- B] A: a Scythian archer. B: head and hand of a Scythian archer holding an arrow.(1)
- C] A: from the forehead, not facing the figure:
⋀Παντοχσενος.(2) B: parallel to the arrow held in the archer's left hand: Εὐ[φ]ρωνιος.(3) Above his headdress: [---]υς.(4)
- D] Small letters (late).

(1)Formerly identified as Amazons, but see M.F. Vos, Scythian Archers in Archaic Attic Vase-painting (1963) 26. Bothmer has since found an indication of a beard on A, which confirms the identification as an archer. The figure on B is not sufficiently preserved and is identified by analogy to A. (2)In 'Sprunt Studies' I suggested [Π]αντοχσενος, but Bothmer showed that no letter was written before the alpha.

Antoxenos: A. Corey, De Amazonum antiquissimis figuris (Berlin 1891) 55 interpreted the inscription as a signature. Hartwig, Meisterschalen 152f.: exclamation not referring to any figures depicted. But I think it should refer to the figure. [LGPN ii lists Ἀντόξενος with my suggestion, but not Παντόξενος.] Antoxenos makes no sense to me unless it is miswritten, and while Pantoxenos is apparently not found, Pantoxena is known. (3)"there may have been more," ARV(2). Ευ[φ]ρωνιος [εγγραφσεν], Ohly-Dumm. Cf. 'Script': the vase should be painted by Euphronios. (4)read by Bothmer. The archer's name, as on A.

- A] RF neck amphora. Smikros (Ohly-Dumm). Euphronios, manner (Beazley).(1) Last quarter sixth. 510-500 ('Euphr.'). *CV, France 9, III I c, pl. 33,1-4. *FR ii, 8-10 and 335. *Beazley, BSA 18 (1911) 218, n. 1. *Bothmer, Amazons 131/6. - B] A: Heracles. B: an Amazon, shooting.
- C] A: [ἡρα]κλεες. On the base on which Heracles stands, in BG: δοκεῖ Ἰ Σμίκροϊ εἶναι (for εἶναι).(2) B: behind the Amazon: Βαρκίδα. Under the foot, Gr.: ΥΑΙΑΣ.(3)
- D] Robertson accepts Beazley's attribution to the manner of Euphronios. Simon discusses the name Barkida, referring to the Barkidae in Carthage and the city of Barka, a colony of Cyrene founded in mid-sixth. She thinks Euphronios was thinking of the Western market. Furtw. in FR ii, 8 suggested that the Heracles on A, as also the Heracles on the Arezzo krater, was inspired by the Heracles Alexikakos of Hageladas; cf. S. Woodford, AJA 80 (1976) 293, pl. 55,3 (dr.). For speculations on the Smikros inscription see Williams.

(1)Euphronios (Williams). (2)for long iota = ει see GAI i, 190f. Beazley suggests ναῖ as an alternative, but that seems unlikely. I take the inscription to be an incomplete kalos-statement of a not uncommon type: ἡο δεῖνα καλὸς δοκεῖ Σμίκροϊ εἶναι, with the first half on a companion piece, as Beazley suggested in BSA, rather than on the same vase (Beazley later suggested [καλὸς ἡρα]κλεες, etc., not very happily). The inscription does not prove that the vase was painted by Smikros; that attribution must be based on style. Bothmer calls the base on which the inscription is written a cartellino; but important figures are often placed on bases by the vase painters. - B] Int.: a young cavalry man in Thracian costume. A: a woman and a hoplite; a horse with its squire in Thracian costume; behind the horse, a woman. B: a seated hoplite receives a libation from a woman; a horse with its squire in Thracian costume; behind the horse, a satchel (tablets) hung up, and a column.
- C] Int.: on the left and above the horse and rider: $\eta\omicron\pi(\alpha)\\iota\varsigma\ \kappa(\alpha)\lambda\omicron\varsigma$. The Ext. has letters on each side, probably of $\kappa\alpha\lambda\omicron\varsigma\ \eta\omicron\pi\alpha\iota\varsigma$.

- C] A: to right of a tree trunk: $\eta\epsilon\rho\alpha\kappa[\lambda\epsilon\varsigma]$.(1) B: in the upper left: $[-]\epsilon\varsigma$. Between a youth seen from the back and his neighbor: $\epsilon\upsilon\phi\rho\omicron\nu\wedge[\iota\omicron\varsigma]$.(2) Below (along the back of the neighbor): $\epsilon\gamma\rho[\alpha]\phi\sigma\epsilon\nu\ \tau\acute{\alpha}\delta\epsilon\ \text{vac.}$ (3) Above the beginning of $\epsilon\gamma\rho\alpha\phi\sigma\epsilon\nu$: $[\epsilon\lambda\pi\iota]\nu\iota\kappa\omicron\varsigma(?)$ (4). Between the 'neighbor' and the next youth, facing the former: $\epsilon\upsilon[\tau\rho\alpha\pi?] \epsilon\iota\lambda\omicron\varsigma$.(4)
- D] + many Louvre frs. added by Villard. The names may be telling. 'Euphr.' makes a comparison of the extended signature with Euthymides' famous $\omega\varsigma\ \omicron\upsilon\delta\acute{\epsilon}\pi\omicron\tau\epsilon\ \epsilon\upsilon\phi\rho\omicron\nu\iota\omicron\varsigma$. See Denoyelle's discussion. Scheibler has a slightly different reconstruction of the askoliasmos from Villard's. It contradicts the literary tradition in that it allows for more than one person on the wineskin at any one time. For 'τάδε' cf. perhaps LSAG(2) 416, 432/I, pl. 73,3: a stele base in the Triti Ephoria: $\kappa\alpha\iota\ \tau\acute{\alpha}\delta\epsilon\ \text{'}\text{Αριστοκλέος}$.

- B] Int.: Eos with the body of Memnon. A: Menelaus fighting Paris. B: Ajax fighting Hector.
- C] Int.: along the left margin, facing in: (f(?))ενεμεκνερινε.(2) Parallel, but also facing in: ηερμογενες | καλος.(3) Above Eos' head: ηεος : Δορις | εγραψε.ν.(3) To right, i.e., below, the face of Memnon, in three lines filling all the space, non-stoich.: Μεμλον, for Μεμνον, and Καλ<λ>ιαδες | εποιεσεν. Ext.: the inscriptions horizontal, near the margin. A: between the woman at left and the back of Menelaus' head: Μενελεος, retr. To left of Paris' face: Αλεχσανδρος, retr. To left of Artemis' face: Αρτεμις, retr. B: to right of Athena's head: Αθε<ν>αια.(4) To right of Ajax' head: Αιας. To right of Hector (who faces left): ηεκλορ, for ηεκτορ. To right of Apollo (who also faces): Απο{ο}λλων.(5)
- D] Type C. Shapiro: Hermogenes may be a member of the Kerykes who were active in the cult of Hermes. Beazley in AJA says there are many mistakes on this vase: Μεμλον, Αθε<ν>αια, ηεκλορ, Αποολλον. He also says that he cannot explain the first sign of the mystery word, but suggests for the rest: ἦν ἐμὲ ἐνκρίνηι, '(Hermogenes is fair,) if he count me in.' Guarducci: <h>ένε με κνῆ<ι> ρίνῆ· ηερμογένες καλός. "Da gran tempo mi raschi [scrapes] una lima [file]: Ermogene bello." Kanowski gives a list of previous explanations of the mystery word: Fröhner: ἔν ἐμέ ἐνέκρινε Ἑρμογένες καλός. Dümmler: ἦν ἐμέ κνη<ι> ῥίνη = αἰδοῖον. Zingerle: θεῖν' ἐμ' ἦκ<ε>ν Ἥρινή = Eos. Beazley: [see above.] Kanowski: Hermogenes is a fine fellow if he tickles (scratches?) my nose. Note nose rubbing in some cultures [but not in Greece!]. I took down: ἦν ἐμέ κνη<ι> ῥίνη - but that should be ἐμοὶ κνη<ι> ῥίνη<ν>(?). M.I. Davies, 'The Tickle and Sneeze of Love,' AJA 86 (1982) 115-18: gives the first letter as an upside down dotted F. Davies supports Kanowski's ἦν ἐμέ κνη<ι> ῥίνῃ. The last word is dual = nostrils. 'if he tickles or scratches my nose.' DeVries tr. the mystery word: "Wow! he scrapes away at me with a file!" See also Guarducci and GAI ii. For Hermogenes see LGPN ii, s.v. 1-3; B.-O. 43 and n. 287 refers to attempts to identify the kalos with the dedicator of a bronze statue (1/4 5), IG i(3) 559. For the misspellings see also B.-O. - Dotted delta; tailed rho.

(1)Middle (B.-O.). (2)I do not know what the first letter of the mystery word is, but I doubt its being a digamma; I think the word is not nonsense, but badly miswritten. (3)is stoich. intended in these two inscriptions? Δορις and εγραψεσεν are lined up. (4)the final alpha is placed under the first. (5)this reading is taken from the photo., fig. 144, in Arias-Hirmer and needs to be verified; the doubling of omicron is due to an intervening tendril; the last letter, for similar reasons, is written under the second lambda.

- B] Int.: tondo: Dionysus with ivy sprig and kantharos; a young oinochoos (Oinopion), frontal, pouring from an oinochoe; at right, a stool with a cushion. Surrounding frieze: A procession of 13 pairs of youths and bearded men, preceded by a flautist confronted by a bearded man with his stick (a marshall). Ext.: A:(1) continuation of the Int. frieze: four pairs preceded by a flautist. B:(1) onlookers: four individuals (one bearded) with sticks, preceded by a trainer with a forked stick.
- C] Int.: tondo: to left of the oinochoos, starting from his head and curving along the margin: $\eta\omicron\pi\alpha\iota\varsigma$, retr.(2) To right of Dionysus' back, starting above the stool and facing out: $\kappa\alpha\lambda\omicron\varsigma$, retr.(2) Outer frieze:(3) to right of each pair: $\Lambda[\upsilon]\kappa\omicron\varsigma$. $[-]\iota\alpha\varsigma$. $[-]\delta\omicron\nu$. $\Phi[\iota]\lambda\delta\omicron\nu$. $\text{E}\upsilon\phi\iota\lambda\epsilon\tau\omicron\varsigma$. $\text{K}\alpha\lambda\langle\lambda\rangle\iota\mu\alpha\chi\omicron\varsigma$. $\text{L}\epsilon\omicron\delta\iota\kappa\omicron\varsigma$. $\text{K}\lambda\epsilon\omicron\kappa\rho\iota\tau\omicron\varsigma$. $\Lambda[.] \theta\epsilon\mu\iota\varsigma$. (8) B: $\eta\omicron\pi^{\wedge}\alpha\iota\varsigma$. Between the last two figures: $\kappa\alpha\lambda\omicron\varsigma$, retr.(9)
- D] For different interpretations see Knauer; she interprets the procession as the introduction to the phratry of teen-age offspring at the Apatouria. This implies that the names are all of youths. For the parasitic nu in the 13th name, see GAI i, p. 489. Attic alphabet. Tailed rho.

(1)B, Knauer who reverses A and B; her A is what you see when tilting the cup with the Int. medaillon upright. (2)not all letters show in the photos. The second sigma is reversed. Knauer read: $\eta\omicron\pi[\alpha]\iota\varsigma\kappa\alpha\lambda\omicron\varsigma$. (3)the readings are a combination of Knauer's (pp. 227 n. 15 [Int. frieze] and 230 n. 18 [A]) and what can be seen in her photos. R. Cromey has another set of readings (unpublished). (4)so Knauer in the text. (5)upsilon for long closed o: $\Theta\delta\tau\iota\mu\iota\delta\epsilon\varsigma$ for $\Theta\epsilon\omicron\tau\iota\mu\iota\delta\eta\varsigma$. (6)Miliarchos is probably to the right of the marshall's head (who confronts the flautist); it is curving downward and bends back when reaching the last boy (end-boustr.). This inscription was read $\chi\iota\lambda\iota\alpha\rho\chi\omicron\varsigma$ by Hartwig and Cromey considers it a title (in a paper delivered orally). There is no inscription between the flautist and the marshal (Knauer). (7)possibly $\text{E}\upsilon[\chi\alpha\rho\iota]\delta\epsilon\varsigma$, Beazley. (8)see Kretschmer, Vas. 142. (9)after Knauer, 230 n. 17. A figure intervenes.

The right-hand youth holds an oinochoe on which: καλε.(2) On his cup: [κα]λος. B: near the lip: Ἀπολλοδ[ορος ε]γραφσεν]. On the body of the cup held out by the left youth: καλε. Below the rim of the skyphos held by him: καλε.

- D] A type B cup. 17 joining frs. and 2 non-joining. Beazley added two more. D. Williams joined Cp 11,348, ARV(2) 801/13. Giroux compares Athens, Theodoracopoulos, ARV(2) 120/12, CAVI 1900, and other pieces including the Unlocated cup CAVI 7837, q.v., with the word κότταβος. Schefold follows Töpffer 244 in assuming that Euryptolemos kalos was the nephew of Cleisthenes [PA 5983]. But Kirchner, PA 5979 identifies him with the son of Peisianax (PA 5984). For the genealogical problems see Davies, APF 376-78; he tentatively adopts Kirchner's identification. - Dotted delta; tailed rho.

Cf. Athens, Acr. ii, 560, CAVI 1396. - For the readings, the reader needs to consult further both Kunisch and Cromey.

(1)Cromey rejects this as a proper name and discusses Αντ(ι)μενες and Α(υ)τομενες, preferring the last. [Cf. perhaps Αντοχσενος on Louvre G 108, CAVU 6452?] (2)so also Pottier. (3)Λυσ[ιπ]ιδες, Hartwig, etc. Λυσ[ιππ]ιδες, Pottier. Cromey suggests Λυσ[οv]ιδες, among other possibilities. (4)Στομ[ιο]ς, Pottier. Or Στομ[α]ς, Cromey. (5)read by Cromey; cf. Schwerin 725 (ARV(2) 325/73, CAVI 7471. Αριστ[αγορας], Hartwig. Over the third boy's head: Αρισταρχ[ο]ς, Cromey, a new reading superceding Hartwig's Αριστ[αγορας]. (6)[Ακεστ]οριδες, Klein. [Ακεστ]ο[ρ]ιδες, Hartwig. This would be an earlier A. than the kalos (Beazley). (7)traces of three letters after Σαλ. Kunisch has Σαλ[ιο]ς.

- B] Int.: Phoenix served with wine by Briseis. A-B: Iliupersis.
- C] Int.: above Briseis: Βρισεες, for Βρισεις. Phoinix is also inscribed. A: Ακαμα[ς], retr. Πολυχσενε, retr. Πριαμο[ς].(1) Νεοπτ(ο)λε[μος]. B: to left of the face of a Greek killing a Trojan: ηνπερ[ος], retr.(2) To right of the thigh of another Greek: Ορομενεος.(3) Over the face of a prostrate Trojan and under the name of Andromache: (ι)μ(ο)μυ.(4) Ανδρομαχε, retr. To left of the face of a youth running away, with end-boustr.: Αστυναχς.(5) On one handle, in BG: Βρυγος εποιεσεν.
- D] Two names on B are unknown; the painter has given names to an uninscribed model. Robertson discusses the names: the woman being led away: Polyxene. Her captor: Akamas. The dead child and the child running away are both Astyanax. The woman with a pestle protecting the child: Andromache. A double Astyanax is very unusual; a single warrior leading a woman away is usually Menelaus and Helen. Robertson tries to justify these anomalies and argues against the suggestion by Cambitoglou p. 33 that an assistant put on the names haphazardly. [In 'Script' 89/552 I say that the inscriptions are badly misspelled and misapplied.] Tailed rho. The sigma is three-stroke in the signature, four-stroke in names.

(1)or Πριαμο.(?). (2)CB notes that he is in the same position as the woman on A who is wielding a pestle (ὑπερος). (3)FR: Ορομες. The sigma is placed under the epsilon (a shield interferes). (4)illegible. (5)FR: Andromache and Astyanax are inappropriate.

- B] Int.: Achilles with the body of Hector. A-B: Sacrifice of Polyxena.
- C] A: Neoptolemus and Polyxena alone have their names inscribed (Beazley). - The drs. show two frs. only (probably from Pottier?): Ext.: to left of head of warrior to right: [Νεοπτολε]μος. To right and left of woman's head to right: [Π]ολοχσε^ν[ε], retr.(1) On handle A/B, in the right hasta, in red: [h]ιερον [επ]οισεν.(2)
- D] + Florence no no. (Guy). Type B. For the signatures of Hieron, see the bibliography under Louvre G 141, CAVI 6482. For the Dip. signatures see esp. Cohen 70 and n. 128 and Kunisch 8. Attic alphabet with four-stroke sigma.

(1)so my note; for [Π]ολυχσεν[ε]. (2)from the sketch, Kunisch, p. 178, but there is no indication that an initial heta is lost (complete fore?). A single interpoint between the words is shown in ARV(2) and is accepted by Cohen, n. 142, who lists two examples of double interpoints in Hieron signatures. Kunisch 8 n. 38 however thinks the inscription is too poorly preserved to be sure of this.

(4)so Beazley in JHS; differently in CV. The reading K[λεοφρα]δεσ attributed to Beazley by Pottier is a misunderstanding of JHS 30, 67. Pottier himself restores

- A] RF stamnos. Polygnotos. Third quarter fifth. *drs. (A). ARV(2) 1028/12, Add.(2) 317.
B] A: Dionysus seated, with Ariadne and two satyrs. B: three maenads.
C] A: to upper right of the head of a lyre-playing satyr: [-]μος. Above Dionysus' head: Νιονυσος.(1) For Διονυσος. Between the heads of Ariadne(?) and a satyr who grabs her arm: Αραυ.(2) D] The inscriptions are odd.

Oakley, The Phiale Painter (Kerameus 8, 1990) 67/1, pls. 1,a and 31,b. *CV, France 12, III I d, pl. 37,1-3. Hackl 612. *Beazley, JHS 51 (1931) 123. ARV(2) 1014/1, Add.(2)315. *TGV 102/16B 31, 156/8F 10, and 160/11F 16.
- B] A: Death of Orpheus. B: a youth.
- C] Under the foot, Gr.: ΠΚΑΠΟΙ.(1)
- D] The vase is a replica of Munich 2330. Beazley in JHS reads: κά<δισκοί> ποικίλοι. Johnston, however, while agreeing on 'decorated' (p. 225), takes KA as the abbreviation of a proper name (p. 227). For the pi alone, see ibid., p. 197.

(1)Attic pi. Oakley has a different reading.

Lezzi-Hafter, in: J.H. Oakley, W.D.E. Coulson, O. Palagia, Athenian Potters and Painters: The Conference Proceedings (1997) 356 (mention).
- B] Three Muses: one looking into open tablets; a chest; another, seated, holding two sticks; at right, a third playing the flutes.
- C] Ourania. Kalliope. Melpomene.(1)
- D] Pöhlmann says the seated Muse holds a book roll(?) and beats time [with her foot, which is slightly raised]. But what are the two sticks? One is thick, the other thin. They do not look like a book roll. Could it be that the muse marks time with a stylus and a closed book roll? The names are taken from ARV(2). - The vase is cited by L.-H. for comparison with Sozopol 266, CAVI 7487a, q.v. The Methyse Painter was the most important teacher of the Eretria Painter.

- B] Int.: a youth (Musaios) holding up writing tablets (with five folds), opened at the top; a seated man (Linos), himation around the waist, with an open book roll; a book chest. Ext.: athletes: A: a trainer and a jumper. B: athletes.
- C] Int.: above the youth's head: Μοσαίος. Above the man's head: Λίνος. The two-lines of writing on the roll have been variously read (the roll is twisted): 1. Jahn, Annali 1856, 95-97): υνεν and ιιδεινα... 2. Pottier: λνεν (Attic lambda) and ιι(δ)εοναι (the 'delta' = D). 3. Beazley, AJA: υνεν and ι:ιοεοναι (see below). 4. HRI: υνε(ν) (the last letter a sigma(?) corrected to a nu or vice versa) and ι:ιοε(φ)ναι (The 'phi' is a small circle with verticals at top and bottom; it may well be an omicron, as Beazley posited.) A better reading, from the photo. in L.-H., is:

[--]υνεν|θεωνα[--]. 5. Beazley says that the first three signs of line 2 stand for any letters [cf. 'Script' 174 and n. 5]. He restores: <σοφροσ>ύνεν and θεῶν αἰειγενετᾶδων.

- D] The Int. is a school scene in mythical guise. Alkimachos: see Davies, APF 12-15, 600, IV. Also with kalos on Villa Giulia 27,252, CAVI 7160. Also in Ferrara T 617, CAVI 3468, with kalos, L.-H., no. 98, Calliope Painter; this should be a younger member of the same family, although Beazley 1562 does not distinguish the two. Mixed alphabet. - B] A: Eos pursuing Cephalus; a companion fleeing. B: three youths.
- C] A: Εως. Κεφαλος.(1) Under the foot, Gr.: Π (Attic pi), ΛΙ, and TP.(2)
- D] "Not good, but seems to be by the painter himself" (Beazley).

(1)so Matheson in the cat. (2)so TGV; CV has ΠΙΠ (Attic pi) and ΛΙ. Johnston says this reading is defective; he does not list the vase as having an iota after TP, but I wonder if it doesn't. For interpretations see TGV, pp. 197 (but does the vase have ΠΟΙ(?)), 205 and 231. Pi is a common Polygnotan mark (for ποικίλοι(?)). The facs. in TGV gives: ΤΡΙΠΛΙ, with normal pi. [I think the space after the tau is irrelevant. Is this τρι plus π.? For other vases with τρι see TGV 102/16B 27-29; Johnston does not explain τρι. I have not entered the other vases with this mark.]

- B] A: a sacrifice to Apollo: a youth holding a spit over the fire; a priest at the altar; a tree; a youth pouring a libation; Apollo. B: three youths.
- C] A: nonsense: imitation letters: four groups of letters are represented in CV, unreliable and not repeated here. The photo. in CV shows illegible letters: above the head of the left youth; to right of the priest's mouth; and to right of the right youth's head. Under the foot, Gr.: κρατήρες : ΠΙ:ΙΙΙΙ ὀξίδες : ΔΔΔΔ:† ὀξύβαφα : ΠΔ: ΙΙΙΙ. Also a line across the foot.

- C] A: above the heads of two youths at left: Ευκλες. Ευθερ.(1)
Location probably similar: Φιλε. ΧΓΟ...(2)
D] Mixed alphabet. Ionic lambda. Sigma = <.

(1)CV has a dot in the theta, but I did not see the dot in the photo.; = omicron? The name is not in PA, Pape or LGPN ii; but cf. Εὐθηρος. (2)so CV; no doubt the name of the youth at right.

C] Under the foot, Grr.: Θ; a line crossing the foot; and:
κρατῆρες : ΠΙ(1)
τιμέ : Ι Ι Ι Ι βαφέα : ΔΔΙ Ι and separately: ὄξιδες : ΠΙΙΙ

- B] Int.: a draped boy; a youth leaning on his stick. Ext.: plain.
- C] Int.: between the two, at mid-level: φ<ι>λεμου(?).
- D] The problem of this inscription is the last letter: for the digraph for long closed o, see GAI i, 238ff. (on vases, p. 240/4). But the upsilon has a very archaic shape and may in fact be a three-stroke sigma or a corrected letter. It is hardly a nu; hence Φ<ι>λεμὸν seems excluded.

- B] Int.: a bearded man, seated; a youth facing him; between them, sponge, aryballos, and net bag. A-B: men and youths.
- C] Int.: ho παις καλ[ο]ς.(2)
- D] + Louvre S 1319 (ARV(2) 437/113). + Louvre C 11,457 (800/1). + New York, ex Bareiss [see B.-O., p. 114, list of illustrations], mentioned in Add.(2) 239 (under 437/113). The cup has not yet been put together.

(1)Beazley attributed two Louvre frs. to Douris and one (ARV(2) 800/1) to a follower. (2)so B.-O. in cat.; the photo. shows καλ[ο]ς curving over the back and head of the seated man.

D] For nonsense inscriptions punning on εποιεσεν see 'Script' 44 and n. 30; also nos. 134, 284, and 350. Breaks intervene on A and especially on B.

D] Beazley on the mounting sheet of his photo. compares Boston 92.2654, CAVI 2615. But the inscriptions there seem to contain more sigmas.

(1)the reading is very uncertain. The last letter's existence is doubtful. (2)the reading is better than that of A, except at the end.

D] Two frs., additions by Villard. One fr. (B) = Louvre S 1277 + S 1278.

(1)so CV, pl. 99,10; ABV gives: [Χαριτα]ιος : μεποιε[σεν], which is probably an error.

Paris, Louvre C 10,261.

- A] Frs. of BF band cup. Unattributed.(1) Hermogenes potter. Third quarter sixth. *Vidi (one fr.). *ARV(2) 165/6.
B] Handle zone: A: a chariot wheeling around; a warrior. B: similar.

- C] Handle zone: A: to left of the scene: [h]ερμογενες. The verb is lost on the right.
- D] Small letters, rather neat. Regular rho (not with the extended vertical).

(1)the attribution is uncertain. According to Beazley, the chariot cups signed Hermogenes may or may not be by the same hand as the head cups: see ABV 164-65 and 'Script' 51, where I point out that many of the Hermogenes signatures must be by one hand. Our vase does not seem to belong to that group (note the rho).

- B] No figured decoration.
- C] [Handle zone]: A: [Χσενοκλ]ες· εποιεσ[εν].(1)
- D] The name restored by Beazley because of the handwriting.

(1)"with traces of other letters from the name" (Beazley). ABV has a single dot as punctuation: is this a misprint? The typical Xenokles signature has a double interpoint.

6577.

- A] Frs. of BF cup. Unattributed. Last quarter sixth. 520-500 (Villard). *Villard, CV, France 17, pl. 110,1,4 (no bibl.).
- B] Int.: remains of Dionysus(?). A-B, each: a chariot, with a charioteer mounting.

- A] Frs. of BF/RF(?) eye cup.(1) Epiktetos. Last quarter sixth. *ARV(2) 46/121 and *71/10. *Villard, CV, France 17, pl. 8,2-5 (figs. 2-3 are of Int.). Bothmer, AJA 59 (1955) 68 (1 new fr.).
- B] CV: Int.: 2 small isolated frs. are extant: BF: feet of a horse to right (Villard says: a horseman no doubt rightly as the horse is raising its front feet. Ext.: between eyes: A: a youth trying to lift(?) a large column krater. B: a nose.

- C] Int.: along the left margin: Επικτε[-]. Near the right margin: [-]σεν.(3)
- D] Beazley thinks these frs. may be from the same cup as C 10,458 (the other part), ARV(2) 71/11, but he treats the sets as separate.

(1)these frs. are listed in ARV(2) 46/121, in his 'Interlude', among cups where one cannot tell whether they were bilingual or RF, as the Int. is not extant. However, 71/10 has only an Int., which is BF, and 71/11 (cf. 43/60) which has only a RF Ext., may be from the same cup, which would clearly be bilingual. CV published both sets under the same number as one cup. (2)ARV(2) 71/10 says: Int.: BF: fawn, which does not agree with CV, although the inscription does. (3)So Villard who restores [εγρραφ]σεν. But the first preserved letter may show as an incomplete circle, whence [εγρρασ]φεν is perhaps likely. [The ph. is small, so I cannot be sure.] ARV(2) has [εγρρασ]φεν.

B] Int.: a warrior? (Part of a shield and cloak).(2) A-B: Ajax and Tekmessa; Ajax' slaughter of the cattle.(3)
C] Int.: [Ευφρονιος εποισεν].(4) A or B: Williams in AK: [Αγαμεμνῶν(?) Ευ[-]]. [Ευφρο]νιος εποισεν(5) (But see below).

Williams' restorations are attractive since a painter's signature is unlikely (Onesimos' signature occurs only once, on Louvre G 105).

(1)erroneous interpretation as an athletic scene. (2)Williams, in AK 139, suggests perhaps the armor of Achilles given to Neoptolemos as on the Douris cup, Vienna 3695, CAVI 7591. (3)so Williams in AK, q.v. for details of the very scanty frs. Beazley had suggested the Deeds of Theseus, with a query. (4)So CB; not restored in ARV(2). (5)Williams rejects the possible alternative: [--]ν vacat Ευ[φρο]νι[ος εποισεν], on the grounds that Ευ[--] is too close to the handle to be part of a potter's signature. He thus suggests heroic names; for Ευ[--]: Ευ[ρυσυλος] or Ευρυσακης (although he would be too young). --]νι[--] might be [Τελαμο]νι[ος], but is more likely from a signature. However, in GVGettyMus he says that that fr. (C 11,336, see below) does not belong. AK, pl. 33,3 shows νι, pl. 33,4 shows --]ν vacat Ευ[--]. The first nu has the typical Euphronian shape (see 'Euphronios und seine Zeit' (1992) 52): does this mean that this fr. is from a vase painted by Euphronios?

- B] No painted figured decoration preserved.
- C] Gr.: two-liner (stoich.?(1)): Σοτ[αδης]|επ[οιε?].
- D] For the incised potter's signature of Sotades see Cohen. Hoffmann gives the inscription wrongly as SO(TADES) EP(OIEN). Only the bottom part is preserved.

(1)the signature on the comparable Louvre CA 3825, CAVI 6687, q.v., is not really stoich. The verb there is εποιε, so ARV(2) may be wrong in giving επ[οιεσεν] here.

- B] Int.: symposium: a youth reclining and playing kottabos.
Ext.: plain.
- C] Int.: nonsense: a mock inscription: at left: πναοσε. In the exergue: ηαιοσε.(2)
- D] Beazley thought the inscription [he seems to consider the two parts as one], while meaningless, bears a remote resemblance to a signature of Pamphaios. However, there are really two nonsense inscriptions, in two different locations. The vase is attributed to Pamphaios by shape, not because of the inscriptions.

(1)a special model, as Louvre CA 2526, CAVI 6678, which is signed Pamphaios, and Athens 1409, CAVI 781, also signed (see ARV(2) 120/31 and Bloesch, FAS 64/13). (2)so CV and ARV(2); wrong in AJA 88.

- B] A: fragmentary; mostly the lower parts of figures: Heracles and Athena; at right, a servant. B: in the center, Eros holds out a live hare; at left, a boy with a lyre; at right, a boy.
- C] B: above the heads of Eros and the boy at left: Αλυπητο[s].(1)
- D] In applied white. L.-H. 87 interprets the inscription either as a genitive or with sigma as an adjective, translating: 'fröhlich, ohne Sorge.' I think that Alypetos must be a proper name, see LGPN ii (found in the fourth century). But I agree that the name is here significant. Ionic lambda.

(1)Pottier's reading. L.-H. 87 says the inscription is hard to read, gives: Αλυπ(.)το. (.) is a raised v-shaped sign (surely misread).

- B] Undecorated except for the inscription.
- C] In large letters which are bounded by relief lines: Επιδρομος καλος.
- D] Beazley says that the inscription is incised; Stamires and Vanderpool say that the space bounded by relief lines is scraped out. But Giroux apud Add.(2) says it is in red-figure, with the contour lines in relief. I take this to mean that the inscription is reserved with the letters outlined by relief lines (rather than being in applied red). For reserved inscriptions, see 'Script' 59 and Bothmer in: M. Denoyelle, ed., Euphronios peintre (1992) 17 and n. 37: he discusses the five known vases with reserved inscriptions, including this one (he does not mention the relief lines). Beazley compares a fr. of a mug(?) at Olympia, JdI 53, Olympiabericht ii, 13,b: is this also inscribed? Stamires and Vanderpool compare the olpe fr. of Priapos, CAVI 1439, BSA 29 (1927-28) 204, top [ABV 170/2 = 446/3, which is a Dip. in a cartellino].

- C] A: above the pair's heads, curving around Harmonia's forehead: αρμονια. In front of their faces: Κασσμος, for Καδμος. To right of Apollo's lyre: Απολλων.
- D] = Louvre F 384 bis, according to Haspels. Haspels has good readings. The story of yoking a lion and a boar to the chariot belongs properly to the story of Admetus; see Schauenburg and Shapiro. The same scene is found on a BF oinochoe in Göttingen, inv. 23,5, Para. 185/23(7) (not inscribed).

(no bibl.). R. Mertens, AWG (1977) xi, addendum to 130/D 19.

- B] A: a woman with an alabastron. B: a woman with a box.
- C] On the mouth: the potter's signature of Hermotimos.(1)
- D] Hermotimos is not otherwise known. Guy thinks the alabastron was produced in the Brygos workshop.

(1)the verb is misspelled: ποιεῖ (Guy, saying that Mertens, the first to report the signature, misreports it.)

- B] Int.: Athena and a giant.
- C] Int.: from Athena's head: Aεννας. From the giant's head: Ενεκλαδος. The inscriptions reserved and facing out.
- D] The outward facing of both inscriptions may be caused by the desire to avoid retr. Theta lacks the dot.

(1)"The potter work makes one think of early Nikosthenes; the drawing, in some points, of early Psiax." (ARV(2)). Mertens attributes the vase to the circle of Psiax, but not to self.

Laurens et al., Les vases à mémoire: les collections de céramique Grecque dans le midi de la France (Montpellier 1988) 144, no. 92 (A, B).
- B] A: Eos carrying the body of Memnon. B: Duel of Achilles and Hector over a fallen warrior.
- C] A: on her left, not facing: ηε^ο̄ς.(1) On her right, facing: Μεινῶν.
- D] Formerly(?) on loan to Béziers, Musée Fabregat 1085. Bothmer (1981) says the vase is "now in Béziers, on loan from the Louvre."

(1)Memnon's feet intervene.

- B] Handle zone: A, B, each: a ram.
- C] Handle zone: to left and right of the ram: A:
χαίρε και πριῶ με. (2) B: χαίρε και πριῶ με.
- D] Pottier read: πρίου μή, 'do not worry'; Blinkenberg: πρίω με, 'buy me.' The latter is proven to be correct by the inscription on London B 414, CAVI 4313, q.v.

(1)πρίου instead of πρίω is an error in 'Script' on p. 48 and in the Greek index. (2)written in groups of letters, not very straight: χαίρε-κα-ιπρι-ομε.

Shapiro, 'The Iconography of Mourning in Athenian Art,' AJA 95 (1991) 630, fig. 1 (shows inscriptions).
- B] Prothesis: a male on a kline surrounded by mourning women; at left, chorus of men, and column. Boardman: the mother rests her right hand by the deceased's head; the small sister mourns by the head of the bier; a taller girl is by the foot; a baby boy is behind her beside a stool; at left, a white column stands before the approaching men.
- C] Boardman's readings: among approaching men is ἀδελφός; they are greeted by πατήρ, who faces them at the foot of the bier; the μέτηρ holds her dead son's head [I trust B. is right to call the dead a male]; beside her, her second daughter, ἀδελφέ; at head of bier stands θεθε [for τήθη], the grandmother; three mourners are called aunts, θεθις [for τηθίς, father's or mother's sister], one of them, on the father's side, πρόσπατρ[ρος] [printed as one word by B.].(1) Also: οἴμοι and οἰμοι. λουστος and λουστ are read below the bier and by the column; both words are nonsense; ο[.]ελοσϙ(2) appears before the aunt at the right (the last perserved letter should be alpha, perhaps followed by more), just possible is ὠφελοῦσα, 'rendering service,' "or something from the ὀμηλ- root might fit the context", but it is probably nonsense. Typical of nonsense inscriptions on Sappho Painter's funerary works are: on this plaque: λουστ, λουστος, ο[.]ελοσϙ; On Louvre E 734, CAVI 6242: λουστοστ, λουσ, λουστο. Acr. 2569, CAVI 1192: λολοσλοσ, with other inscriptions (this can be used for attr. to Sappho Ptr.). A column krater in Carlsruhe (Haspels 228/57, CAVI 4039) has: λισλις, etc. Athens, Vlasto MVB 55, CAVI 1905, (B., no. 29, q.v.): the inscription corresponding to Louvre MNB 905's λουστος may be λο... .

- (1) προσπατρϙ, i.e. πρὸς πατρός[ς], an aunt on the father's side?
 (2) I read from a photo.: οδεγοσϙ[--], retr., with space for 3+ letters.

 B] Apollo citharoedus, with a doe; four women (Muses) dancing, two with crotala, one with a lyre, the last playing the flutes.
 C] Nonsense, with imitation letters: there is a vertical inscription to the left of each dancer:
 1. πυ(.).ουνο^νο(.).(1) 2. six letters (3 + 3): υ(ο)(.)ου.(2)
 3. seven letters (1 + 1 + 5, the flutes intervene). I have no record of the fourth inscription.

D] Partly disjointed letters. The women are considered Muses by Queyrel and in LIMC.

- B] Ajax and Achilles playing a board game (the left figure is young, the right figure, bearded); behind the board, a palm tree; on the board, five pieces on each side.
- C] Nonsense inscriptions: under the left figure: αχχ(τ)αο.(1) To right of his chest (near the mouth): δχι^χδι.(2) To left of the left man's chest (near his beard): σλοχλ, retr.(?). Under him: υ(λ)ο^χλθχ.(3)
- D] Outline. Each figure is 'named' and 'speaking'. Thompson and Mommsen think A is influenced by the sculptural group of that subject. Haspels 112: "Mock inscriptions in the manner of the Diosphos Painter." "very closely connected with the Diosphos Painter."

(1)feet intervene: αχχ^(τ)α^ο. The 'tau' is in the shape of a figure 7, perhaps chi. (2)tree leaves intervene. (3)a foot intervenes.

- B] A: two boxers, the left one pursuing the right one. B: horseman and youth.
- C] A: in large letters, in dilute brown: to left of left boxer: ϜΟΚΕ.(2) Between the boxers: Πικτα.(3) To right of right boxer: ΦΒΥΘΕ.(4) B: signs in white on the horse resemble letters: on the thigh: Τ. Under the rider: Ν. On the shoulder: λ.
- D] Corinthian alphabet. CV thinks the decoration and the pictures genuine, speculating on a traveling Corinthian artist working in Athens. Payne, in NC, considered both the figures and the inscriptions modern. Beazley, in Para., states that the inscriptions are modern; presumably he considered the figures genuine. - CV also compares Louvre MNC 333, CAVI 6709, said to come from the same Corinthian tomb; it also has peculiar inscriptions in diluted brown.

(1)the shape is that of band skyphoi, but the top band is lacking. (2)CV says, for διώκει. (3)CV: dual, cf. L. Robert, RA 1929, II 24ff. (4)CV: φεύγει; compares παῦσαι on Cab. - B] Shoulder: cocks. Body: antithetic lions with a plant between.
- C] Body: directly below the top margin and starting near the heads of the lions: θπαβντα(γ), retr.(1) παντα. In dilute brown.
- D] Listed in ABV as no. CA 178, but see Para. Said in CV (on MNC 332) to be from the same Corinthian tomb as the latter.

(1)so Haspels; CV omits the first letter and so does my note from autopsy; I read: παβνταν, retr., with the remark that the last letter could be an 'arrow' gamma placed very close to the left margin. I wonder if the lettering is not also Corinthian, as that on Louvre MNC 332; if the latter is false, so should be that on MNC 333. The first inscription is at any rate nonsense. - Haspels' readings are on p. 22/1: θ?παβντα(γ), retr. [note the query, i.e. dot by the theta] and παντα. The photo. shows παβντα clearly, but the theta, if it is that, seems a mere shadow. The last letter, unclear in the photo. because of curvature, is printed as a regular Attic gamma. The inscriptions are in the upper left and right-hand corners of the picture, in each case starting from the lions' faces (these are antithetical, but turn their heads away from each other). Haspels has the beta with pointed loops, but my note gives both loops as rounded.

- A] RF column krater. From Agrigentum. Unattributed. Date? *CV, France 15, pl. 21,5 (old bibl.; no ill.).
- B] A: Heracles and satyrs.(1) B: two youths; at right, a youth in armor.
- C] B: around the (modern) horse on the armed youth's shield: letters, nearly illegible.

(1)mostly modern (CV).

6740.

Paris, Petit Palais 367.

- A] RF plastic rhyton (donkey's head). Colmar Painter. First quarter fifth. *CV, France 15, pl. 28. ARV(2) 357/74.
- B] Neck: komos: a bearded man dancing; a youth with an amphora and a drinking horn.
- C] On one ear, vertically down: [καλο]ς(?). On the other, diagonally upward: καλος. On the inside of the mouth:

ho παις καλος. To right of the bearded man's face:
(h)ο π(α)ις καλ[ο]ς. (1)

(1)the first letter is a nu: miswritten.

6741.

Paris, Petit Palais 374.

- A] RF plastic rhyton (ram's head). From Nola?(1) Painter of Bologna 417 (Penthesilea workshop). Second quarter fifth. *CV, France 15, pl. 29,4-6. ARV(2) 917/194. *H. Hoffmann, Attic Red-figured Rhyta (1962) 33/81, pl. 14,2 (shows part of the kalos to right of left youth's face, horizontal).
- B] Neck: two youths and a woman with a flower and branch between them, running.
- C] Neck: to right of the left youth's head: καλος. To right of the woman's head: ho παις.
- D] I.e., καλος ho παις.

(1)for the previous history of this vase, see CV.

6742.

Paris, Petit Palais 382.

- A] RF pyxis. Thaliarchos Painter.(1) Last quarter sixth. *CV, France 15, pl. 21,1-2. ARV(2) 81/1, Add.(2) 169.
- B] Lid: a young helmet maker, seated. Body: BG.
- C] Lid: Θαλιαρχος καλος.
- D] The Thaliarchos Painter painted four small pyxides, once attributed to Epiktetos.

(1)related to Epiktetos.

6743.

Paris, Musée Guimet.

- A] RF cup. Manner of Antiphon Painter. First quarter fifth. *ARV(2) 346/84.
- B] Int.: man with hare. A-B: athletes.
- C] Int.: Λυσις καλος.
- D] Much restored.

6744.

Once Paris.

- D] The Location in Paris is not specified. Unsatisfactory readings.

6745.

Once Paris, Bauville.

- A] RF lekythos. From Attica. Manner of Meidias Painter. Last quarter fifth. *ARV(2) 1326/67. A. Brueckner, 'Athenische Hochzeitsgeschenke,' AM 32 (1907) 115. *I. Wehgartner, 'Das Ideal massvoller Liebe auf einem attischen Vasenbild,' JdI 102 (1987) 194 n. 39 (mention). *H.A. Shapiro, Personifications in Greek Art (1993) 237/31, 85, fig. 31 (dr. after RA 30 (1875), pl. 20). *L. Burn, The Meidias Painter (1987) 26, 114/MM 107 (not ill.). LIMC ii, 14, s.v. Aphrodite, no. 43 and 122, no. 1270; iv, 64, s.v. Eunomia, no. 6.

- B] Shapiro after Brueckner: Preparations for Marriage: a woman with a chest on her head and a woman with a branch(?), both moving toward an altar; a statue on a column; a seated woman, probably Aphrodite.
- C] Above the woman with the sprig, one name above the other, starting in the same place but hardly stoich.:
Θαλεια. Ευνομια.
- D] Brueckner suggested the ceremony of newly-weds in a sanctuary of Aphrodite Pandemos. Beazley in ARV(2) did not decide between Aphrodite and Hera; Burn thinks the statue is that of Aphrodite. The pairing of Thaleia and Eunomia shows knowledge of Hesiod, Theog. 909 (Shapiro). Collignon misapplied the names (Shapiro 85 n. 179). The women are given names of companions of Aphrodite.

6746.

Paris, Darthès.

- A] BF neck amphora (Nikosthenic shape). From Cervetri. Painter N. Nikosthenes potter. 530-520. *ABV 217/10.
- B] Neck: A: Nike. B: similar. Shoulder: A: vintage: satyrs picking grapes. B: similar. Midband: horsemen and warriors. Below: horsemen galloping and a youth running. On the topside of the mouth: dolphins. On each handle: a tripod.
- C] Signed Nikosthenes.
- D] Beazley does not give the text of the inscription.

6747.

Once Paris, de Witte.

- A] BF lip cup. From Capua. Unattributed. Myspios potter. Third quarter sixth. *ABV 167. Kretschmer, Vas. 74 and n. 6. *Beazley, JHS 52 (1932) 178.
- B] Int.: a winged goddess. Lip: A: a horseman. B: similar.
- C] Handle zone: A: Μυσπιος : εποιεσεν. B: Μυσπιος <ε>ποιεσεν.(1)
- D] In JHS, Beazley thinks the name is fishy, but refers to Kretschmer, where an Argive parallel is cited. LGPN ii accepts the name.

(1)after JHS. In ABV only the first inscription is given.

Once Paris, de Witte.

- A] RF Nolan amphora. From Nola. Ethiop Painter. Second quarter fifth. *Weege, JdI 31 (1916) 134, fig. 14 (dr., after Panofka). T. Panofka, Dichterstellen und Bildwerke (Abh. Berlin 1856), pl. 22,5. DS, s.v. Agon, fig. 180 (crude). ARV(2) 665/9 (bibl.).

- B] A: Hermes and a youth. B: a youth.
C] A: nonsense: between the two faces: $\Lambda<ov$.(1)
D] Ex Blacas.

(1)read by Panofka as $\Lambda\gamma ov$; this was accepted by Daremberg-Saglio, Schreiber in Roscher, s.v., and in JdI, but not by Reisch in RE, s.v., or by Beazley.

6749.

Paris, Ganay.

- A] RF stamnos. Eucharides Painter. Early fifth. *Beazley, BSA 18, 226/15 and 232. Collection d'antiquités, Vente 18-20 Mars 1901 (Paris), pl. 3, 30, 30a.(1) ARV(2) 228/31. E. Langridge (ref.). Cat. Sotheby 5.12.87 Monaco no. 148.
B] A: Peleus and Thetis. B: Nereus mounting a chariot.
C] A: $\kappa\alpha\lambda\omicron\varsigma$. B: $\kappa\alpha\lambda\omicron\varsigma$. "On an altar, $\kappa\alpha\lambda\omicron\varsigma$; on another, $\epsilon\iota\omicron\upsilon\gamma\epsilon$ (= $\epsilon\acute{\iota}\sigma\acute{\upsilon}\gamma\epsilon$)."(2) I.e., $\kappa\alpha\lambda\omicron\varsigma\ \epsilon\acute{\iota}\sigma\acute{\upsilon}\gamma\epsilon$.
D] Ex Bourguignon.

(1)cited in BSA as Cat. Vente Bourguignon, pl. 3, no. 30.
(2)all inscriptions are taken from BSA.

6749a.

Paris, Ganay.

- A] Fr. of RF cup. From near Tarquinia. Douris. First quarter fifth. *V.a in: J.H. Oakley, W.D.E. Coulson, O. Palagia, Athenian Potters and Painters: The Conference Proceedings (1997) 334 n. 34. ARV(2) 436/97 (much bibl.).
B] Int.: symposium: a man reclining and a woman binding her head. A-B: men and a woman.
C] Int.: $\eta\epsilon\ \pi\alpha\iota\varsigma\ \kappa\alpha\lambda\epsilon$.
D] Ex Kopf. Cited by Sabetai a propos of a woman binding her head.

6750.

Paris, Hotel Lambert.

- A] WG lekythos. Unattributed. Date? *Fairbanks, Ath. Lekythoi (1907), Gp B, Class 4, series 1/27. Gaz. des Beaux-Arts 1866, II, 117.
B] A woman holding out her hands, as with a thread or wreath; a kalathos; a woman, with an alabastron in her hand, turning to go.
C] Above the kalathos: $\lambda\alpha\beta\acute{\epsilon}$.(1)
D] If the reading is right, could this be an imperative? Or is it a noun ($\lambda\alpha\beta\acute{\acute{\epsilon}}$)?

(1) ΛABE , Fairbanks, printed letters, Attic lambda.

Paris, Niarchos.

- A] BF Nikosthenic neck amphora. [Painter N.] Nikosthenes potter. 530-520. *ABV 225/7 = 225/6, Para. 105. Burlington Fine Arts

Club, Cat. 188m 42/93. Hoppin, BF, no. 25. 'Auktion' 18 (M.M.), pl. 29/92.

- B] Shoulder: A: two horsemen and two youths. B: fight. Body: men and boys courting, and komos: men, youths, and women, dancing.
- C] Signed Nikosthenes.
- D] Ex Westport, Sligo.

6752.

Paris, Niarchos.

- A] RF lekythos. Bowdoin Painter. Second quarter fifth.
*Schauenburg, Ars Antiqua AG, Luzern, Auktion 1 (2-5-1959) 43/118, pl. 57. ARV(2) 679/52.
- B] Nike pouring a libation over a flaming altar.
- C] Nonsense: imitation letters: to right of her face: six letters. On her lower right: five letters?(1)
- D] Ex Hirsch collection. The inscriptions show in the photo., but are not mentioned in the text.

(1)I ignore some other dots in the photo.

Paris, Ortiz.

- A] Fr. of RF cup. Ambrosios Painter. Last quarter sixth.
*ARV(2) 1631/30 bis.
- B] Int.: a woman running, with krotala.
- C] Int.: h[---].

6754.

Once Paris, Paravey 76.+

- A] Frs. of RF cup. Brygos Painter. First quarter fifth.
*ARV(2) 370/11.
- B] Int.: a woman spinning. A: Eos mounting a chariot. B: similar, but the woman is not winged: Selene?
- C] B: ἡοπαίς κ[α]λός.
- D] +Vatican, Astarita 130.

Once Paris, Paravey 78.

- A] EF cup. Unattributed. First quarter fifth. *ARV(2) 1598/27.
*Luce, AJA 29 (1924) 302/3.(1)
- B] Int.: Pholos awaiting the arrival of Heracles.
- C] Int.: Λυσις καλός.
- D] Lost. Ex Canino (De Witte, no. 77), Fould (sale cat. no. 1319) and Paravey (sale cat., no. 78).

(1)Luce lists this cup as being located in Harrow, School Museum, presumably a confusion with the cup ARV(2) 356/53. It is therefore not clear to which cup the bibl. he lists refers: Baur, Centaur 45. Hoppin, RF ii, 171/28, and one more obscure reference.

6756.

Once Paris, Pourtalès.

- A] BG lekanis with lid. Unattributed. Later fifth. *Hesp. 27 (1958) 299, pl. 54, g. Letronne, Journal (1840) 428. *Hackl 54/601, pl. 3 (facs. after Letronne). TGV, 91/3B 5, and 163/16F 2.
- B] No figured decoration.
- C] Gr.: ΑΠ. (Attic pi). ἰχθύα ΔΙΙΙΙ and further strokes.
- D] 14 vessels used for fish.

Once Paris, Pourtalès 183.

- A] RF stemmed dish. From St. Agata de' Goti. Perhaps Dish Painter (Beazley). Second quarter fifth. T. Panofka, Antiques du Cabinet du Comte de Pourtalès-Gorgier (Paris 1834), pl. 46. C.O. Müller and F. Wieseler, Denkmäler der alten Kunst(2) (Göttingen 1854) II 2, 57/581, pl. 46. RE, s.v. Terpsikome. *A. Kossatz-Deissmann, GVGettyMus 5 (1991) 190, TERPSIKOME 1. *C. Fränkel, Satyr- und Bakchennamen auf Vasenbildern (1912) 59, 96/v. ARV(2) 788.
- B] A maenad with a lyre and thyrsus.
- C] The maenad: Τερσιχομε, for Τερσικώμη.
- D] The spelling perhaps poorly reported by Panofka.

Once Paris, Pourtalès 388.

- A] RF cup. From Vulci. Manner of Douris ii. First quarter fifth. Period 2 (Beazley). *Photo. ARV(2) 450/22.
- B] Int.: a naked woman squatting and about to drink from a penis-spouted skyphos; at left, a stool with clothes. Ext.: plain.
- C] Int.: above her head: ἡο παις καλος.(1)

(1)the last word slightly separated.

6759.

Once Paris, Pourtalès 461.

- A] BG cup.(1) From Vulci. Unattributed. 530-520. *ABV 233/24. De Witte, Rev. phil. 2, 87.
- B] No figured decoration.
- C] On the foot(2): Νικοσθενες μεποιεσεν.
- D] Ex Canino.

(1)of unknown type. (2)no doubt on the reserved foot profile; according to de Witte the foot may not belong.

6760.

Paris, Private.

- A] BF/RF eye cup. Group of Louvre F 125.(1) Class I of Standard Eye-Cups: Bilingual. Last quarter sixth. *ARV(2) 41/25, 161/3, Para. 337, Add.(2) 158 = 181. *'Auktion' 26 (M.M.) 65/123, pls. 41-42 (all).
- B] sub: Int.: BF: Dionysus with a drinking horn, seated on a - stool. A, B, each: a hoplite squatting.

- C] Int.: starting to left of Dionysus' face and running along the margin up to the drinking horn: Νικκοσθε^νε^ς εποιει.(2)
- D] Ex Arlesheim, Schweitzer.

(1)probably by one hand (Beazley). (2)so the photo. in 'Auktion' and the text. ARV(2) 41/25 reads the last letter as <, but on 161/3 as C. It is true that the last letter seems to have a knick in it, but I think εποιει is better than εποιε(σ)<ε>. The inscription fits the space from the face to the drinking horn. The garment, stool and D.'s feet intervene.

6761.

Paris, Private.

- A] RF cup. Perhaps by Poseidon Painter (Beazley). Last quarter sixth. Ca. 510 (Cahn). *'Auktion' 26 (M.M.) 67/126, pls. 42 and 45. Para. 334.
- B] Int.: a dancing girl with krotala. A, B, each: a battle between horsemen and hoplites.
- C] Int.: καλε. A, B, each: numerous inscriptions (mostly near the margin), which Cahn could not read. Perhaps nonsense, although they look as if they might yield sense (the photos. show them very small). A: 4 inscriptions. B: 4 inscriptions. Each side has four figures.

6762.

Paris, Private.

- A] RF cup. Painter of Berlin 2268. First quarter fifth. Ca. 490 (Rouen cat.). *Musée Departemental des Antiquités, Rouen, Hommes, Dieux et Héros de la Grèce (exhibition 10/23, 1982 - 1/31, 1983) 164/71. ARV(2) 153/3 ter, Add.(2) 180.
- B] Boxers: Int.: a balding boxer, partly frontal, winding a strap (himas) around his hand; at right, clothes on a chair; at left, a sponge and aryballos hung up. A: two boxers; between them, a bearded trainer. B: two boxers, that in the center collapsing; at right, part of a trainer.
- C] Int.: around the scene, along the margin: ho παις καλος.(1)
- D] Ex Basel Market (M.M.).

(1)so Rouen cat. (in Italics), saying that the traces are hard to read.

6763.

Paris, Private.

- A] RF cup. Telephos Painter. Second quarter fifth. 470-460 (Cahn). *'Auktion' 26 (M.M.) 73/139, pl. 50 (all). ARV(2) 1671/40 bis, Para. 421.
- B] Int.: a bearded man, seated, with stick and phiale; at right, a table with a flat bowl on it. A: in the center, a woman before a chair holding out a skyphos toward a draped youth, who is leaning on his stick; at right, a bearded man, seated, with his stick; a cloth and a basket hung up. B: in the center, a seated woman receives a bag (of money?) from a bearded man leaning on his stick; at right, a youth

in the center, a column.

- C] Nonsense: Int.: καυρ.(1) Ext.: nonsense inscriptions.(2) D] Type C. 'Damenbesuch'?

(1)so Cahn, text; he thinks for καλος, which I doubt.
(2)it is unclear whether they are on A and B or only on B (Beazley puts B first, as A).

6764.

Once Paris, Raoul-Rochette.

- A] RF pelike with lid. Group of Naples 3235 (Meidian). Last quarter fifth. *ARV(2) 1316/3. Roscher, ML 1,1, 386 (a name wrongly given as Antyllos). *C. Fränkel, Satyr- und Bakchennamen (1912) 75, 104/φ. RE, s.v. Batyllos (Wagner);
s.v. Sybas (Gebhard). LIMC iii, s.v. Batyllos 1; s.v. Eirene 12; s.v. Erato IV 1; iv, s.v. Eurytion IV, no. 1. *A.
Kossatz-Deissmann, GVGettyMus 5 (1991) 148-49, BATYLLOS 1;
154, EURYTION 1, etc. *H.A. Shapiro, Personifications in Greek Art (1993) 232/8, 47, fig. 9 (dr. after Jahn).
- B] A: Dionysus with maenads and satyrs. B: Theseus and the Minotaur.
- C] 1. After C. Fränkel: A: satyrs: Βατυλλος. Ευρυτιων. Συβας.
Maenads: [Ε]ιρηνη. Ερατω. Παν(ν)υ(χ)ις.(1) Πολυερατη. B: ΑΠΗΔΑ.(2) 2. After the dr. in Shapiro (i.e. Jahn's dr., which has many mistakes): A: inscriptions above heads:
above an Eros: Ποθος. Above a seated maenad: Παννισε.(3)
tambourin: Βατυλλος.(5) Above a maenad with thyrsus: Ποδυηρατη.(6) The youthful Dionysus stretching out his arms toward a maenad: Διονυσος. This maenad is ready to embrace him: ιρηνη. A maenad with a goose: Ερατω. A satyr with a torch:
Συβας. Shapiro himself gives only Irene and Pothos.

(1)The spelling is unclear: both Fränkel and K.-D. print:
Παν(ν)υ(χ)ις. (2)"For the name ΑΠΗΔΑ on B see Callimachus, Aetia iii fr. 67, 13, with Pfeiffer's note (Callimachus i, 73)." (Beazley). (3)so the dr.; misread for Παννυχις(?).
(4)misread for Ενδυμιων(?). [But CAVI has Ευρυτιων, which is more likely.] (5)no sign of the beta. (6)misread for Πολυηρατη.

quarter sixth. *Beazley, JHS 52 (1932) 176 (not ill.). ABV 181/2, Para. 75.

B] Int.: a centaur. Ext.: lip: plain.

C] Handle zone: A, B, each: the regular signature of Tleson.

6767.

Once Paris, Seyrig.

A] RF lekythos. Related to Douris.(1) Second quarter fifth. Ca. 470. *Ullman Studies 21/5 (not ill.). Beazley, *AJA 52 (1948) 336-37, pl. 34; AJA 54 (1950) 318/17. ARV(2) 452/ bottom, 677/7, Add.(2) 242. E. Pöhlmann, Würzburger Jb. 2 (1976) 72/5.

B] A seated boy holding up a book roll and looking ahead at an imaginary companion or teacher.

C] On the book roll, non-stoich. two-liner: $\eta\epsilon\rho\mu\tilde{\epsilon}\langle\nu\rangle\mid(\acute{\alpha})\epsilon\acute{\iota}\delta\omicron$.

D] Ex Beyrouth, Seyrig. Listed in Add.(2) as 'Once Neuchâtel, Seyrig'; as Neuchâtel, formerly Paris, Seyrig (Robertson, AVCA 312 n.39). Excerpt from a school scene, or youths at play. The text is the beginning of the shorter hymn to Hermes. The alpha lacks the cross stroke.

(1)and recalls Athens 12,781 (RF lekythos by the Cartellino Painter, ARV(2) 452/6).

Once Paris Market.

A] BF neck amphora. From Capua. Painter of Berlin 1686. Third quarter sixth. *Beazley, AJA 33 (1929) 362. ABV 297/19.

B] Shoulder: A: Calydonian Boar Hunt. B: similar. Body: A: Death of Priam. B: Heracles on the way to Olympus: Hermes, Athena, Heracles. Below: animals.

D] Beazley compares an amphora in Oxford (1965.141, ex Northwick Park, Spenser-Churchill, CAVI 5998), in the manner of the Princeton Painter. For this type of inscription see Beazley, AJA 33 (1929) 361-62, and Berlin 1697.

(1)the bracketed letters are printed as upside down.

- B] Int.: a youth. A: a seated youth with a lyre, and youths. B: a seated boy and boys.
- C] Under one handle, Gr.(?): a large Π (Attic shape). Under the other a large O.
- D] Are these letters? Amyx. says the pi may be an inverted helmet bracket.

6772.

Paris Market (Feuardent).

- A] RF bell krater. Group of Polygnotos. Third quarter fifth. *Tillyard, Hope Vases (1923) 79/136, pl. 23 (A). ARV(2) 1053/39.
- B] A: Dionysus, Hephaestus, and, on a platform, a satyr (the chorus master from a satyr play). B: three youths.
- C] A: startung from Dionysus' mouth and stretching to the right of Hephaestus: καλος Ηφαιστος, for Ηφαιστος.(1)
- D] I give the inscription as one, but it is possible that καλος goes with Dionysus and Hephaestus is simply named; the latter is what Tillyard thought, declaring a kalos-name for Hephaestus impossible. This may be a scene from a satyr play (Dionysus persuading Hephaestus to return to Olympus?), or it may at least have a connection with the satyr play.

(1)so Tillyard, definitely not a misprint, but miswritten.

Paris Market (Mikas).

B] Warrior (a youth holding a helmet and spear) and a frontal woman (looking left, with casket and basket) at a tomb.

C] κλεσ(ν)λλ(κ).(1)

D] The inscription, as rendered in ARV(2), looks more like an illiterate attempt at writing than a nonsense inscription.

(1)the nu and the second kappa are reversed. Ionic lambda? Three-stroke sigma.

Parma, Museo Nazionale C 2.

A] BF neck amphora. From Vulci. Unattributed. Last quarter sixth (CV). Early fifth? *M.P. Rossigniani, CV, Italy 45, III H, pl. 3,1-2; facs., p. 4. Heynemann, Hall. Winck.-Progr. 1879, 49/48. A. Frova and R. Scarani, Parma: Museo Nazionale di Antichità (1963) 25-26, pl. 17.

B] A: Peleus and Thetis, between two Nereids. B: fragmentary: Dionysus and Ariadne reclining, between two satyrs.

D] Good letters. Perhaps early fifth?

- A] Frs. of RF cup. Foundry Painter (CV).(1) First quarter fifth. 490-480 (CV). *M.P. Rossigniani, CV, Italy 45, III I, pl. 8,4-6. Para. 362, below (wrong number, wrong attribution?), Add.(2) 220.
- B] Int.: part of the maeander. A: parts of the legs of one running to left, past a column, in front of which a shield lies on the ground; at right, the foot of a runner. A or B: the upper part of a naked hoplitodromos holding up a helmet.
- C] A or B: to right of the hoplitodromos: [-(?)]α[-(?)] or [-(?)]δ[-(?)].
- D] Two frs. Para. 367/40 ter gives for Parma 62 a description that fits Parma 66 (CV, pl. 8,1-3), clearly in error. The frs. Parma 62,a-b are listed in Para. 362, near the bottom, as Parma 58,a-b and attributed to the manner of the Antiphon Painter (Bothmer); this is corrected in Add.(2) but the first error is not corrected. The small facs. in CV, p. 7, looks more like alpha iota than delta iota, in which case we might have: [---π]α[ς---]. But Rossigniani is thinking of the common nonsense inscriptions in the Foundry Painter's cup interiors.

- B] A: Menelaus fighting a negro (Amasos); Ajax lifting the dead body of Achilles. B: Death of Antilochos.
- C] A: above Amasos: Αμασος. To right of Menelaus' raised arm: Μενελαος. Above Achilles' body: [Α]χιλλεος, retr.(1) B: To left of the prostrate body: Αντιλοχος, retr. To right of the rightmost of three warriors: Ευφορβος.
- D] Beazley in ABV combines both scenes on A as: death of Achilles - Ajax lifting the body. 'Gallery' says: Scenes from the Aethiopsis: A: Menelaus fights the Egyptian king Amasis; Ajax lifting the body of Achilles. [But Amasos does not look like a king.] Threatte discusses the irregular Attic gen. of names with foreign associations: perhaps Αμασ<ο>ος, Αμασ<ιδ>ος or Αμασ<εδ>ος (the regular form is Ἀμάσιδος). He also cites as a "slight possibility" my suggestions that the name is nom. For the lettering of Exekias, see 'Script'. Amasos occurs in a fourth-century funerary inscription, Peek, AM 59 (1934) 54/12a. A dr. in Beazley's possession shows a triangular rho.

sixth. *ARV(2) 34/9, 35, *1621. CV, Italy 8, III I, pl. 1, 15-16 (see Beazley, CF, 1 B 15). *photos. in Beazley Archives (useful for body only). 'Script' 421.

- B] Shoulder: symposium. Body: Heracles with Athena and Dionysus.
C] Shoulder: Εὔθυς. (1) χαίρει, retr. χαίρει, retr.?(2) ταῦτα, retr. (3) Body: between the lower bodies of Heracles and Athena: [h]ερακλε(ς). To left of Athena's head: Αθην(α)ια(ς), retr. Between her legs and a seated figure: Εὐθυμο(ς). (4) To right of Dionysus' middle: Διονυσ(σ)ος. (5)
D] + Florence 1 B 15 (two frs.) + Basel Market. The Εὔθυς on the shoulder and Εὐθυμος on the body (my correction of an error by the painter, because of Beazley's remarks about sideways sigma) must be the same name; see note 4 below. I wonder if the name is a short form for Εὐθυμίδης, for Beazley compares Louvre G 41, CAVI 6416, which has the latter and has similar writing. Beazley does not specify to which of the figures any of the inscriptions might pertain. The inscriptions show a certain lack of literacy.

(1)complete (ARV(2) 1621). (2)given with a query in ARV(2) 24/9; not noticed when Beazley saw the vase (1621). (3)found on one of the Florence frs. Beazley in CF translates: 'yes' or 'right', citing (after LSJ) Ar., Peace 275. (4)Beazley prints Εὐθυμῶν; the last letter is a clear nu, not a sideways sigma, but it must be a mistake for Euthymos, since Euthymon is not found (see PA, Pape, LGPN ii and the Greek inscriptions on the PHI disk), while Euthymos is common later. (5)Διονυυ, complete, Beazley.

Palagia, Athenian Potters and Painters: The Conference Proceedings (1997) 365 (mention).
B] Upper zone: theoxenia: lectisternium for the Dioscuri,

- with other figures. Lower zone: Departure of Polyneices?(1)
- C] Upper zone: the inscriptions are unclear in van Hoorn's dr., perhaps in part nonsense with imitation letters: κο[υ]ρ[ο]ς(?) by the left Dioscurus. κομς(?) by the lyre player. κομος(?) by the woman at right. κο[υ]ρ[ο]ς(?) by the right Dioscurus.
- D] Very uncertain readings. This may be inv. 1527; it is so listed by M. Reho, Archeologiya (Bulgarian) 31 (1989) no. 1, in his article on Attic vases in Thracian funerary contexts, ibid., 11-19, figs. 1-13; this vase: figs. 5-7; also by Lezzi-Hafter. She says: the Theoxenia for the Dioscouri could be linked to Thracian religious beliefs.

Reho, (article on Attic vases in Thracian funerary contexts), Archeologiya 31 (1989), fasc. 2, 13 and n. 3., fig. 1 (A). *S.B. Matheson, Polygnotos and Vase Painting in Classical Athens (1995) 280 and n. *55, 400/EP 9 (not ill.). Boardman, ARFV ii, fig. 149.
- B] A: a young citharode on a three-stepped bema; on each side, two Nikai fly toward him, the upper two holding taeniae(?), the lower one at left, a wreath, and the lower one at right, a phiale and a flower. B: a youth with a lyre between two women.
- C] The citharode: Αλκιμαχος. On the middle step: καλος.(1) Horizontal above the Nikai: upper left: Μαραθῶνι. Upper right: Παν(α)θῆνα<ι>οι[ς] Νίκη. Lower Nikai: Νίκη Νεμέαι and Ἴσθμοί.(2)
- D] Ex Sophia. The vase celebrates a Periodonikes. Each of the four Nikai is labeled as a victory at a separate festival. Webster 49 identifies this Alkimachos with the kalos and with a youth on a vase by the Lykaon Painter (London E 495, ARV(2) 1045/8, CAVI 4611). Matheson: Alkimachos is the name of the citharode; he is named on four other Polygnotan vases; two are: Warsaw 142,355, CAVI 8007 (as kalos, together with Axiopieithes) and London E 495 (a youth in a symposium), both by the Lykaon Painter. Axiopieithes is probably Alkimachos' cousin: see ARV(2) 1568 and H.A. Shapiro, 'Kalos-inscriptions with Patronymic,' ZPE 68 (1987) 107-18, esp. 113. [This is Alkimachos II.] For the games to Heracles at Marathon, see E. Vanderpool, 'Three prize vases,' Delt. 24 A' (1969) 1-5. Mixed alphabet.

(1)Beazley takes the kalos with Alkimachos (cf. p. 1562, Alkimachos II): tag- or portrait kalos. So also Webster. (Differently Matheson.) The spacing of καλος is peculiar: |.KA..L.OS|, with a large gap between alpha and lambda, but Beazley says a letter, apparently kappa, has been erased in that gap. The last two letters are close together. (2) or 'λοθμοῖι(?). I do not know how the inscriptions are to be assigned to the two lower Nikai.

- B] No figured decoration preserved.
- C] On the bottom, a Gr.: according to Vokotopoulou, the entire Ionic alphabet plus sampi. I could see in the photo.: from near the center, in a straight line to the margin: α, β, Ionic γ, δ, ε. Then the letters turn left and go along the margin, i.e., the row is retr., although the individual letters are not (note the kappa); visible are: ι, κ, Ionic λ, μ, ν. The Gr. probably continues along the margin; at the end I read: χ, stemles υ, ω, sampi.
- D] Poseidi is a promontory near Mende in the Chalcidice. Vokotopoulou thinks the alphabet is dedicatory. The alphabet is Ionic and not Attic.

(1) Vokotopoulou compares Agora 12, pl. 16/338-350, ca. 500-480, close to 480.

Poseidi.

- A] Fr. of plain cup. From Poseidi, sanctuary of Poseidon. Unattributed. First half fifth (V.). *I. Vokotopoulou, Delt. 45 (1990), B 2, Chronika [pub. 1995] 317, pl. 142, α.
- B] A: no figured decoration: the lip is BG; the handle zone is reserved.
- C] A: In the handle zone, in very large letters, a Gr. two-liner: [-]ίμαχος μάν[έ]θηκε | [-] (?) Π]ρσειδῶνι vacat.
- D] Poseidi is a promontory near Mende in the Chalcidice. I cannot see the first extant letter in line 2. Vokotopoulou mentions that there are many other Attic figured frs. from this excavation. The inscription is not Attic.

Prague, Charles University 81.1.

- A] RF cup. Villa Giulia Painter. Second quarter fifth. *J. Frel (verbal communication 1969). *Para. 399/105 bis, Add. (2) 271.
- B] Int.: a komast playing the flutes. A-B: komos.

C] According to Frel, the vase has, roughly, kalos kalos.
D] = inv. 512.

223/63, Para. 104, Add.(2) 58.
- B] Satyrs and maenads.
- C] Above the second maenad's left arm: Νικος; between the second maenad and the third satyr: θενε; between the third satyr and the third maenad: ςεποιεσεν; the final nu is raised to fit above the maenad's head.(1) I.e.
Νικος^θενε^ςεποιεσεν.
- D] Ex Rome (Basseggio). Ex Matternich. Eisman in the letter gives the number as 1242 (S128).

(1)taken from Eisman's letter.

6841.

Once Prague, Klein.

- A] Fr. of BF amphora or neck amphora. Unattributed. Third quarter sixth. *ABV 146/1. 'Script' 35.
- B] Subject(s), if any, not mentioned.
- C] On the top of the mouth: Εχσεκ[ιας...].
- D] Two other signatures of Exekias are on the topside of the mouth: Berlin 1720, CAVI 2216, and Vatican 344, CAVI 6979 ('Script' 132 and 136, both on vases painted by Exekias).

- A] Fr. of RF bell krater. Attribution unknown. Second half fifth.
*J. Frel (verbal communication).
- B] Part of a woman (muse).
- C] [Καλλ]ιοπη.(1)
- D] Unpublished as of 1969.

(1)said to be ending in eta: not early. My restoration.

6843.

Pregny, Baron Edmond de Rothchild.

- A] RF Nolan amphora. Alkimachos Painter. Second quarter fifth.
*ARV(2) 530/15, 1595/5, Para. 383.
- B] A: Nike. B: a youth.
- C] A: Λιχας.
- D] Ex Paris, Rothchild. Note that Beazley on p. 1595 does not mention the absence of καλος.

Princeton, University Art Museum.

- A] BF column krater. Attribution not known to me. Date? *Vidi.
- B] A: a warrior mounting a chariot, with five other warriors. B:
five nude and bearded male dancers.
- C] A: nonsense: to right of the horses' legs: π(ο)π(ο)π(ο)ν(ο).(1)

D] Low squat letters.

(1)the omicrons are reduced to dots.

Princeton, University Art Museum.

- A] RF psykter. Kleophrades Painter. Ca. 500. Very early. 510-500.
*Museum card (invitation to symposium 4/21/90).
- B] Symposium: the side shown has a youth reclining, playing kottabos and a bearded man reclining and filling his cup from another cup.
- C] Nonsense: to right of youth's head: ιλεις.
- D] Not in Beazley. Two other psykters by the Kleophrades Painter are also very early (ARV(2) 188/65-66). The inscription is in the Pioneer style. There are no doubt other inscriptions.

6846.

Princeton, University Art Museum 29.180.

- A] BF skyphos. From Sardes. Unattributed. Kritomenes(?) or Klitomenes(?) potter. Third quarter sixth. 550-530. *H.R.W. Smith, AJA 30 (1926) 432 ff, figs.1-4 (photos.), 5 (dr.). ABV 167, *Para. 69, Add.(2) 47. *Vidi.
- B] Int.: a swan. Ext.: no figured decoration.
- C] Handle zone: A: Κριτομεσεν for Κριτομενες.(1) B: εποισεν{σ}.(2)

(1)the last three letters are in reverse order. The second letter has been much discussed. I saw a curved stroke as for an omicron or D-shaped rho; definitely not part of a lambda, as preferred by Smith (who says that Klitomenes occurs on Paros) and adopted by Beazley in ABV. Bothmer in Para. also opts for rho. I do not know the name Kritomenes, which however is accepted in LGPN ii. Smith rightly thinks the inscriptions copied from a draft, with copying errors.

(2)uneven spacing: there are gaps after the first letter, after the omicron, before εν and before the extra sigma:
ε^πο^ιεν^εβ^σ}: 'syllabic' writing of sorts.

Princeton, University Art Museum 29.192.

- A] BF amphora. Manner of the Princeton Painter. Third quarter sixth. *Morey, AJA 11 (1907), 143 ff., fig. 1 (ph.), pls. 10-11 (drs.). ABV 330/9, Para. 130. *Vidi. I. Scheibler, 'Die Kouroi des Amasis-Malers,' in: J. Christiansen and T. Melander, eds., Proceedings of the Third Symposium on Ancient Greek and Related Pottery (Copenhagen 1988) 550-51, fig. 2 (B).
- B] A: Warriors Leaving Home, and a horseman leading a second horse. B: a horseman with men and a youth.
- C] A: Nonsense: imitation inscriptions: to right of the left man's legs: υ(.)λ(χ)λλι, retr. To right of the left warrior's legs: χ(.)λχιλλ(ρ), retr. Under the horses: χ(ο)λχ(ο)υ, retr. π(λ)υι(λ)(ι)(ο)λ, retr. Above one horse's head: π(σ)(ο)χσσ. B: similar: five vertical imitation inscriptions, one beginning with a large retr. epsilon. Under the foot, Dip.: X and X. Not in TGV.

- D] The drawings in AJA are inaccurate. Beazley compares Munich 1370 (ABV 303/3), by the Painter of Munich 1393. Attic and 'Argive' lambda.(1)

(1)the latter is not a real lambda.

6848.

- A] RF column krater. Hephaistos Painter. Third quarter fifth.
*TGV 133/9E 67, 135/10E 21, 167/24F 4 (after Smith, Chalc.).
*Letter from H.R.W. Smith to Princeton Museum in 1930's. Idem, The Origins of Chalcidian Ware (1932) 110 n. 60. Amyx, Hesp. 27 (1958) 198. ARV(2) 1115/27.
- B] A: symposium. B: three youths.
- C] Under the foot, Grr.: AΠ.(1) Κορ<ι>νθιουργή<ς> μέ<γ>ας.(2) A Gr. line across.
- D] In his letter, Smith thinks Κορ-Με, but not the monogram, were incised before firing; the Gr. line he explains to enable the correct attachment of the foot with regard to front and back.

(1)so TGV? Amyx read ligature ΑΠ. In the letter, Smith reads a ligature ΑΠ. (2)so my copy from Smith's letter. Apparently in two lines. It could of course be plural; but it probably refers to the vase on which it is written.

Princeton, University Art Museum 31.5.

- A] RF alabastron. Group of Paidikos Alabastra (γ).(1) Last quarter sixth. *Vidi. ARV(2) 100/17.
- B] Between columns: two women facing an altar.
- C] Nonsense: on the top of the mouth, in a complete circle, in BG: παργογλοι. Around the head of the woman at left (the main figure): ιο(α)ιλο.(2)
- D] The inscription on the mouth may be an illiterate attempt to write ho παις καλος.

(1)manner of Euergides Painter; this group may be by one hand (Beazley). (2)it is not clear that this is complete.

Princeton, University Art Museum 33.34.

- A] RF cup. Painter of London E 55 (Guy).(1) First quarter fifth.
*D. Buitron-Oliver, Douris (Kerameus 9, 1995) 87/E 15, pl. 127. ARV(2) 444/232.
- B] Int.: a woman with krotala (dancing?) at an altar; [at left, a column?].
- C] Int.: to the woman's left, facing her, curving at the end: καλος.

(1)"Probably by Douris himself" (Beazley).

- A] WG lekythos. Achilles Painter? Third quarter fifth. 450-445 (Oakley). *Museum card. *Conversation with F. Jones, curator, 7/28/67. Fairbanks i, 218/39. Princeton Record 24 (1965) 1, 22 (noted). Add.(2) 313, under 1000/188 (mention). Selections from the Princeton Art Museum (Princeton 1986) 27. *J.H. Oakley, The Achilles Painter (1997) 141/201, pl. 107C (inscription visible).
- B] Mistress and Maid: woman to right with a bundle of clothes; woman to left.
- C] Between the heads (closer to that on the left), below the top margin, horizontal stoich. two-liner, centered, fragmentary: The photo. shows: hυι[α]ι[ν]ο[ν] | κ[α]λ[ο]ς. (1)
./...////

- D] Ex Alden Sampson collection; given by his son Edward to Princeton, but kept in his house in Princeton in 1967 [now no doubt at the museum]. Refired (Oakley). - Much broken and in poor condition. This vase is not = ARV(2) 1000/188, which is not inscribed. I have not seen the vase. Gamma not recognizable. Heta almost like a nu.

(1)Oakley gives: h[υ]γ[ι]α[ι]ν[ο]ν | κ[α]λ[ο]ς. Fairbanks reports: Hygiainon kalos.

- B] Shoulder: Death of Orpheus.
- C] Shoulder: by Orpheus: [-]θευς.(1)

(1)so Matheson in her cat. and in n. 78; she thinks the name may have been [Πε]υθευς, although the scene is of Orpheus. I wonder if this is not a case of a poorly written phi (see phi S 11 in the chart, p. xxiii, in 'Script'): [Ο]ι(φ)ευς(?).

- B] A: fr. a: face and two hands of a satyr holding a bunch of grapes, and about to taste one. B: fr. b: face of a satyr in a similar pose, probably in a like occupation.
- C] A: under the head, to right of the hands, in large letters: [Ο]ιναρευς.(1) B: Ο[-].(2)

- D] Princeton L.1984.56 (lent by A. Herrmann) and L.1984.57
(lent by J.R. Guy).

(1)-ρευς can be seen in the photo. Basel, Cahn 432, CAVI 2059, q.v., frs. of RF cup by the Sotades Painter, has Oinareus as a satyr name on B (see Kossatz-Deissmann, GVGettyMus 5 (1991)). (2)Guy does not identify the first letter: (.?)[.]. Fr. b (Guy's fr.) is thought to be from B and has another satyr name, but it is not listed in K.-D., presumably because Guy did not read an initial letter.

Pyrgi.

- A] Fr. of Attic cup. From Pyrgi, sanctuary of Apollo. Unattributed. Date? *T.C.B. Ramussen, Archaeological Reports 1995-96 (1996) 50, fig. 3 (dr.). For more bibl. see ibidem, p. 50.
- B] No figured decoration preserved.
- C] Under foot, Etruscan Gr.: [---] mi : Suris : Cavathas [---], retr.
- D] Foot only. The sanctuary is identified from Aelian. Etruscan alphabet. Suri and Cavatha are Etruscan divinities.

Pyrgi.

- A] RF column krater. From Pyrgi, sanctuary of Apollo. Unattributed. Date? *T.C.B. Ramussen, Archaeological Reports 1995-96 (1996) 50 (not ill.). For further bibl. see ibidem.
- B] A: Heracles at symposium.
- C] Etruscan inscription: mi fuflunusra.
- D] Colonna translates: 'I [am a] Bacchic [vase]' 6868.

Ragusa, Museo Archeologico inv. 5623.

- A] SOS amphora. From Kamarina, tomb 454. Unattributed. After 600 (Johnston). *A.W. Johnston, BSA 73 (1978) 118/21, fig. 7,h.

'Script' 40. *M.T. Manni Piraina, 'Camarina - Rifriscolaro,' Kokalos 33 (1987) 101 (facs.), pl. 16 (the inscription misread).

- B] Undecorated.
- C] On the shoulder, Gr.: Σμορδονος and Σμορδονο<ς>ειμι.
- D] Both inscriptions are by the same hand despite some variation. The name is apparently not Attic, see BSA 129; it is listed with a query in LGPN ii.

Ragusa, Museo Archeologico inv. 26,556.

- A] RF bell krater. From Kamarina. Unattributed. Third quarter fifth. Ca. 440. *TGV 17, 34, 113/18C 59, fig. 6,c (facs.). G&R 21 (1974) 149.
- B] Subjects not mentioned.
- C] Under the foot, Gr.: a Gr. line crossing the foot. A+ III.
- D] A price Gr. Johnston 203 thinks the line means that the vase is reserved (ordered or even bought). The other Gr. is a price inscription: A, 9 obols (1 drachma, 3 obols).

6870.

Rancate, Zust.

- A] BF cup, type B. Compared to Pittsburgh Painter. First half fifth. *ms. Para, p. 522; not mentioned in the printed Para.
- B] No information on subjects.
- C] Etruscan Gr.: miunvial(?) (the text has milluvial, with the ll corrected into something I could not read).
- D] Rancate is in the Ticino; Züst is the Commendatore Giovanni Züst.

Reading, University.

- A] Frs. of BF Nikosthenic neck amphora. Painter N. Nikosthenes potter. 530-520. *ABV 217/7 (no bibl.).
- B] Originally (see comments below): A: Heracles and the Lion.
B: similar. At each handle, a siren.
- C] A or B: signed Nikosthenes(?) (if identical with the vase cited below).
- D] Ex London, Spinks. Perhaps identical with a vase from Cervetri, formerly Depoletti, then Basseggio: Brunn, no.
1; AZ 1885, 250; Hoppin, BF, no. 80. This was signed, but the signature was missing in the Spinks vase even before it was destroyed by enemy action in World War II. Frs. are at Reading.

- A] Frs. of RF cup. Unattributed.(1) Third quarter fifth. Ca. 440
(Ure). *P.N. Ure and A.D. Ure, CV, Great Britain 12, pl. 24,
... (no bibl.).
- B] Int.: maeander. Ext.: part of a woman dancer and of a male leaning on his stick, watching her. Legs of a draped male with his stick. Palmette.
- C] Ext.: on the fr. with the dancer, in white: Σ[-].(2)

D] Three non-joining frs. The sigma shaped = '3' reversed.

(1)Beazley apud CV: late work in the Penthesilean tradition.
(2)U. says that near the right edge there is a drooping lotus; this makes me think that the fr. preserves the right edge of the scene and I wonder if there is room for a name beginning with the sigma. The inscription could also be: [-]^σ[-], with the figure of the watcher intervening.

Reading, University 39.viii.2.

- A] Fr. of RF cup. From Etruria. Unattributed. Ca. 500 (Ure). *P.N. Ure and A.D. Ure, CV, Great Britain 12, pl. 24,3 (no bibl.).
B] Int.: a bearded satyr.
C] Int.: starting at his mouth and ending at his foot: κα[λ]ος, retr.

Reading, University 39.viii.3.

- A] Fr. of RF cup. Chaire Painter. Last quarter sixth. *Photo. ARV(2) 144/7 (no bibl.), Add.(2) 178. CV, Great Britain 12, pl. 24,1.
B] Int.: a male with a pointed and wreathed amphora.
C] Int.: in a curve, following the lower edge of the amphora: χαίρ[ε], retr.
D] There are at least four other vases with the same inscription by this painter.

6875.

Reading, University 39.viii.4.

- A] Fr. of RF cup. Unattributed. Ca. 500 (Ure). *photo. *ARV(2) 1580. *P.N. Ure and A.D. Ure, CV, Great Britain 12, pl. 24,2.
B] Int.: upper part of a male head; above it, part of the reserved tondo margin line.
Below, horizontal and retr., directed toward the male's forehead: [-]εστ^[-]?(2)
D] Good lettering. Mrs. Ure says that the only notable Euthydikos is the dedicator of the famous kore. LGPN ii does not list this vase and has: Εὐθυδημος, Εὐθυδικος, Εὐθυδομος (4th cent. and later), and Εὐθυδοτος. Ε[υ]θυδικος is found on a psykter by Smikros, Malibu 82.AE.53, CAVI 4959, 'Script' 407. For [-]εστ[-], Mrs. Ure suggests [h]εστ[ιαιος], another kalos-name (manner of Euthymides: see ARV(2) 1580 and 1583).

(1)Beazley supplies: [καλος and Εὐθυδ[ικος(?)], but there are other possibilities: [-]ς could be the end of a name; the gap makes the connection with the following name somewhat uncertain; that name could also be different (see above).
(2)there is said to be room probably for only one letter at the beginning, whence Mrs. Ure (apud ARV(2)) suggested [h]εστ[ιαιος]. The problem is that the letters run into the face of the figure, hence perhaps [h]εστ[^][ιαιος]. The inscription abuts the head and could continue on the other side or turn around along the face or turn back in end-boustr.

- A] Fr. of RF cup. From Etruria. Douris. Ca. 480 (Ure). First quarter fifth. Transitional II (Bare) (B.-O.). *ARV(2) 443/217. *P.N. Ure and A.D. Ure, CV, Great Britain 12, pl. 24,4. *D. Buitron-Oliver, Douris (Kerameus 9, 1995) 77/71, pl. 51.
- B] Int.: the right edge of the Int. is preserved: elbow and back of a male seated on a cushioned stool and playing the lyre (which is lost). Ext.: plain.
- C] Int.: along the right-hand margin line, ending at the cushion: [Δορις εγγ]αφσεν.(1)

(1)the signature probably started to right of the back of the male's head; that would leave the area on its left for a kalos-name.

- A] RF squat lekythos. Makaria Painter.(1) Last quarter fifth. *ARV(2) 1330/7, Para. 479, Add.(2) 365. Cecil Smith, Cat., p. 76. *Beazley, AJA 61 (1957) 8/xxii (not ill.). *H.A. Shapiro, Personifications in Greek Art (1993) 238/33, 88, fig. 42, 117, fig. 68, 172, fig. 132 (photos. of details). LIMC iv, 126, s.v. Eutychia, no. 3; v. 425, s.v. Himeros, no. 9.
- B] Aphrodite seated, with Himeros and two companions.
- C] Inscriptions: (A)φροδιτη. ιμερος.(2) (Ευ)τυχια.(3) [Μακ]αρια.(4)
- D] The inscriptions are in thick white paint. For Makaria see AJA.

(1)'coarsish sort of Meidian,' Beazley, AJA. (2)high above the head, below the top margin: ιμερος, the rho unclear in the photo. (3)the photo., fig. 42, seems to show: above the head: τυχια, for Ευτυχια: miscopied N = EU(?). (4)the restoration [Μακ]αρια is by A. D. Ure, cf. Beazley, AJA 61 (1957) 8.

 B] A: Athena. B: foot race.
 D] Mislaid (Oakley).

(1)Berlin Painter - Achilles Painter series; by Achilles Painter rather than Berlin Painter (Beazley). Achilles Painter (Oakley). (2)the second alpha is hardly vis., being mostly lost in a break.

- A] Frs. of RF pyxis. From Locris. Unattributed. Mid-fifth. "Little later, if at all, than 450," Beazley. *Caskey-Beazley iii, 72 (mention).
 B] Fr. 1: an altar with the child Helen crawling out of an egg shell; at right, legs of a draped woman (Leda). Fr. 2: an open hand extended to right; head and shoulders of a woman (perhaps parts of a fleeing women, from the left-hand portion of the scene).
 C] Fr. 2: between the head and the woman's shoulders: καλον.
 D] 2 frs. The only representation of Helen actually emerging from the egg (Beazley). Could καλον refer to the egg, or is the last letter a sideways sigma?

- A] Fr. of RF krater (calyx or bell). From Locri. Polygnotos. Third quarter fifth. Ca. 440. *ARV(2) 1030/28 bis (no bibl.). 'Script' 752. S.B. Matheson, Polygnotos and Vase Painting in Classical Athens (1995) 352/P 31 (not ill.). B. Giudice, Beazley's Locri Fragments (forthcoming in 1996).
B] Heracles squatting to left and drawing his bow (fragmentary).
C] Two-liner: [Πο]λυ[γνοτος] | εγραψ[εν].
D] I do not know if the inscription is stoichedon; see 'Script'. Matheson prints the inscription in Ionic letters and as a one-liner.

6885.

B] Undecorated.
C] Gr. in two lines, vertically down:
[--- τῶ]ν Χαλκιδέων | [---] νεκρός. (2)
D] Funerary; hence written on the pot, not the sherd.

(1)said to be Attic by Mosino. (2)Mosino thinks the Gr. Attic also, which I would doubt. There is perhaps a third line further down near the break.

Shapiro, Art and Cult under the Tyrants in Athens (1989) 70 n., 75, 78-81, 117 n., pl. 33,a. S. Matheson, GRBS 35 (1994) 364-66. *T. Hayashi, Bedeutung und Wandel des Triptolemosbildes (Beiträge zur Archäologie 20, 1992) 11, 13 with n. 42, 126/1, pl. 1,1-2. Nilsson, GGR i(3) 860 (further bibl. by Nilsson, Hayashi 93 n. 26). E. Simon in: J.H. Oakley, W.D.E. Coulson, O. Palagia, Athenian Potters and Painters: The Conference Proceedings (1997) 98, fig. 1.

- B] Neck: Heracles and Cerberus. Body: A: Demeter mounting a chariot, with Triptolemos, Athena, Heracles, Hermes and Ploutodotas (= Iakchos).
- C] Body: A: above Triptolemos' head: Τριπτολεμος, retr. To right of Athena's forehead: Αθνας. Below the horses' bellies: η[ερακλες or -κλεος]. To left of his face: Πλουτοδο|τας, end-boustr. On the horse, Gr.: a dotted circle and a sigma or snake(?): horse brands.
- D] Found in the early century but not published til 1952. D. Williams: the subject of A is perhaps appropriate to a Locrian sanctuary. He also discusses the 'non-Attic' forms of Ploutodotas and Athenas. Shapiro thinks that the vase celebrates the founding of the Lesser Eleusinian Mysteries in Athens. Schauenburg identifies Ploutodotas with Pluto; Beazley called the figure Pluton in ARV(2), but corrected it in Para. to 'strictly, Ploutodotas'; Procopio suggested Hades but left the identification open, saying that many divinities have this epithet [see LSJ, s.v. πλουτοδότης]. Shapiro has much discussion of other identifications. Simon suggests Dionysus-Iakchos. Shapiro himself thinks Ploutodotas the Orphic name of Zeus Meilichios. Cf. M.H. Jameson et al., A Lex Sacra from Selinous (GRBS Monographs 11, 1993) 95 n. 13. Matheson.: most scholars assume an Eleusinian setting but Boardman and Shapiro think of an Athenian connection: Boardman, JHS 95 (1975) 1-12. Shapiro, Art and Cult 78ff. Hayashi numbers the representation as type A, of which this is the only example. Nilsson referred it to the Hom. hymn to Demeter, which represented the Eleusinian rural religion. Hayashi argues against this (15f., 27f.): he relates the picture to the introduction of the Eleusinian cult to Athens under Solon. The handwriting is certainly not Exekias'.

(1)close to Exekias, Beazley, who compares Exekias' North Slope krater (ABV 145/19, CAVI 1795).

Rhamnous.

- A] Attic cup.(1) From Rhamnous. Unattributed. Sixth or fifth (LGPN).
*Prakt. 1984 I (pub. 1988) 187. SEG 35.229 = 38.15b. LGPN ii, s.v. Τιμαρχιδης 5.
B] No figured decoration mentioned.
C] Three times: Τιμαρχιδες.(2) A fourth line: Αναφλυστιος.
D] Is this funerary, or to mark the ownership by a member of a club functioning in the sanctuary?

(1)probably a roof tile. (2)LGPN reads: Τιμαρχιδει[s].

Rhamnous.

- A] Fr. of [BG?] cup. From Rhamnous, Dexamene. Unattributed.
Mid-fifth. *Petraikos, Prakt. 1984, A', 186, no. 57, fig. 14 (dr.).
B] No figured decoration.
C] Gr.: Βιόν.
D] P. considers this an owner's mark, but the dr. looks as if written on the inside. There are letters on a number of cup feet (underneath) which are probably, as he says, owner's Grr.; he thinks the cups belonged to workmen working on the temple.

Second quarter fifth (P.). *Petraikos, Prakt. 1984, A', 186-87, fig. 27 (dr.).(1)
B] No figured decoration preserved.
C] Under the foot, circular: Φιλ[-]α vac.(2)
D] Another cup foot fr. has Φι twice or Φι< and Φιλ[-]; see fig. 27. Petraikos thinks these cups belonged to workmen working at the temple.

(1)there are other Grr. on pottery in this article, which I have not copied. (2)Petraikos suggests: Φιλ[οκλειδ]α, but why the Doric genit.?

Cohen, 'The Literate Painter: A Tradition of Incised Signatures on Attic Vases,' MetMusJ 26 (1991) 80 and nn. 169-172, fig. 58.
 B] Neck: RF: symposium of Attic kings: in the center, a bearded lyre player; at left, a bearded man and a white-haired bearded man reclining; at right, a youth and a bearded man reclining. Between the figures, three lyres hung up.

- C] Above the head of the left-most symposiast: Κεκροφς. The second figure's name is lost; Neils thinks he might be Erechtheus, Guy that he might have been Aegeus, less likely Erichthonios. The lyre player: [-]υποπ[-], which cannot be restored as a king's name, unless it is badly miswritten for Hippothoon; Neils thinks it may be the name of an unknown bard who is called in for entertainment; Guy suggests tentatively [E]υπομπ[ος], as the name of a bard or amateur performer. Above the fourth symposiast: Θεσευς. The fifth figure (with white hair and beard) has: [-]δον, perhaps [Πανδι]δον, Theseus' grandfather. Along the middle of the ram's head, down, Dip.: Χαρινος με εποιεσεν.
- D] A similar, but mortal, symposium is found on Berlin 2298, ARV(2) 364/52, by the same painter. Cohen says the signature was written by the Triptolemos Painter, not by Charinos.

Oakley, 'A Calyx-krater in Virginia by the Nikias Painter with the Birth of Erichthonios,' AK 30 (1987) 123-30, fig. 1 (facss. of inscriptions), pls. 18-19.
- B] A: Birth of Erichthonios: above the left handle, Apollo seated with his laurel and a tripod; Hephaestus; higher up, the upper part of Hermes; Ge with the baby; Athena; an owl; Nike with a shield; Aphrodite seated; Zeus; above the right handle, a seated youth (Epimetheus or Prometheus). B: Eos pursuing Cephalus; at left, a companion of Cephalus, throwing a stone at the goddess.
- C] A: inscriptions above the heads: Απολλ(δ)(υ). Ηφαισ(τ)(ο)(ς). (Ε)ρμης. Για(α)(?) (1) Athena. (2) Ζ(ε)υς. <Ε>πιμηθ(ο)υ(ς). (3) B: to right of Eos' head: Εως. High above Cephalus' head: Κ(ε)φ(α)λος.
- D] Oakley says the tripod points to a dithyrambic victory as the occasion for the vase. The inscriptions are hard to read, since they are in applied white which has in part come off. The facss. are poor. The bracketed [()] letters are poorly preserved. Mostly Ionic, but there is a 3-stroke sigma in the name Εως.

(1) this is very unclear in the facs. (2) illegible in the facs.: υιυυ(?). (3) discussed by Oakley on p. 127: he says he reads: ΕΙΜΗΘΟΥΣ, but the facs. shows: ΠΙΜΗΘΟΥΣ. Both readings are probably wrong. Oakley also suggests that the third letter from the end could be an epsilon. He prefers Epimetheus to Prometheus. I go by xerox' of photos. kindly sent me by Oakley.

- B] Shoulder: fight. Body: Heracles mounting a chariot, with Athena. Predella: fight.
- C] Shoulder: [--]τομενος καλος.
- D] According to Arch. Class., the name ends in -ος, not -ες. Beazley suggests this is a mistake for [Αυ]τομενες καλος, which occurs also on Boulogne 417, manner of Lysippides Painter, ABV 260/32, CAVI 2835, and Florence 81,601, RF cup by Oltos, ARV(2) 64/96, CAVI 3606. - The inscription might be misread rather than miswritten.

Rome, Vatican 323.

- A] Plain lip cup. Unattributed. Third quarter sixth. *Albizzati 113, fig. 54.
 B] No figured decoration.
 C] Handle zone: nonsense: mock inscriptions. A: εποιεαοναονασεα. B: εποιεαοναονεα.(1)
 D] The inscriptions imitate a potter's signature.

(1)both inscriptions after Albizzati's text; the picture is very small, enough only to show that the gaps indicated by him do not exist. The inscription on B is rendered by him as: εποιε α<ο>ν αον <α>εα.

- A] BF band cup. From Vulci. Unattributed. Third quarter sixth. 550-530. *Albizzati 113-14, pl. 31. Museum etruscum Gregorianum (1842), pl. 68 (64),4. 'Script' 1050.
 B] A: boars and bulls. B: similar.
 C] Nonsense inscriptions in groups of ca. 10 letters, all horizontal: A: (.)ε(v)εοε(v)ε[.]ε(.), complete.
 χα[.]ρε(v)ε(v)(.), complete.(1) B: an illegible inscription above the first boar: --?](.)ιρε(v)ε(v)ρε(.). Further:

χα[.]ι(.)πιπ(.) (unclear). χα(.)ι(ν)(.)ι(ε)(ν), complete.

- D] Done from photos. in Albizzati and hence uncertain. The letters are small, part imitation letters. High-kicking alphas. Nu reversed. D-shaped rho. The round blobs here rendered (.) are probably omicrons.

(1)I have a record of only 1/2 of the handle zone on A.

- A] BF band cup. Unattributed. Third quarter sixth. *Albizzati 116-17, pl. 35. Museum Etruscum Gregorianum (1842) ii, pl. 29 = (2)20.
- B] Handle zone: A: a horseman between, on each side, a draped male and a runner. B: similar.
- C] Handle zone: nonsense: B: rows of dots to the right of several figures.(1)

(1)illustrated on pl. 35. I have no information on A, which ought to be the same.

Ajax after the conquest of Salamis. Moore: Κυλλ<λ>αρος = but from accustomed activities, not an adventure. A. Hermary, (summarizes the interpretations of B).

(1)an Iambic trimeter, as on Berlin 1720, CAVI 2216, but not so carefully planned as a half-circle; by my calculation, the inscription takes considerably less space. It is not well preserved and both Albizzati, fig. 63, and FR 35 (facs.), show a number of imperfect letters. (2)omitted in ARV(2), or rather conflated with the inscription on A, which is not retr. (3)the epsilon is miswritten, see 'Script', p. 139, bottom (the sign is omitted on p. 33, but see the chart, p. 35).

(1)the lambda is not retr.; the delta may be a rho. This last holds true of all 'deltas', whence perhaps Smith got the idea that these painters play with the name of Nearchos, although he too reads νχδεο. (2)the nu is not retr. (3)the first letter is a blob.

- C] A: starting to right of the seated seller's middle:
 ὁ Ζεῦ(.) πάτερ, αἴ(θ)ε πλούσιος γεν[οίμαν].(2) B: from the mouth of the seller (who is standing at left):
 ἔδε μὲν ἔδε πλέον· παραβέβακεν.(3) To the seller's left:
 ιο[2-3], retr.(?).(4) Under the foot AP, retr., TGV 133/9E,86.
- D] C. Robert, Hermeneutik (1919) 118 believed the two inscriptions are thought, not spoken; cf. F. Lissarrague, 'Graphein: écrire et dessiner,' in: C. Bron and E.
 Kassapoglou, eds., L'image en jeu (1992) 201 n. 31. - Robert also thought the letters λo were to be restored to ὀκτό, the number of fingers extended, but this is disproved by an examination of the vase as restored and cleaned, performed by F. Buranelli in 1990 who showed that this inscription, incomplete at the beginning, ends in -οι. See Lissarrague,
 n. 32. [The inscription is said to be near the figure on the right on A; it does not show in the dr., Lissarrague, fig. 14.] - Shapiro in P&P, n. 16, gives a list of BF and RF pelikai showing the sale of oil. - The theta lacks the dot.
 The rho is tailed.

(1)Bothmer attributes this as the name piece to his 'Plousios Painter', see Revue du Louvre 27 (1977) ca. 216. (Ref. from

 Greek Vases and Bronzes from the Elie Borowski Collection*

(2)Albizzati's photo. shows a trace of a letter, or blob, by a break after Ζεῦ; could it be Ζεῦς?, nom. for voc.(?).

(3)Kretschmer and Albizzati read παραβέβακεν, but A.'s photo.
 shows παραβεβακεν, a hybrid dialect form; see Milne apud Richter. Perhaps πλέον = πλέων (cf. Robert's alternative) is preferable, sc. ὀκτοφόρος. (4)or 'φ[-, or [2-3]οι, not retr.(?).

- A] Foot with Nikosthenic foot plate.(1) From Vulci? Unattributed.(1) Pamphaios potter. Last quarter sixth. *AJA 88 (1984) 344, 348/8, pl. 42, figs. 10-11. ABV 236/5, Add.(2) 60.
- B] No figured decoration preserved.
- C] On the reserved foot profile, in BG: Πανφαιος μεποιεσεν.(2)
- D] The cup to which this foot was attached is alien and RF; see ARV(2) 169/4, Scheurleer Painter. The foot has now been detached from the cup.

(1)it is unclear whether the foot was from a BF, RF or, most likely, a BG cup. (2)the inscription is by the same hand as that on a cup foot in Chapel Hill, NC, Ackland Museum 84.11.1 (see Para. 333, AJA, loc. cit., 348/9, CAVI 3135).

- B] Int.: Oedipus and the sphinx. A-B: satyrs.
- C] Int.: to the upper right of Oedipus' head, ending over the sphinx's head: Οιδίποδες. To left of the sphinx' mouth: [κ]αἰτρία, retr.(2) R. Guy tells me that on the exterior are inscriptions in the preliminary sketch which were not copied on the glaze.
- D] Oedipus' mouth is slightly open. For the words of the sphinx see Beazley in AJA. An Etruscan cup, Paris, Musée Rodin 980, copies the exterior of this cup; see ARV(2). H. Hoffmann, Sotades: Symbols of Immortality on Greek Vases (1997) 80-82, fig. 41 (dr. [probably after Hartwig]). H. speculates much on a secondary meaning of 'τρία' as spoken by the sphinx.

(1)close to late Douris. (2)there is room for only one letter before the face of Oedipus; hence τρία.

- B] Int.: Jason disgorged by the dragon; above, the golden fleece; at right, Athena. A-B: men and youths.
- C] Int.: below Jason's face:Ι(α)σών. Under the foot, Gr. OE, retr. The omicron is angular. Apparently not in TGV. See the facs. in B.-O.'s cat.
- D] The Ext. has a youth with a large sprig; hence Hartwig's 'Meister mit der Ranke'. Some think that Jason went down the dragon's throat and cut out his tongue so that he could not swallow him. This version is not otherwise known. See AJA 87 (1983), pl. 55,3 and text. Alpha lacks the cross stroke.

- B] Shoulder: A: Amazonomachy. B: duel between women and horsemen.(1) Body: three animal friezes.
- C] Shoulder: nonsense: A: between the feet of the leftmost warrior: (.)ο(.)οπογ. Between the central warrior's feet: υοπονο. Between the legs of the warrior at right: νονον. B: to right of the left horse: γογον(ο), retr. Between the legs of the left warrior: εουονο, retr. Similarly between the right warrior's legs: οντο(.)τον, retr.
- D] Large clear letters, squarish. B is in thinner letters, perhaps by a different hand.

- B] Lip: A, B, each: Heracles and the Lion.
C] Handle zone: A: $\chi\alpha\rho\epsilon$ και $\pi\iota\epsilon\iota$ $\tau\epsilon\langle\nu\rangle\delta\iota$. (2) B: { $\chi\alpha\iota$ } $\chi\alpha\rho\epsilon$ και $\pi\iota\epsilon\iota$ (π) ϵ . (3)
D] Very neat lettering.

(1)Beazley compares the scenes with Heracles and Lion groups under the handles of Cambridge 60, CAVI 3014, signed Hischylos and Sakonides, but says G 59 is earlier and finer; he also compares Lydos. (2)Beazley prefers $\tau\epsilon\delta\acute{\iota}$, 'here', following a similar suggestion by Panofka. (3)Scheller describes a pi pinched in. But Beazley reads $\rho\epsilon$ and notes that the inscription is inserted into a split $\chi\alpha\iota$ - $\rho\epsilon$, a joke by the painter. But Scheller may be right, in which case the inscription is miswritten.

B] A, B, each: lip: two swans.
C] Handle zone: A: $\chi\alpha\rho\epsilon$ και $\pi\iota\{\alpha\}$ ει $\tau\epsilon\langle\epsilon\rangle\nu\delta\epsilon$. (1) B: probably similar. (2)
D] Beazley, in Para., reads: $\chi\alpha\rho\epsilon$ και $\pi\iota\delta\iota\epsilon\tau\nu\alpha\epsilon$. He compares this with the inscription on Basel Market (M.M.), Para. 77/1 [see above, no. 2107], which he reads $\chi\alpha\rho\epsilon$ και $\pi\iota\alpha\iota\epsilon\tau\nu\delta\epsilon$, saying that both inscriptions are by the same hand. [I separate: $\pi\iota\alpha\iota\epsilon\tau\nu\delta\epsilon$] He makes a further comparison with Brussels R 386, CAVI 2153, and 'perhaps' with Sydney 53/14, CAVI 2953 (Para. 77/3 and no number), which have no error and which he does not say are by the same hand. He thought that the 'perversion' on the first two vases was deliberate. I wonder if the two inscriptions are not copied from a misunderstood model by a semi-literate.

(1)the intrusive (pointed) alpha is larger than the other letters, extending below the line. Para. has the last alpha as a delta; but Basel Market (M.M.), Para. 77/1, CAVI 2107, appears to have alpha. (2)B is not illustrated and not given in the text.

- D] Listed in ABV as Naples, Astarita, w/o number. The cup lacks the foot. Not all letters are certain. Beazley says that the monstrous interpretation in Riv. is noted in Glotta.

(1)a break runs through letters 8-10. Letter 7 is a smudge; letter 9 is the bottom of a vertical stroke; letter 20 is a reversed nu; the epsilon, letter 21, has very short strokes and is unclear.

A] RF pelike. From Cervetri. Euphronios. Last quarter sixth. 520-515 (Euphr.). *Antikemuseum Berlin, Euphronios der Maler (exhib. 20-3 - 25-5 1991) 164/27 and 165/28 (ill.). Also Musée du Louvre, Euphronios (exhib. 9-18 - 12-31 1990). *Photo. and dr. VA 30. ARV(2) 16/12, Add.(2) 153.

B] A: a seated youth, holding his stick and having his sandal tied by a boy. B: a seated youth, with his stick, playing with a marten.(1)

C] B: to the youth's upper right, facing him: Λεαγρος. On the youth's left, not facing him: καλος.(2) Under the foot: a long Etruscan Gr.

D] + Chicago, University 1967.115.187. Firm letters.

(1)according to Beazley; see Caskey-Beazley iii, text.

(2)for the shape of the sigma see my article in: Euphromios und seine Zeit (1991) 52. The two sigmas are not lying sideways, but are written without turning the vase.

Rome, Villa Giulia.

A] RF calyx krater. From Cervetri. Epiktetos. Andokides potter. Last quarter sixth. 520-510. Early (Beazley). *ARV(2) 77/90, Add.(2) 169. Ricci, Mon. Linc. 42, 889-91 (ill.). *Photo. 'Script' 306. *B. Cohen, 'The Literate Potter,' MetMusJ 26 (1991) 89 n. 68. K. Huber in: Euphronios und seine Zeit (Colloquium Berlin 19-20 April 1991) 60 (foot does not belong). Robertson, AVCA 17-18 and n. 37. *M.B. Moore, Attic Red-figured and White-ground Pottery (The Athenian Agora 30, 1997) 88 and n. 6.

B] A: komos. B: Dionysus and maenads.

- C] A: above the scene, Gr.: Επικτε[τος ε]γρασφεν, for εγρασφεν. On the foot, Gr.: [Ανδο]κιδες εποε (1), complete at end.
- D] Very early, his style not yet formed, recalls his teacher Psiax (Robertson). "Ricci ... rejects the signature of Epiktetos and is reminded of Psiax: I think the drawing is by Epiktetos, although there are certain resemblances to Psiax; compare also [London, Victoria and Albert Museum 275.64, CAVI 4753] the Brachas vase (p. 9)," Beazley. Cohen states that the foot (with the sig. of Andokides) does not belong and is perhaps from an amphora; see 'Literate Potter' and Huber. For Gr. inscriptions in early RF see 'Script', pp. 58-59.

(1)cf. GAI i, 328 and ii, 511.

- A] Frs. of plastic mug (head vase: negro's head). Unattributed. Charinos potter. Last quarter sixth. 510-500 (Cohen). *ARV(2) 1531/1. *NSc 1916, 53 (facs.). *Beazley, JHS 49 (1929) 43/1. Cohen, 'The Literate Potter,' MetMusJ 26 (1991) 79 (not ill.).
- B] The bowl is checkered, on white ground.
- C] On the handle, in two lines, Gr.: [Χ]αρινος εποισεν and [--]ικος καρτα καλος.

(1)in ARV(2), Beazley gives one sigma as four-stroke, but in JHS and NSc. all sigmas are three-stroke.

Rome, Villa Giulia.+

- A] Fr. of rhyton or kantharos (head vase?, see below). From Veii. Syriskos Painter. First quarter fifth. *ARV(2) 265/76 (no bibl.).
- B] Boy, and youth leaning on his stick; between them, a pillar.
- C] On the pillar: καλος.
- D] + a (misaid?) fr. of a cat-head rhyton that may belong.

7073.

Rome, Villa Giulia.

- A] RF oinochoe. From Cervetri. Terpaulos Painter. First quarter fifth. *Vidi. *ARV(2) 308/1 (no bibl.), Add.(2) 212. Helbig(4), vol. 3 (Tübingen 1969), no. 2647 (Greifenhagen). A. Kossatz-Deissmann, GVGettyMus 5 (1991) 173, TERPAULOS 2.
- B] Satyr playing the flute.
- C] Above the flutes: Τερπ{π}αυλος (the satyr). Above the satyr: καλος, retr. At right: ho πας καλος. On a wineskin, in BG: καλος, retr.

- D] The red letters are fine, the BG letters are large. - I do not think the καλος goes with the name.

7074.

Rome, Villa Giulia.

- A] RF oinochoe. Dutuit Painter.(1) First quarter fifth. *Vidi. ARV(2) 1644.
B] On the neck: a youth (boy), and a man leaning on his stick.
C] In white: καλος(?) and other letters.
D] I saw a companion piece (youth with dog to left) which did not seem inscribed; this must be ARV(2) 307/15.

(1)probable (Beazley).

7075.

Rome, Villa Giulia.

- A] RF oinochoe. From Cervetri. Terpaulos Painter. First quarter fifth. *Beazley, AJA 61 (1957) 6/xii (not ill.). ARV(2) 308/3, Para. 357. *Vidi (part of inscriptions(1)). *GAI ii, 340.
B] A young warrior retreating under a shower of arrows.
C] The inscriptions are horizontal: in the field: Λυσέας καλός, ναίχι δοκεῖται, (1) and: καλος, retr. On the band serving as a ground line: Λυσεας καλος. From the youth's mouth: παπαί, retr. Also: γωνυ.(2)
D] ARV(2) gives the name Lyseas twice; I saw it only once.

(1)for a discussion of ται see GAI ii, 340-41. (2)there may be more at the end (Beazley). Is γωνυ(γώνυ?) a military posture? It seems to be the equivalent of 'at ease', cf. e.g. Diodorus Siculus 15.32.5. - I take ναίχι and γωνυ from Beazley as I did not see these words.

Rome, Villa Giulia.

- A] Fr. of RF plastic rhyton (sphinx). From Vulci. Unattributed. Sotades potter. Second quarter fifth. *ARV(2) 772/ζ (no bibl.). B. Cohen, 'The Literate Potter,' MetMusJ 26 (1991) 82 and n. 183 (misprint: the vase is not illustrated). H. Hoffmann, Sotades: Symbols of Immortality on Greek Vases (1997) 155/E 4 (not ill.).
B] No figured decoration preserved.
C] Gr.: Σωταδης εποιησεν.
D] In whose hand is the signature? The alphabet varies in the signatures, but Cohen assumes they are by the potter. Mixed alphabet (mainly Ionic).

7077.

- A] Fragmentary RF cup. Paseas (Cerberus Painter). Last quarter sixth. *Photo. (Int.). *CV, Italy 8, III I, pl. 1 B 8-9 (part), etc. *CF, pl. Y, 1 (Int.). W. Kraiker, Katalog ... Heidelberg (1931), pl. 4 (Heidelberg fr.). ARV(2) 163/10.
- B] Int.: a woman, running and carrying on her left arm a phallus-bird kissing her lips. A: Heracles and Geryon. B: unexplained: Artemis and males (fragmentary).
- C] Int.: below the left arm: εἶ καλῆ(1)
- D] + Heidelberg 20. + ex Florence 1 B 8-9; 25-26 B 40; 6 B 29; 11 B 65; 12 B 37; 20 B 55.

(1) this follows a suggestion by Beazley in 'Campana Fragments' I wonder if something (a name?) did not precede these words. Usually εἶ is not found at the beginning of a kalos statement, but see London E 398, RF pelike, unattributed, BSA 29 (1929-28) 197-98, CSVI 4582, which has εἶ σφόδρα καλή. Louvre G 136, RF cup, Eucharides Painter, ARV(2) 231/78, CAVI 6478, has: εἶ σὺ καλός and Ἀριστείδες, which can be read before or after the kalos statement.

- A] RF cup. From Cervetri. Oltos. Last quarter sixth. *ARV(2) 1623/66 bis, 1699, Para. 327, Add.(2) 165. *C. Bérard et al., A City of Images: Iconography and Society in Ancient Greece (tr. D. Lyons, 1989) 162, fig. 224 (A, central portion: shows some letters to left and right of the two wrestling heroes).
- B] Int.: a boy about to set down a cock for the cock fight. A: Heracles and Nereus. B: a procession to an altar, with two bulls.
- C] Int.: καλὸς Μεμνῶν.
- D] Ex Rome, Fondazione Lerici.

- A] Fragmentary RF palmette eye cup. Oltos. Last quarter sixth. *ARV(2) 58/48, 49/173. *CV, Italy 8, pls. 1 B 23 and 12 B 98 (parts).

- B] Int.: a woman cup-bearer. Ext.: between palmettes between eyes: A: Dionysus(?) reclining. B: a maenad.
 C] Int.: Μει[μνῶν], retr., and [κα]λος, retr.
 D] + ex Florence. + Vatican, Astarita 301.

7083.

Rome, Villa Giulia.+

- A] Fragmentary RF cup. Oltos. Kachrylion potter. Last quarter sixth. Early middle (Beazley). *ARV(2) 59/60. *CV, Italy 8, pl. 1 B 51 (part). *Beazley, CF.
 B] Int.: an archer. A: duel, with a horseman. B: a satyr and a maenad with a donkey.
 C] Int.: Χαχρυλι[ι]ῶν and [εποι]εσε(ν), the last retr. Θρ[ασ]ε(ς), for Θρασέας.(1) A: Θρασες. [--]ας and below it: [κα]λος.(2) B: the maenad: Θαλια.
 D] + a fr. ex Florence. + Vatican, Astarita 298. The inscriptions after CF, and, for the Astarita fr., ARV(2).

(1)Θρ[--]ες shares the sigma with the nu of [--]εσεν. (2)the last two words on A are on the Astarita fr. In CF, Beazley (the Astarita fr. not yet included) also reads [--]ος; thus there are perhaps two names and a kalos-name on A, unless [--]ος is another kalos.

7084.

Rome, Villa Giulia.+

- A] Fragmentary BF/RF eye cup. Epiktetos. Hischylos potter. Last quarter sixth. *ARV(2) 70/2 = 45/101, 71/9 = 46/139, *Add.(2) 166. *CV, Italy 8, pl. 3 B 1 (part). *CF, pl. Z,8 (part). Beazley, JHS 51 (1931) 40/2 (erroneous reading). Kraiker, Katalog ... Heidelberg (1931), pl. 5 (Heidelberg fr.). *Cohen, Bilinguals, pls. 93,3 and 94,1-2 (all).
 B] Int.: BF: a warrior. Ext.: between eyes: A: a male squatting. B: a horse.
 C] Int.: η[ισ]χυλος [---]. B: between the left-hand brow and eye: Επικτετος [---].
 D] + ex Florence 3 B 1 and CF, pl. Z,8. + Heidelberg 18. + Villa Giulia fr. (ARV(2) 46/139 = 71/9). The verbs were no doubt in the missing parts.

- B] Int.: komast.
- C] Int.: [--]ς καλος εγ[ραφ]σεν.
- D] + Toronto 923.13.11. Beazley (p. 82) compares Louvre G 10, CAVI 6387: Επιλυκο[ς] εγρ[αφ]σεν καλος. (So I would read, rather than καλω[ς]). My guess is that this is a conflation of the kalos-inscription favored by Skythes, and his signature. The VG inscription might thus be restored with [Επιλυκο]ς or [Σκυθε]ς.

- C] Int.: on the bottom step, no doubt in BG: ἡοπα[ις].(1)
- D] Two frs. Very neat writing.

(1)It is not clear whether there was space for καλος. There is a slightly wider space between the article and the noun.

- B] A: small pieces of helmet crest and shield.
- C] A: ἡιπ[ποδαμας---].
- D] B.-O. lists the fr. as: Florence, Museo Archeologico, ex Villa Giulia. Rim fr.; a small rim fr. in Florence with a crest recalls this (Beazley).

- A] Fr. of RF cup. Douris. 480-470. Late period (B.-O.). *ARV(2) 444/235. *D. Buitron-Oliver, Douris (Kerameus 9, 1995) 85/226, pl. 110.
- B] Int.: a man (Heracles?) (club(?), baldrick, left arm extended). Ext.: plain.
- C] Int.: along the margin: ἡοπα[ις]καλος.
- D] R. Guy has added another fr. in Villa Giulia. Beazley in ARV(2) says the figure faces left and so does B.-O. But the photo. in pl. 110 shows the figure facing right. The latter must be right if the inscription is not retr., which is unlikely (and not so registered in B.O.'s cat.). Bothmer interprets the scene as Heracles in the bowl of Helios.

- B] Int.: woman to right, holding flutes (hetaera); at upper left, crotala; at lower right, parts of a stool.(1)
- C] Int.: to right of the woman, vertically up and not facing her: [P]οδο[πις].(2)
- D] Three frs. Type B. ARV(2) 473/230 and 477/305, plus one fr. added by Guy.

(1)ARV(2) 473/230 adds: A: (stick?, and edge of himation); but this is probably an error. Kunisch does not mention any Ext. decoration. (2)Kunisch without query; Beazley's suggestion, supplied with a question mark.

- D] Della Seta refers to the vase painter Kittos and compares Hesych., s.v. κίττοϛ, Laconian for καλόϛ; he thinks the inscriptions were written by a foreigner in an Attic workshop. But the word is not in LSJ, nor is κίσσοϛ there given this meaning. I think it should be a name: Pape has both Κίσσοϛ and Κίττοϛ. LGPN ii has Κίσσοϛ in 5-4 B.C. in POxy and Isoc.; also in the 3rd cent. A.D.; it also has Κίττοϛ which is much more common from the 4th cent. B.C. on. L.-H. does not discuss this. Caruso, Collezione Castellani: Le Ceramiche (1985) 38/41 (shows inscription small).
 D] Typical strong writing. The inscription could perhaps refer to Heracles. The facs. in Mingazzini wrongly shows the inscription as retr.

- A] RF cup. Unattributed.(1) First quarter fifth.
*Photo. (Int.). *Vidi. (Int.). *P. Mingazzini, Catalogo della Collezione Augusto Castellani II (1971) 35/649, pls. 117,7, 119,2 (shows Int. inscriptions), 120,1-2, 121,1-2, B, fig. 1 and E, fig. 1 (facss. A and Int.). Klein, L. (1898) s.v. Aristagoras. *ARV(2) 1565/1, Add.(2) 388 (bibl.). G. Vorberg, Ars erotica (1926), pl. 9 (Int.); Gloss. erot. (1932) 493. L. Deubner, Attische Feste (1932), pl. 4. *I. Caruso, Collezione Castellani: Le Ceramiche (1985) 39/44 (Int.; the ph. (Int.) shows traces of the inscriptions on the BG, and clearly that on the phallus).
- B] Int.: two hetaerae at the Halooa festival: they dance around a phallus supported by stylized testicles as a base. ['dancing' seems better than 'erecting a phallus'. It could be that the right hetaera who is nude is erecting it, or holding it upright, while the left one, who is draped, dances around it]. A: komos of four dancing youths. B: komos of four figures, two fighting and two bearded.
- C] Int.: above the scene, near the margin: $\kappa\alpha\lambda\omicron\varsigma$; on the middle and lower right, similar: $\eta\omicron\pi\alpha\iota\varsigma$. Caruso reads: Int.: $\omicron\pi\alpha[\varsigma]\kappa\alpha[\lambda]\omicron\varsigma$. On the phallus, vertically down, in BG: $\kappa\alpha\lambda\epsilon$.(2) A: $\Phi\rho\iota\sigma\tau\alpha\gamma\omicron\rho\alpha\varsigma\kappa\alpha\lambda\omicron\varsigma$, for $\text{A}\rho\iota\sigma\tau\alpha\gamma\omicron\rho\alpha\varsigma$. Beazley reads: $\Phi\rho\iota\sigma\tau\alpha\gamma\omicron\rho\alpha\varsigma\kappa\alpha\lambda\omicron\varsigma$. [sic]. A: under the rim: $\kappa[\alpha]\lambda\omicron\varsigma\omicron\pi[\alpha]\iota\varsigma$. Caruso: traces of illegible letters.
- D] Beazley thinks the writer may have had another kalos in mind and changed after the first letter; he notes that on Louvre C 10,917+, CAVI 6607, the name is coupled with Phaidrias. - M.'s reading of the inscriptions on the Int. is roughly correct, but for A he gives only $\kappa[\alpha]\lambda\omicron\varsigma\eta\omicron\pi\alpha[\iota]\varsigma$ and no name. The facss. make no sense.

(1)Mingazzini attributes to Oedipus Ptr., a follower of Douris. (2)very sloppy: kappa = chi 1; alpha = delta S 1; lambda = gamma 2 (lambda 5), unless the inscription is to be read retr., whence lambda would be 2; epsilon near 8 (see the chart in 'Script').

- C] Int.: a nonsense inscription, typical of the Foundry Painter: see Mingazzini, the photo. and the facs., pl. C, fig. 1. B: nonsense inscriptions.(1) Under the foot Gr.: see Mingazzini,

- A] RF cup. Pan Painter. First quarter fifth. Ca. 480. *Beazley, Der Pan-Maler (1931) 26/79, pl. 6,5 (after Philol.). *P. Mingazzini, Catalogo della Collezione Augusto Castellani II (1971) 66/670, pl. 141,3,5. Hauser, Philologus 54 (1895), pl. 1. Harrison, Themis (1957) 325, fig. 94. L. Deubner, Attische Feste (1932) pl. 32,1. ARV(2) 560/156, Para. 387, Add.(2) 259. 'Script' 698.
- B] Int.: a boy in an embroidered robe holds some branches and prays before a laver; at right, a column.
- C] On the bowl of the laver, in BG: $\kappa\alpha[\lambda]o[\varsigma]$. On the base of the laver, which is cut off by the margin, in BG: $\alpha\varsigma$, complete. Perhaps intended for: $\langle\rightarrow\rangle\alpha\varsigma|\kappa\alpha[\lambda]o\varsigma$.
- D] Mingazzini in accordance with others says that the boy is in female clothing; he disagrees with Hauser who connected the scene with the oschophoria. Harrison thinks of a rain ritual. Deubner also rejects the oschophoria but has no solution. Mingazzini considers instead the thallophoria and cites Beazley who thinks of the pyanepsia. It is at any rate a precise ritual in which a boy immerses a branch (of myrtle or olive, not a vine) into a laver. I think the painter is indicating the end of a word, which would have filled the base: $\langle\rightarrow\rangle\alpha\varsigma$.

- B] Int.: a bearded man with his stick (restored). Ext.: young athletes: A: a runner(?); a discobolus; a jumper with one halter; a pick axe. B: wrestlers (see Mingazzini as against Gardiner); a youth leaning on his stick, watching.
- C] A: in the field: $\kappa\alpha\lambda\omicron\varsigma$, retr.(1) B: along the lip: $h[o\pi]\alpha\varsigma$, retr. Continuing further down: $\kappa\alpha\lambda\omicron\varsigma$, retr.(1)

D] On the subject of B, Mingazzini thinks it is the $\pi\acute{\alpha}\lambda\eta$, in which one wrestler tries to move an impassive opponent off the ground; Gardiner speaks of 'ground wrestling'.

(1)so the facss., but I wonder if it is right. The facss. are drawn as retr. on other vases, where I know they should not be.

- B] Int.: a bearded man (erastes) leaning on his stick. Ext.: komos: A: a flute case; a youth leaning on his stick; a youth with a lyre; a boy with a stick and basket. B: fragmentary: a youth; lower parts of two males.
- C] Int.: nonsense: widely spaced around the figure: Mingazzini's photo., pl. 127,1, shows: an omicron at lower left: higher up, a sigma(?); behind the head, a gamma; to right of the head, a sideways epsilon and epsilon, omicron, sigma. I.e.: $\omicron(\sigma)[-]\gamma^{(\upsilon)}\upsilon\omicron\sigma$.

- B] Int.: komast: a naked youth, holding out an oinochoe and carrying a wineskin on his back. Ext.: between eyes and palmettes(1): A: a nude athlete with a pick axe. B: a jumper.
- C] Int.: at the bottom, curving along the margin, facing out: $\eta\omicron\pi[\alpha]|\varsigma$, retr.(2)
- D] Castellani collection.

(1)the eyes are nearest the handles, the palmettes inside.

(2)so the facss., but I wondered if this is right. The text of CV says: $\kappa[\alpha\lambda]|\omicron\varsigma \eta\omicron\pi[\alpha]|\varsigma$ (retr. not mentioned).

- B] A: Heracles in battle(1), with a falling warrior, between Athena and Hermes. B: athletes with a flautist.
- C] A: on Athena's right: (A) $\theta\epsilon\nu\alpha\alpha$, retr. To right of Heracles' face: $\eta\epsilon\rho\alpha\kappa\lambda\epsilon\varsigma$. Nonsense(?): to Athena's lower right: $(\kappa).$. Between Heracles' legs: $\iota\omicron\varsigma$. (The last two inscriptions probably go together). By the falling warrior: $\text{N}\kappa\omicron[.?]$ (complete?). Near Hermes: $h[\epsilon\rho]|\mu\epsilon\varsigma$.

D] = M. 1195. B is near the Acheloos Painter, A not so near (Beazley). One of the inscriptions should be the name of Heracles' opponent; is Kyknos possible? Attic alphabet. The letters are smeared.

- B] Int.: komast: a youth with his stick and a cup. Ext.: symposium: A: at left, two bearded men on either side of a youth who holds a cup and a skyphos; at right, a youth playing the flutes; all reclining. B: a bearded man with frontal face; a youth (his head missing) playing kottabos(?); at right, a youth playing the flutes and a bearded man holding a cup and singing.
- C] Int.: above the scene [probably to right of the komast's head]: καλος. Around the lower margin and stretching upward: Αν[---]ο[.]. Αν[τιμαχ]ο[ς].(1) A: Mingazzini's text has: Κλινιας. Αντιμαχος. Κομαρχος, and another word without clear sense.(2) A or B: Pythodelos.(3)
- D] Mingazzini does not have Pythodelos. His readings (esp. the facss.) are unreliable. I do not know the distribution of the inscriptions on A and B. For the identification of Kleinias see AK. Komarchos occurs also on Munich 2307, CAVI 5258, by Euthymides and is not infrequent in Attica; see LGPN ii, s.v. Κώμαρχος, esp. 9.

(1)so ARV(2) on p. 1564 (with a query on p. 173); another suggestion by Beazley is Αν[βροσιος κα]λος, but he seems to prefer Antimachos. The facs. in Mingazzini (pl. D,1) has: Αν[τιμαχ]ο[ς] and καλος. I think Αν[βροσι]ο[ς] is equally good. (2)Mingazzini, pl. A, 2 has Κλινιας with L-shaped lambda; pl. D,4 has Αντιμαχος. Pl. D, 6 has Κομαρχος. - C] A, and under the right handle: to Dionysus' right is a satyr playing the flutes and on his right, under the handle, another, dancing. Between the two, a left-aligned stoich. two-liner: $\eta\epsilon\rho\mu\omicron\nu\alpha[.]|\epsilon\gamma\rho\alpha\phi\sigma\epsilon\nu$. (1) Under foot, 'graffito non chiaro' (Caruso).
- D] For Hermonax' signatures, see 'Script', p. 102. Mingazzini has a long dscussion of Hermonax. Attic alphabet. Tailed rho.

(1)Mingazzini, who shows the end of the name as missing and restores a xi; the facs. shows only one empty space if both words are of equal length. But restoring [$\chi\varsigma$] is certainly possible, assuming that the end is really missing. ARV(2) has the name complete. - A] Fragmentary BF dinos. From Cervetri. Exekias. Third quarter

- sixth. 540-530. *P. Mingazzini, Vasi della Collezione Castellani (1930) text, pl. I, 446 (inscriptions). ABV 146/20, 686, Add.(2) 41. *Guarducci, EG iii, 338 (ill.). *I. Scheibler, Griechische Töpferkunst (1983), figs. 47,a,b (inscriptions). 'Script' 142. *Vidi. B. Cohen, 'The Literate Painter: A Tradition of Incised Signatures on Attic Vases,' MetMusJ 26 (1991) figs. 9-10 (signatures; same pictures as in Scheibler).
- B] The body is black. Inside the mouth, ships; outside it, ivy.
- C] On top of the shoulder, above the tongue pattern, Grr.:
A: ΕΧΣΕΚΙΑΣ ΜΕΠΟΙΗΣΕ. Β: Ἐπαίνετος μῆδῶκεν Χαρόποι.
- D] (M 446). "Both inscriptions were added by Exekias after the vase was complete, doubtless at the request of the purchaser Epainetos; Epainetos was probably a Sicyonian; or Charopos was, or both were." (ABV). However, Cohen n. 56 cites J. Escher in RE iii, col. 2184, no. 4 (1899) who says Charopos was an epithet of Heracles. But I am not sure that ἔδωκεν is used of dedications. The inscriptions are well centered by their middles on the two sides. Both inscriptions are by the same hand. Attic (signature). Sicyonian (gift inscription).

- B] A: fight. B: satyrs and maenads.
- C] A: shoulder: nonsense inscription, diagonally by the central satyr's lower body: apparently 6 letters shaped like gammas and blotches. [Info. from picture in Hedreen.]
- D] = M 453. Listed by K. as 50,631 (50,640).

- A] BF neck amphora (Tyrrhenian). Castellani Painter. Third quarter sixth. *Vidi. ABV 98/42, 683, Para. 37, Add.(2) 26.
B] A: Centauromachy. B: Amazonomachy.
C] A:(1) nonsense: between the legs of the leftmost warrior: γοεοα.(2) Above the branch held by a centaur: γχοh(o)vh.(3) Under the centaur's belly: γτ[-].
D] Note that all three inscriptions seem to begin with gamma. Odd writing.

(1)done from autopsy on the assumption that this is the vase listed in ABV and the bibliography in Beazley. (2)a doubtful interpretation of the letters, which are peculiar: the first koppa has a large head with a very short vertical; epsilon and 'alpha' are written kionedon; the second koppa has a vertical above and below the circle and might be a phi; the final alpha has a vertical cross stroke (arrow alpha). (3)the bracketed letter could be a badly written alpha; the hetas could be etas.

B] Lip: A: a stag. B: a fawn.
C] Handle zone: on one side: A^(.)κλες : ποιεσεν.(2)
D] = M. 604.

(1)by the same hand as Berlin 1766, CAVI 2230, and with a similar inscription; not far from the Xenokles Painter (Beazley).
(2)seen by Beazley on one side; according to Mingazzini's facts. the other side had the same inscription. Klein and Hoppin think it is Archikles, Mingazzini prefers Sokles or Prokles. On Berlin 1766, Klein and Hoppin interpret the inscription as Anakles, doubtfully (see Beazley further). The second letter is a mere dot; it is preceded by a blank space, here marked by ^; cf. Berlin 1766.

- D] = M. 465. Ex Castellani Coll. - K. thinks the nonsense inscription on an Amazon's shield, by the Princeton Painter [sic] (he gives: NONNON, if my note is correct), is copied on the Tyrrhenian neck amphora Vatican [G 13], ABV 95, 99/56, 684, Para. 38, CAVI 7022, Beazley and Magi (1939), pl. 2, left, by the Guglielmi Painter. - A] BF amphora and lid. From Vulci. Unattributed. Nikosthenes potter. 530-520. *Vidi. *ABV 229/v, Para. 108, Add.(2) 59.
- B] A, B, each: duel of two draped men.
- C] A: at right: $\text{N}\iota\kappa\omicron\sigma\theta\epsilon\nu\epsilon\varsigma\ \mu\epsilon$. Between the legs: $\epsilon\pi\omicron\iota\epsilon\sigma\epsilon\nu$.(1) B: at the lower right, bending to left at end: $\text{N}\iota\kappa\omicron\sigma\theta\epsilon\nu\epsilon\varsigma$ (2). Between the legs: $\epsilon\pi\omicron\iota\epsilon\sigma\epsilon\nu$, retr.
- D] The lid is VG 63,644. For the shape see ABV. A small vase. Nicosia C 440, ABV 109/28, by Lydos, is by the same potter and has the same unusual lid (Beazley). Attic alphabet. The sigmas on A are reversed.

(1)there is no gap before $\mu\epsilon$. (2)so my reading; ABV gives $\text{N}\iota\kappa\omicron\nu\theta\epsilon\nu\epsilon\varsigma$: a misprint?

Falconi, La tomba Panatenaica di Vulci (Quaderni di Villa Giulia 3, 1968) 27/16.
- B] Shoulder: A-B: komos of naked men and youths. Below: floral; then three rows of animals.
- C] Shoulder: A: nonsense: the photo. in Kluiver, fig. 29, shows: below a man's middle, diagonally down: $\psi(\omicron)\nu\phi$ (uncertain reading). Below another man's raised foot, downward: $(\tau)\omicron\sigma\tau\epsilon$, retr. (the first letter upside down). Between two figures' lower legs, vertically down: $\tau(\rho)\omicron(\phi)(\sigma)$ (the second letter vertical, not certainly a rho; the 'digamma' with the horizontals pinched together, not certainly a digamma; sigma reversed). Similar, further to right: $\gamma\omicron(\gamma)\omicron$ (the third letter, an arrow gamma). One more inscription shows, distorted. There may be more.
- D] Ex Vulci, Museo del Castello. Large and coarse letters of sometimes uncertain identification.

- C] Καλλιόπα.(1) Μωσαίος.(2) Λιγεία. Under the foot, Gr.: A.
- D] For the inscription Mosaios, Beazley compares London E 271, by the Peleus Painter, ARV(2) 1039/13, CAVI 4546: Musaeus plays the lyre, one muse plays the flutes, another the magadis. Ligeia is listed in Pape as a daughter of Nereus; as a siren; and as an island in South Italy. There is no book roll. Probably mixed alphabet; some letters miswritten.

- C] A: prize inscription. On the lip, Gr.: ηκ.
- D] I think the Gr. is a dedicatory formula; cf. New York 51.11.3, CAVI 5701, BF amphora related to Lydos. Johnston however, on p. 6, says that since the vase was found in Etruria, the Gr. here might be mercantile. On p. 6 he lists other vases that have a Gr. of heta only (which I have not entered in CAVI). The vase is not in Brandt, Arch. Panath. I. Probably not = Para. 115/27 bis, by the Mastos Painter.

υ. οχγ(h)χo(α)υ[-]τογ[-]ο(ο)χoτγoυγχ vacat. Fr. a, if it belongs, shows that some of the letters were written in groups. At any rate, there were one or two long nonsense inscriptions. The koppas are perhaps all (or in part?) omicrons with a dot at the bottom; they have a large circular top and a short vertical at the bottom. This is a known shape.

rearing horse; a woman; an indeterminate trace.
- C] A: handle zone: nonsense: fr. a: to right of the top of the spear: six letters. Below the horse's belly: 12 letters.
Fr. b: three similar nonsense inscriptions around the rear of the horse.
- D] Two frs. Nonsense, but not in imitation letters. Hannestad thinks that the ff. frs. may be from the same vase: 79,590

- C] A: handle zone: [χα]ι_ρε και πρι_ο με. (1)
- D] Good letters.

(1) vacat's before and after. πρι_ο is πριω, 'buy'. Hannestad gives a different text: δερεκαπρι_ομε, which must be wrong.

The photo. shows: a vacat then perhaps one or two traces of letters (?), then a missing piece of ca. 5 letters, then a tiny piece of a rho, the rest clear. At right, another vacat. Hannestad compares Louvre El(aious) 98, CV, France 14, pl. 89,1-3, CAVI 6691, and restores: χα_ιρ_ε και πρι_ο με. [See
London B 414, CAVI 4313.]

- D] Three frs. Of unusually fine quality. It is unclear to me whether this is sense or nonsense, especially if Hannestad's reading σεν is right.

(1)Hannestad reads ετε, which would be retr. (2)sigma three-stroke reversed; my reading (doubtful). (3)sideways sigma; Hannestad reads: σε(v) with reversed nu. (4)of the second letter only the lower vertical remains.

Is it by the main hand listed there? It has the typical rho with extended vertical and the back-hand. It should be very early. Not in Beazley. B] Assembly of Gods: eleven divinities with Heracles, in six pairs: a male (Zeus?), and a female holding a fruit (Hebe?); a male (Hephaestus?), and a female (Aphrodite?) holding a flower; Heracles and Athena; in the center, Dionysus; Poseidon and Amphitrite(?); a male, and lower part of a female divinity.

Add.(2):

Λυδὸς ἔγραψεν δολοσονμυδεασσευγε[...]ο.

Guarducci:

Λυδὸς ἔγραψεν δῶλος ὄν Μυδέας [sic] εὐλέκ[τ]ῶ. She translates: 'Lydos dipinse, essendo schiavo di Midea (o Mideaia) dal bel talamo', giving an erotic meaning. She postulates Μυδεας for Μιδεας or Μιδειας; the double sigmas are above the head of Amphitrite. [I am not aware of the occurrence of double sigma at word end or before a vowel.]

Neumann:

Λυδὸς ἔγραψεν δῶλο^ς ὄν Μ^υρενεύς ἐ[...]ο. 'Lydos hat es gemalt, der ein Sklave ist, (stammend) aus Myrina.'"(1)

HRI: many letters are unclear:

Λυδὸς ἔγραψεν δ{the delta has a dot under it}ῶλος ὄν Μυδ{the 'rho' looks like a delta}ερ{this letter looks like tailed and pointed rho; perhaps a reversed sigma written over an iota?} εὐλ{Neumann's sigma looks like Attic lambda} εϋ{the tip of a diagonal stroke, like the left-hand stroke of upsilon} {the gap is marked by N. as four letters, but the female's head probably intervened; hence only 2-3 letters might be missing}ο. {The letter (dots) after (and below) the omicron mentioned by Canciano seem to me doubtful}. Λυδὸς ἔγραψεν (δ)οῖλος ὄν Μυδερευλευ[--]ο(?) (2)

- D] Robertson: the late weak style has no connection with the great Lydos. He is another man of the same ethnic origin. I.e. Lydos is a slave name. Canciani 17 and n. 2 interprets the two unique signs above 'Amphitrite's' head not as letters but as 'Krebsscheren', appropriate to this goddess. LGPN ii wrongly identifies this Lydos with the famous vase painter.

(1)Myrina should be the coastal Aeolian city, not that on Lesbos. [But Pape gives Μυριναιος]. (2)Bea. Arch. gives: LYDOS EGRAPHSEN DOLOSONMURENEUS. This is Neumann's reading.

- D] B was no doubt similar.

(1)the head is wearing a pilos and does not look like a Hermogenean head. (2)the upsilons are miswritten chi's.

Rome, Marchese Giorgio Guglielmi.

- A] BF lip cup. From Vulci. Taleides Painter. Taleides potter. Third quarter sixth. 550-530. *Beazley, JHS 52 (1932) 171, pl. 7,1 (A). ABV 175/15.
- B] Lip: A, B, each: a lion.
- C] Handle zone: A: $\tau\alpha\lambda\epsilon\iota\delta\epsilon\varsigma \langle\epsilon\rangle\pi\omicron\iota\epsilon\sigma\epsilon\nu$. B: $\tau(\epsilon\gamma\gamma\iota\omicron\delta\alpha\nu\epsilon\iota\delta\lambda\delta\upsilon\varsigma$.(1)
- D] The inscription on B has nearly the same number of letters as the signature should have had and probably imitates it. Irregular letter forms.

(1)after JHS text; slightly different in ABV.

7272.

Once Rome, Hirsch de' Minerbi.

- A] BF LM cup.(1) Unattributed. Third quarter sixth. *ABV 675/3. Klein, L. 50/2.
- B] A: Heracles and the Lion. B: similar.
- C] [Handle zone:] A: $\Sigma\tau\rho\iota\beta[\omicron\varsigma] \kappa\alpha\lambda\omicron\varsigma$. B: $\chi\alpha\iota\rho\epsilon \kappa\alpha\iota \pi\iota\epsilon\iota$.
- D] Klein is the source for Beazley's entry.

(1)as assumed by Beazley.

7273.

Rome, Nogara.

- A] Frs. of Lip cup. Tleson Painter. Tleson potter. Third quarter sixth. *ABV 182/24.
- B] No figured decoration preserved.
- C] On one fr.: $[\tau\lambda\epsilon\sigma\omicron]\nu \eta\omicron \text{Νεαρ}[\chi\omicron \epsilon\pi\omicron\iota\epsilon\sigma\epsilon\nu]$.
- D] Two frs. A third fr., with a palmette, might belong. Possibly from the same cup: Once New Haven, Conn., Clairmont (182/22), later Boston 62.615 (Para. 76, CAVI 2807). - The attribution is based on the letter forms (and palmettes?).

7274.

Once Rome, Petersen.

- A] Frs. of RF cup. Manner of Epiktetos.(1) Last quarter sixth. Not early. *ARV(2) 1624/15. Hartwig, JdI 7 (1892) 117 (dr.).
- B] Int.: symposium: a satyr reclining, holding a pointed amphora.

- C] Int.: [ho] παις καλος.(2)
D] Two frs.

(1) may be by self. (2) so Hartwig, who also suggests as "possibly": Πα[υφαιος εποισεν], which seems unlikely; Beazley does not list it.

7275.

Rome, Pollak.

- A] RF bell krater. From Ruvo. Painter of Munich 2335. Third quarter fifth. *ARV(2) 1163/32 (no bibl.).
B] A: Nike; citharode; judge. B: youths and a woman.
C] Gr.: E.

7276.

Once Rome, Spagna.

- A] RF cup. Euergides Painter. Last quarter sixth. *Beazley, AJA 31 (1927) 347/6. Kretschmer, Vas. 138 n. 4. Berlin App. 21.95 (dr.). ARV(2) 92/67.
B] Int.: a naked youth, bending forward. A: a panther attacking a fawn; a youth running up. B: two youths hunting a fawn.
C] Int.: ho παλ(ο)ς. A: Αιγοβιος. B: Ευφιβο...
D] Beazley's source is the dr. in Berlin. παλος miswritten for παις καλος; see now GAI ii, 278-79. Aigobios: Beazley compares Μηλόβιος, Οινόβιος. A name for a country gentleman. Kretschmer misread the inscription and has the wrong explanation. Eufibo... is unintelligible, perhaps incorrectly reported.

7277.

Rome, Mrs. E. Strong.

- A] Fr. of RF calyx krater. Group of Polygnotos. Third quarter fifth. *ARV(2) 1056/93 (no bibl.). L. Ghali-Kahil, Les enlèvements ... d'Hélène (1955), 95/78. Hesp. 27 (1958) 54 n. 33 (mention). S.B. Matheson, Polygnotos and Vase Painting in Classical Athens (1995) 466/PGU 103 (not ill.) (no bibl. except ARV(2)).
B] A: Menelaus and Helen: Menelaus moving to right; Eros flying to left with phiale; one arm of Aphrodite.
C] Μενελεος. Αφρο[διτε].

7278.

Rome, Torlonia.

- A] BF lip cup. From Cervetri. Unattributed. Charitaios potter. Third quarter sixth. *Beazley, JHS 52 (1932) 175 (not ill.). *ABV 161/1.
B] Int.: Heracles and the Lion.
C] Handle zone: A: Χαριταιος : εποισεν εμε : ευ.(1) B: Χαριταιος εποισεν με.
D] Note that A is the preferred side.

(1) in JHS, Beazley gives both interpoints as three dots, while in ABV the second has only two.

7279.

Once Rome, Torlonia.

- A] Fr. of BF lip cup. Tleson Painter? Tleson potter. Third quarter sixth. *ABV 183, middle. Helbig, Bull. dell'Istituto 1880, 144. Beazley, Proc. Brit. Acad. 33 (1943) 196 (mention).
- B] [Lip:] A: a swan preening.
- C] [Handle zone:] A: signature of Tleson.
- D] Found at the Torlonia excavations at Vulci and now lost. Known only from Helbig's description.

7280.

Rome, Torlonia.

- A] RF cup. From Vulci. Oltos. Cachrylion potter. Last quarter sixth. Early (Beazley). *ARV(2) 59/56, Add.(2) 164.

7281.

Rome, Torlonia.

- A] RF cup. From Vulci. Epiktetos. Last quarter sixth. *ARV(2) 75/58. Kraiker, JdI 46 (1929) 173/25.
- B] Int.: a komast balancing a skyphos on his thigh. Ext.: plain.
- C] Int. : in a circle around the figure: Επ[ικ]τετος εγραψεν.
- D] Kraiker's reproduction (in his text) is less complete.

Rome, Torlonia.

- A] RF hydria. From Vulci. Unattributed.(1) Third quarter fifth. 440-430 (Hesp.). *Hesp. 27 (1958) 54 and n. 32 (mention). Noël des Vergers, L'Étrurie et les Étrusques (1862-64), pl. 39. R.I. 23, 55. ARV(1) 702, bottom. Not in ARV(2) or Para. L. Ghali-Kahil, Les enlèvements ... d'Hélène (1955), 89/68, pl. 57,2.
- B] Menelaus pursuing Helen (his sword is falling), with Apollo, Aphrodite and four women.
- C] Μ<ε>νελεός. ηελενε. Απολλών. One of the four women: Αντιοπε.(2)

(1)ARV(1): perhaps Group of Polygnotos, but perhaps rather connected with the Painter of the Louvre Centauromachy; repeated in Hesp. (2)Hesp. says that two of the four women are named, but gives only one name.

7283.

Rome, Torlonia 73.

- A] RF hydria (kalpis). From Vulci. Hypsis. Last quarter sixth. 510-500. *Furtwängler, FR ii, 114-15, fig. 28 (after Hartwig, Antike Denkmäler ii, pl. 8), p. 337 (Hauser). Kretschmer, Vas. 119, n. 1. ARV(2) 30/2, Add.(2) 157.
- B] Two women at a double fountain (the left spout, a satyr's head; the right spout, a lion's head).
- C] At the satyr's head: Διονυσία. At the lion's head: κρῆνῆ. To the fountain's upper right, above the girl at right: ηυφός.

D] Small letters. Διονυσία had been referred to a girl, but Furtw. and Hauser rightly refer it to the fountain; Hauser reads Διονυσία κρῆνῆ and compares Paus. 4.36,7. Hartwig had read "Υψις as a girl's name, but it is clearly a signature without εγραψε. D-shaped rho.

Rome, Torlonia 158.

A] BF/RF eye cup. From Vulci. Epiktetos?(1) Hischylos potter. Last quarter sixth. *ARV(2) 45/104, *78 (no bibl.).

B] Int.: BF: a stag. Ext.: between eyes: A: a jumper (bending forward with halteres). B: a nose.

C] In.: [ἡισχυ]λος εποιεσε[ν].

(1)seemed, through glass, to be by Epiktetos (Beazley).

- A] BF cup. Unattributed.(1) Last quarter sixth. *ARV(2) 103/9.
- B] Int.: a naked youth at a laver.
- C] Int.: on the laver: προσαγ<ορευθ>.

(1)not connected with the Euergides Painter (Beazley).

Roman Market?

- A] RF cup. Painter of Paris Gigantomachy. First quarter fifth. *JHS 23 (1903) 278, fig. 8 (Int., A). Hartwig, Meisterschalen 394. *Hauser, JdI 10 (1895) 190, fig. 15 (Int., A). ARV(2) 418/28, 1652, Add.(2) 235.
- B] Int.: two hoplitodromoi to right of a pillar (goal post). A: hoplitodromoi: two on each side of a youthful trainer. B: javelin throwers.
- C] Int.: starting to right of the pillar: ἡοπαῖς. To right of the figures, at knee height: καλός. A: above the trainer: ἡοπαῖς. I do not know if B is inscribed.

7290a.

Roman Market.

- A] WG lekythos. Achilles Painter. 450/55-450 (Oakley). *J.H. Oakley, The Achilles Painter (1997) 12, 137/172, pl. 94A-B (left figure and front, both showing inscription). H.A. Shapiro, ZPE 68 (1987) 115-16.
- B] Mistress and Maid: at left, a woman with taenia and plemochoe; behind her, a stool and, above, a sash; at right, a woman to left; between them a duck facing the woman at right.
- C] Between the women, at head level, horizontal stoich. left-aligned three-liner: Λιχας | καλος | Σαμιῶς (for Σαμιῶς).
- D] Oakley non vidit. Samieus is also mentioned on London D 50, (CAVI 4413). Ionic alphabet. The sigmas are typical of the Achilles Painter.

7291.

Roman Market (Basseggio).

- A] BF lip cup. Tleson potter. Third quarter sixth. *ABV 181, middle. Annali (1859), pl. C,1 (part). Beazley, JHS 52 (1932) 172-73.(1)
- B] Lip: A: Heracles and the Lion. B: similar.
- C] Handle zone: A: signature of Tleson, apparently between lions.
- D] "Not much can be said about this lost cup" (Beazley).

(1)probably this vase. Beazley discusses early publications: Michaelis, Annali 1859, 62, pl. C 1, and de Witte, Noms de fabricants 80.

7292.

Roman Market (Basseggio).

- A] BF pot of unknown shape. Vulci. Unattributed. Nikosthenes potter. 530-520. *ABV 234/xv. Welcker, Rhein. Mus., n.s. 6, 393. Klein, MS, no. 52. Hoppin, BF, no. 71.

- B] Decoration unknown if not = Louvre F 117.
- C] Signature of Nikosthenes.
- D] Apparently lost. Described by Welcker as 'a lekythos-like vase with a female head in high relief and the signature of Nikosthenes.' Klein thought it may have been an oinochoe like Louvre F 117 (ABV 230/1, CAVI 6330), Hoppin that it was the same vase.

7293.

Roman Market (Basseggio).

- A] RF cup. May be by the Scheurleer Painter (Beazley). Last quarter sixth. *ARV(2) 169.
- B] Int.: komast: a naked youth moving to right, bending forward, a wineskin in his right hand, the left raised.
- C] Int.: $\text{ho } \pi\alpha\iota\varsigma \text{ } \kappa\alpha\lambda\omicron\varsigma$.
- D] Information from B. Ap. xxi. 27.

7294.

Roman Market (Basseggio).

- A] RF cup. Douris. First quarter fifth. Transitional II (Bare) (B.-O.). *ARV(2) 443/221, Add.(2) 240. *A. Greifenhagen, AA 1977, 235/59, fig. 76 (dr. of Int.). *D. Buitron-Oliver, Douris (Kerameus 9, 1995) 77/75, pl. 51 (dr. after Roman Inst. ix 72).
- B] Int.: a youth leaning on his stick and holding a wreath in both hands; at left, strigil, aryballos, sponge; at right, a stool.
- C] Int.: above the youth's head: $\text{ho } \pi\alpha\iota\varsigma \text{ } \kappa\alpha\lambda\omicron\varsigma$.
- D] The letters are small in the dr. The Ext. probably plain.

7295.

Roman Market (Basseggio).

- A] RF stamnos. Group of Polygnotos. Third quarter fifth. *C. Bron et al., 'Hephaistos bacchant ou le chevalier komaste,' Annali (Sezione di Archeologia e Storia Antica, Istituto Universitario Orientale, Naples 1989), pl. 15,1 (dr.). ARV(2) 1051/7, Add.(2) 321.
- B] A: Return of Hephaestus. B: satyrs (wearing himatia) and a maenad.
- C] A: part of the name Hephaistos. A second line below it.

7296.

Roman Market (Calabresi).

- A] BF Nikosthenic neck amphora. From Cervetri. Near Painter N or by him. Nikosthenes potter. 530-520. *ABV 225/3. Brunn, no. 6. Hoppin, BF, no. 75.

- A] Fr. of RF cup. Unattributed. First quarter fifth. *ARV(2) 482/40. B. Ap. xvi.36. Wernicke, AZ 1885, 258. Robertson, AVCA 100-101. Bothmer, 'Notes on Makron,' The Eye of Greece (festschrift M. Robertson, 1982) 45. *N. Kunisch, Makron (Kerameus 10, 1997) 6 n. 23 (mention).
- B] No figured decoration preserved.
- C] [For the location, see below:] $\eta\epsilon\rho\acute{\omicron}\nu$ $\epsilon\pi\omicron\iota\epsilon\sigma\epsilon\nu$.(1)
- D] Foot only, attached to a cup attributed to the Painter of Berlin 2268 (ARV(2) 156/45). I have not found mention of this signature in B. Cohen, 'The Literate Potter,' MetMusJ 26 (1991). As presented by Beazley, the signature is painted on the foot; it should then be on the reserved foot profile, which is remarkable for Hieron. Both the cup and the foot seem to be lost. Robertson, AVCA says the signature is painted on the edge of the cup foot [presumably BG on the reserved profile? Or could it be in red on BG, cf. the kantharos Boston 98.932, CAVI 2675?]. Eph. 1885, 56 (not ill.) mentions a cup foot with, on the reserved rim, in BG: $\eta[\epsilon]\rho\acute{o}\nu : \epsilon\pi\omicron\iota\epsilon\sigma\epsilon[\nu]$. Could this be the same fr.? My note lists it as Athens, from the Acropolis.

7303.

Roman Market, Hartwig.

- A] Frs. of LM cup. From Capua. Tleson Painter? Tleson potter. Third quarter sixth. *ABV 182/40 (no bibl.).
- B] No figured decoration preserved; handle palmette.
- C] Handle zone: Fr. a: $[\text{T}\lambda\epsilon]\sigma\acute{o}\nu \text{ho} [---]$. Fr. b: $[---]\sigma\epsilon\nu$.
- D] Two frs.

7304.

Roman Market, Hartwig.

- A] Fr. of plain band cup. Tleson Painter? Tleson potter. Third quarter sixth. *ABV 183/52. Beazley, JHS 52 (1932) 191.(1)
- B] No figured decoration.
- C] Handle zone: A: $\text{T}\lambda\epsilon\sigma\acute{o}\nu \text{ho} \text{N}\epsilon\alpha\rho\chi\acute{o} \epsilon\pi\omicron\iota\epsilon\sigma\epsilon[\nu]$.(2)
- D] Known to Beazley from a dr. by Hartwig.

(1)I assume that this is the piece listed (with some discrepancies) as ABV 183/52. (2)so ABV; JHS has: $\epsilon\pi\omicron\iota\epsilon\sigma\epsilon$.

7305.

Roman Market (Hartwig).

- A] Fr. of lip cup. Unattributed. Third quarter sixth. *ABV 187/6.

- A] Fr. of RF cup. From Tarentum. Unattributed. Last quarter sixth. Early RF (Beazley). *ARV(2) 1553.
- B] Int.: jumper running.
- C] Int.: at left: $\text{K}\alpha[---]$. At right: $[---]\epsilon\iota.(?)$ (1)

(1)Beazley suggests a potter's signature: $\text{K}\alpha[---\epsilon\pi\omicron]\epsilon\iota(?)$, but says that the second word may have continued. It could then also be a kalos-name, I think.

7307.

Roman Market (Hartwig).

- A] Fr. of RF cup. From Chiusi. Brygos Painter. First quarter

- B] Tydeus seated on a rock, with Athanasia and Athena; the head of Melanippus.(1) B (including figures under the handles): Warrior Leaving Home.
- C] A: beside Tydeus' head, to right of his face: [Τυδε]υ(ς).(2) To right of the back of Athena's head: Αθεναια. Above Athanasia's head: [Αθα]να[σια].
- D] Beazley compares New York 12.229.14, CAVI 5598, where Athanasia is fully preserved and named. Athena had intended for Tydeus to have his wounds healed and to receive immortality, but he sucked the brain from the head of his opponent Melanippus and the offers were withdrawn.

(1)Beazley; see JHS. Studniczka had Perseus, Andromeda and Athena. For this, Shapiro cites C. von Paucker, AZ 10 (1853) 450-58. (2)restored following Shapiro's [-]υς. The dr. has [-]υε, presumably a misreading of a four-stroke sigma.

- A] RF cup. From Vulci. Douris.(1) First quarter fifth. 490-480 (Rouen cat.). *Musée Departemental des Antiquités, Rouen, Hommes, Dieux et Héros de la Grèce (exhibition 10/23, 1982 - 1/31, 1983) 166/72 (bibl.). ARV(2) 441/187, Add.(2) 240.
- B] Int.: two satyrs dancing over a cup on the ground; at right, part of an amphora; in the exergue, a floral. A: athletes: jumper; trainer; two runners; a man leaning on his stick; two javelin throwers. B: men and youths (boys).
- C] Int.: ἡο παῖς.(2)
- D] = Rouen 9820053. Said to be = Rouen 450 in Add.(2) after ARV(2), but that number is also given to a BF eye cup, ABV 231/12, Add.(2) 60. A third, unattributed, RF, cup also has this number. The surface is badly worn.

(1)school piece? (Beazley in ARV(2)). (2)so the Rouen cat.; it is unclear whether this is complete.

Once Rouen, Bellon 609.

- A] RF neck amphora. From Nola. Oionokles Painter. Second quarter fifth. *E.D. Serbeti, 'The Oionokles Painter,' Boreas 12 (1989) 40 and n. 160. Caskey-Beazley ii, 40. ARV(2) 648/35.

- B] A: a warrior. B: a slinger.
 C] Nonsense of the γυιοσυγιο type mentioned in CB (the text is not given by Serbeti).

7317.

Rovereto, Museo Civico inv. 38.

- A] Fr. of BF cup. From Cumae. Unattributed. Third quarter sixth.
 *S. Caranti-Martignago, La collezione archeologica 'Paolo Orsi' del Museo Civico di Rovereto (Trento 1981) 35/5 (ill.).
 B] Int.: fragmentary: a winged figure to right.
 C] Under the foot, Grr.: Αλε<>. Φιτες εμι.
 D] C.-M. reads this as one inscription, declaring the first three letters to be retr. (although the epsilon clearly shows otherwise): 'Ελαφίτες έμί. The name is said to be unknown. [Αλεφιτε is no better.] The alphabet could be Attic but note the spelling έμί without the iota.

Rugby 11.

- A] BF neck amphora. Three-line Group. Third quarter sixth. *ABV 321/9, Add.(2) 86.
 B] A: Athena and Heracles in a chariot. B: Dionysus and Ariadne with satyrs.
 C] A: in front of the chariot horses: ηιπ<π>οκρατες. Between the horses' front legs: καλος.
 D] Shapiro identifies Hippokrates with the son of Anaxileos, perhaps a Peisistratid (see Athens, Acr. ii, no no., CAVI 1211, fr. of a large lekythos). - Rho with extended vertical.

Ruvo, Museo Jatta 323.

- A] RF owl skyphos. Unattributed. Ca. 450? (Johnston). *TGV 154/5F 6 (with small facs.), 224 (no bibl.).
 B] A, B, each: owl.
 C] [Under the foot, Gr.:] κυ<λ>ικες> ΔΔΙΙΙΙ.
 D] kylix is the word for skyphos; see TGV, p. 224; cf. Agora 12, 6 and Brommer, AA 1967, 546.

Ruvo, Museo Jatta 767.

- A] RF skyphos. Unattributed. Ca. 450 (Johnston). *TGV 135/9E 124, 156/8F 7, 161/13F 11, 213 and n. 11, 228, fig. 9,c.
 B] Subjects not mentioned.
 C] Under the foot, Grr.: ΔΔ. αρ<> ΔΠΙ. ποι<>. κοι<>.
 D] Johnston n. 11 suggests ἄριστα as a possibility, since the word is before a numeral (16), but it could also be a vase name. ποι<κίλο>. κοι<λο>. For the last see p. 228. Is ΔΔ also a numeral? In that case, a price inscription?

- B] Neck: A: sacrifice. B: Apollo and Maryas. Body: A: a youthful Dionysus reclining in a vineyard, with Erotes, satyrs and maenads. B: Apollo and Marsyas.
- C] A: the inscriptions above the heads: Ιμερος. Διονυσος. Οπωρα. (Θ)υωνη. Above a boy satyr (the groom of Dionysus' donkey): Σικιννος. Above a bearded satyr playing the flutes: Σιληνος.(1) Σιμος.(2) Οιονοπων.(2) Ευδαιμον[ια].(2) Ηβη.(2) Ευδια.(2) Ορηας.(2) Ερωσ.(2) Ποθος.(2) B: a boy satyr: Σιμος.(2) Μαρουας.(2)
- D] Shapiro 68 n. 125 does not think Eudaimonia is here a maenad as is assumed in LIMC iv, 47. Mixed alphabet.

(1)the first sigma is unclear in the photo. (2)these names are added from C. Fränkel and K.-D. K.-D. says Ηβη occurs twice.

Ruvo, Museo Jatta 1501.

- A] RF volute krater. From Ruvo. Talos Painter. Late fifth. *FR i, 196-203, pls. 38-39.; 3, 54. ARV(2) 1338/1 (much bibl.), Para. 481, Add.(2) 366 (much bibl.). *H. Sichtermann, Griechische Vasen in Unteritalien aus der Sammlung Jatta in Ruvo (1966), pls. 1 and 24-34. 'Script' 802. Boardman, ARFV ii (1989), fig. 324,1-2.
- B] Neck: A: Dionysus with satyrs and maenads. B: similar. Body: A: Death of Talos. B: Argonauts (Athena with Castor and Pollux; Hera with Jason).
- C] The inscriptions are near or above the heads: Body: A: Ζητης. Καλαις. Μηδ[ε]ια. Πολυδ(ε)υκης. Καστωρ. [Τα]λωσ. Ποσεδων. Αμ(φ)ιτριτη. Κ[ρ]η[τη].(1) B: Νικη. Καστωρ. Πολ(υ)δευκ(η)ς.(2)
- D] The vase celebrates the Dioscuri.

(1)FR: seen by Heydemann; Jatta, Furtwängler, Reichhold, Max. Mayer could not find these letters. (2)very small, two letters are quite unclear in Reichhold's plate.

- A] RF plastic mug (head vase: head of a Persian). From Ruvo. Unattributed. Persian Class. Early fourth. Sub-Meidian (Beazley). *Beazley, JHS 49 (1929) 75/4.(1) ARV(2) 1550/4 (no bibl.).
- B] An Oriental pursuing a woman.
- C] Nonsense inscription.
- D] A one-handled kantharos.

(1)not 1509.

7324.

Ruvo, Museo Jatta 1526.

- A] RF lekanis. From Ruvo. Meidias Painter. Last quarter fifth. 410-400. *Beazley, AJA 54 (1950) 319 (not ill.). A. Greifenhagen, AA 1957, 25 n. 49. *ARV(2) 1314/18. *N. Kunisch, Makron (Kerameus 10, 1997) 16 n. 69.
- B] Mistress (Kallisto) and maids; mistress (Archestrate?) and maids.
- C] Beazley, AJA: Λυσιστρατη. Μυρρινη. ARV(2): Καλλιστω. Αρχ[εστρατη]. Élite [see below]: Λυσιστρατα. Δρακοντις. Μηλιττα. καλε. Αντιοπη. Καλλιστω. Μακρηνη.(1)
- D] Beazley says that this vase may be the same as 'Once Naples Market', of which the inscriptions are given in C. Lenormant and J. de Witte, Élite des monuments céramographiques (1837ff.) ii, p. 280. Greifenhagen mentions Λυσιστρατη only. The vase is cited by D.M. Lewis, BSA 50 (1955) 1ff. for Lysistrate and Myrrhine, a propos of the names of the priestesses of Athena Polias (Lysimache) and Athena Nike (the latter suggested by Papadimitriou). On the priestess Lysimache see also AK 11 (1968) 67ff.; and esp. Beazley, AJA 54 (1950) 314/19. The readings in 'Élite' do not correspond to the more recent (partial) readings. It is unclear whether the alphabet is Ionic or mixed.

(1) this may be a misreading for Μυρρινη, Beazley, AJA. But K. says: Makrine was read, rightly or wrongly, by de Witte. [K. cites Beazley in AJA without naming him.]

Ruvo, Museo Jatta 1538.

- A] Rf squat lekythos. From Ruvo. Meidias Painter. Last quarter fifth. 420-415 (L.-H.). *Richter-Hall i, 204 (mention). ARV(2) 1314/16 (much bibl.), Para. 477, Add.(2) 362. C. Bucci, Museo Jatta in obiettivo (1983), no. 37. E. de Juliis et al., Archeologia in Puglia (1983), p. Bari 101, fig. 182. Brommer, Vasenlisten(3) 509/B 6. *L. Burn, The Meidias Painter (1987) 54-57 and 99/M 18, pl. 38, a-c. *Lezzi-Hafter, Der Eretria-Maler (Kerameus 6, 1988) 234, 345/247 (not in the pls.; fig. 74, b (profile) and 78 (ornament). Robertson, AVCA 239. A. Lezzi-Hafter, in: J.H. Oakley, W.D.E. Coulson, O. Palagia, Athenian Potters and Painters: The Conference Proceedings (1997) 356.
- B] Thamyris with Apollo, Muses, nymphs(?) and Aphrodite; three winged Erotes.
- C] Below the top margin: (A) πολλων.(1) Θαμυριε.(2) Σαό.(3)
- D] The subject is the contest of Thamyris and the Muses; cf. Sophocles, Thamyras. No trace of Thamyris' ultimate fate, which however hangs like a shadow over the peaceful picture (Robertson). A similar composition is on New York 37.11.23 (ARV(2) 1313/7, CAVI 5657), also by the Meidias Painter.

(1) alpha lacks the cross stroke in L.-H., cat. entry. (2) so the cat. entry: epsilon miswritten for final four-stroke sigma:

 Θαμυρις(ς). [Certainly not Thamyras.] (3)L.-H.: not Sappho;
 Sao is a Nereid in Hesiod, Theog. 240ff. But Burn accepts Michaelis' (Thamyris und Sappho auf einem Vasenbilde [Leipzig 1865]) identification with Sappho. Differently, A.
 Furtwängler, Eros in der Vasenmalerei (Munich 1874) 33-34.
 See the further discussion in Burn. Lezzi-Hafter in AP&P, n. on
 p. 368: on Σαό: Burn connects Sao with a woman having an Eros on her shoulder; Sao is strictly a Nereid name, she wears an elaborate chiton, suggesting an Eastern connection, perhaps a Thracian adherent of Thamyris?, cf. the Thracian tribe Saites and the name Saonesos on Samothrace.

- B] Undecorated?
 C] [ἄμ]υστιν ἐχπιῆν.(1)
 D] Is the vase Attic? Surely a Gr., which is certainly not Attic. ἄμυστις is a large (Thracian) cup or a draft therefrom.

(1)Beazley; Tolstoy reads: [ε]ῦστιν ἐκπιῆν.

- A] Frs. of RF cup. From Kerch. Meidias Painter (Beazley, AJA). Ca. 400. *Beazley, AJA 54 (1950) 331 (not ill.). Compte-rendu de la Commission Impériale Archéologique (St. Peterburg 1860ff.) 1869, p. 181, pl. 4,2. Roscher, s.v. Theseus, p. 720.
 B] A: two right-hand figures (parts).
 C] Ἠραεὺς. Ὀπλης(?).(1)
 D] In AJA, Beazley attributes the frs. to the Meidias Painter, but they are not listed in ARV(2) or Para.

(1)Beazley says: "This reading is questionable. Stephani read ...ΩΛΗΣ (CR. 1869, p. 181); the omega, he says, is not certain and alpha is also possible; before it is a trace of another letter, then the fragment ends. I have no note of the fragment, but looking at the careful drawing in Stephani's plate I wondered if ΟΠΛΗΣ might not be read." Hoples was a son of Ion and father-in-law of Aegeus.

- B] In relief: Persians hunting. (Brief version of subject of St. Petersburg St. 1790).
- C] In the same location as the signature on St. 1790 [so Tiverios]: in relief: Ζενοφάντος ἐποίησε Ἀθηναῖος.(2)
- D] The same inscription is found on St. Petersburg St. 1790, CAVI 7419, also in relief, but it is there in the Ionic alphabet. Presumably not by the same hand, although Tiverios thinks they are. Tiverios, p.277: both vases are by the same potter-painter (while Beazley speaks of a Xenophantos-Painter). For other attributions see T. further. Mixed alphabet

(1)listed by Tiverios as inv. 108i. (2)the inscription is given by Tiverios as ΖΕΝΟΦΑΝΤΟΣ ΕΠΟΙΗΣΕΝ ΑΘΗΝΑΙΟΣ, which does not agree with ARV(2) (which is given above). The inscription first read by Waldhauer in 1920.

- B] A: Heracles shooting ... B: the Hydra.
- C] A: under Heracles' armpit: ἡρακλεεῖς. Under the foot, Etruscan Gr.: caiou, retr.
- D] = inv. 2351. According to 'Euphronios', Beazley interpreted the scene as Heracles in the Garden of the Hesperides [so in ARV(1) 17, where B is called the Tree of the Hesperides, but in ARV(2) he names the creature on B the Hydra without question mark]. Brommer interprets the scenes as the shooting of the Lernaean hydra. High-kicking alpha. Triangular rho. The same Etruscan Gr. is also found on Louvre G 107, a RF neck amphora, Manner of Euphronios, ARV(2) 18/1, Euphronios, no. 19, 'Script' 401, CAVI 6451. - B] Symposium: four nude hetaerae reclining.
- C] Left to right: one hetaera playing kottabos:
τὴν τάνδε λατάσσο, | Λέαγρε, retr. By her face: Σμικρα. To left of the frontal face of the second hetaera: Παλαιστοῦ, (1) retr. In the field, a two-liner, non-stoich.:
Ευ(φ)ρονιος | εγραψεν. By the face of the third hetaera (who plays the flutes): Σεκλινε, retr. By the face of the fourth hetaera who sits apart holding out a skyphos:
Αγαπε, retr. (2)
- D] = inv. 1650. = St. 1670. Furtwängler in FR notes that three of the hetaerae each hold two drinking vessels [the fourth plays the flutes]; and that the use of kottabos is here for a 'Liebesorakel.' The vase is thus in praise of Leagros.
For Σεκλινε see 'Script' 361 and for Αγαπε, Beazley in ARV(2). The use of retr. seems more or less determined by the position of the hetaerae. Robertson in AVCA mentions the suggestion that a symposium of hetaerae is a vase painter's joke. On p. 28 he comments on the Doric dialect of the kottabos inscription: is it symposium formula or was a real Smikra a Dorian?
I think the former is more likely. BCH 1956, 307: Αγαπα is the name of a dead woman from Pharsalus, beginning 5th.; see also LGPN ii the kottabos see nn. 262-63.

(1) the facs. shows that the pi is not reversed.

(2) 'Euphr.' has Αγαπα, retr., perhaps in error. The photo. on
p. 167 shows a worn area and a break after the pi, so that it is impossible to tell which is right.

 D] Haspels on p. 113: near Sappho Painter. "mock inscriptions in the manner of the Diosphos Painter in his bolder mood." H. compares Euthymides for the three-figure group and the attitudes of the archers. I would not compare these inscriptions with the Diosphos Painter so much as with Euthymides. The < I think are sigma S 11 (see chart in 'Script'). - Earlier readings: nonsense: (1) readings from Haspels: diagonally up: ιλυι<ϵ. Horizontal: ιλυπ. As the first: ικουχιδ. (2). Readings from photo.: ι(σ)υιιε(τ) (with a small gap). ισυπ. ιχου(σ)ιδ. -The number must be wrong, as 671 is a RF pelike by the Agrigento Ptr., ARV(2) 578/73 (there numbered St. 1529),

(1)the first letter is a raised horizontal stroke. I see no letter after the epsilon. But there is a slight gap after the fourth letter, as noted above. (2)perhaps one letter is missing in the following break.

(1)for the spelling, see 'Script' 102 n. 18. The two fully extant alphas are different in shape; the third, preserved incompletely (if it is an alpha) would be a high-kicker; if it is an epsilon it would be awkwardly placed, to judge by the facs. in KAV).

(1)my reading from a photo.; Bothmer has Φορβας. The facs. in KAV shows a very odd phi (a triangle with a projecting vertical through it). (2)according to KAV's facs., the theta has the dot at 4 o'clock just outside the circle. (3) Matheson prints MEΛΥΣΑ, which must be a misprint. For the name see New York 44.11.1, CAVI 5697 (a woman's name) and Vatican, Astarita 701, CAVI 7047 (maenad).

- D] = St. 1428. According to FR, the vase is a replica of Munich 2415, ARV(2) 1142/2, CAVI 5282, by the same painter. Both vases and others by the Kleophon Painter, as well as from the Group of Polygnotos, have the TP mark.

(1)so the dr. in FR, which is no doubt unreliable; Munich 2415 has καλος. Or an illiterate attempt to reproduce the inscription? (2)so the dr.; this agrees with Munich 2415, which however has two more inscriptions. The facss. in KAV show the inscriptions somewhat differently but I do not know how reliable they are. A long Gr. line shown under the foot is probably correct. Matheson prints: A: καλε. καλε.καλε.

Boardman, ARFV ii (1989), fig. 340 (3 ill.'s; one shows inscriptions). Robertson, AVCA 268. GAI ii, 689. *M. Tiverios in: J.H. Oakley, W.D.E. Coulson, O. Palagia, Athenian Potters and Painters: The Conference Proceedings (1997) 269-284, n. 1 (bibl.), figs. 1-9 (1-2, phs. of front and back; 3, dr. of shoulder frieze with signature; 4-9, drs. of main scene; the drs. after L. Stephani, CRPetersbourg 1866, pl. 4).
- B] Shoulder: in relief: three times Nike driving a biga in the presence of a Persian archer(2); between, Centauiromachy and Gigantomachy. Body: relief and RF: Persians hunting.
- C] On a band between body and neck, in added clay, gilded: Ζενοφαντος εποιησεν Αθηναϊος.(3) Body: inscriptions horizontal: above the head of a bearded Persian throwing a

- D] The inscriptions after the drs. in Stephani as reproduced by Tiverios. Stephani declared this to be a generic hunting image with Habrokomas the principal figure, taking place among the Hyperboreans, and this has been generally accepted, but Tiverios identifies Darius with the son of Artaxerxes II, Cyrus with his uncle (of Xenophon's Anabasis) and Habrokomas with the governor of Syria (so for Dareios and Habrokomas already de Luynes in 1856). Euryalos and Klytios (the two Greek names) are probably figures of Greek mercenaries at the Persian court. He thinks the hunt is a historical one, which took place in a Persian paradeisos, despite the presence of griffins which are added to please the Panticapaeans. For a bibl. of other interpretations, see nn. 13 and 18. He thinks the vase was made in Panticapaeum and not in Athens, by the same painter-potter as the other vase signed Xenophantos. But cf. St. Petersburg (no no.), ARV(2) 1407, bottom, CAVI 7333, with the same signature, which I think is by a different hand, although Tiverios points out that some applied figures use the same matrices as this vase. - Robertson: the signature on this vase, mentioning that X. is an Athenian, strongly suggests that both vases were made in Panticapaeum (similarly D.A. Amyx, AJA 51 (1947) 500-502, review of Richter, ARFV); cf. Teisias of Athens working in Boeotia. The father's name is not mentioned since he was probably not a craftsman; so also Tiverios. - I doubt that Tiverios' historical interpretation can be right, since Cyrus on the vase is bearded, while the Younger Cyrus was a youth when he died in 401 at the battle of Cunaxa. - Ionic alphabet.

(1)"in den ersten Jahrzehnten des 4. Jh. v. Chr. entstanden," Tiverios. (2)T. says the figure with a bow by the chariot driven by Nike is the Oriental Heracles. But see his n. 5, with different identifications by Beazley. (3)the adj. left incomplete for lack of space (Tiverios); Αθην[αιος], Beazley. (4)the raised arms intervenes. For Atramis cf. Attramyttion (see T., n. 48). (5)satrap of Syria. (6)a tripod column intervenes. (7)the legs intervene. (8)the final sigma is written in a second line, below and a bit to the left of the tau, since the omicron goes right up to the face. (9)the sixth letter goes right up to Seisames' chest; the last two letters are written at some distance within the cutout of the pelta. The spear also intervenes. The name is in Aesch. Pers. 322.

St. Petersburg St. 1807.

- A] RF calyx krater. From Kerch. Kadmos Painter. Last quarter fifth. 410-400 (Shapiro). *H.A. Shapiro, Personifications in Greek Art (1993) 233/15, 59, fig. 14, and 224, fig. 184 (detail of A, dr. after CR 1861, pl. 3). ARV(2) 1185/7 (much bibl.), Para. 460, Add.(2) 341.
- B] A: Judgment of Paris, with Eris and Themis in conversation.
B: Apollo and Dionysus.
- C] A: to left of Eris' head: Ερις. Above Themis' head: Θειμις.
- D] = 0.28 (Add.(2)). Listed as St. Petersburg by Shapiro. The vase is a parallel for Eris on Karlsruhe B 36, CAVI 4041, and Berlin 1775, CAVI 2236. On the conversation between Eris and Themis see K.W. Arafat, Classical Zeus (1990) 124: Themis may be giving Eris her instructions for the future [but the grouping seems purely conventional]. There must be many other inscriptions. GAI ii, 76 cites Ερι(η)ς with nu for eta.

Salamis (Cyprus), tomb 10,15.

- A] SOS amphora. From Salamis in Cyprus. Unattributed. Fourth quarter seventh. *Kadmos 4 (1965) 150/1, figs. 4-5. *Johnston, BSA 73 (1978) 114. 'Script' 43.
- B] No figured decoration.
- C] Gr.: Φρασι◊.
- D] Four-stroke sigma.

7422.

Salamis (Cyprus), tomb 10,15A.

- A] Fragmentary SOS amphora. From Salamis in Cyprus. Unattributed. Late seventh or early sixth. *Kadmos 4 (1965) 150/2, figs. 6-7. *Johnston, BSA 73 (1978) 114/92, fig. 7b. 'Script' 44.
- B] No figured decoration.
- C] Gr.: Φε◊ and Γλα◊, retr.
- D] The second abbreviation is partly written over the first and is not Attic: see BSA 131, n. 38.

7423.

Salamis (Greece).

- A] "A clay pot," Lapatin. A cup (Hatzipolakis, Isidoros). From Salamis, Peristeria cave. Unattributed. Contemporary with Euripides (pot). II B.C. (Gr.). *E-mail communications to Aegeanet, January 17 (K. Lapatin, K. Clinton), 19 (W. Phelps, Hatzipolakis), 20 (Isidoros).
- C] Gr.: either ΕΥΡΙΠΠ or ΕΥΡΙΠΙ.
- D] The Gr. is said to be much later than the pot. Clinton, relying on the first reading as reported to him, suggests Ευριππ◊, for which see LGPN ii. This is denied by H. and I. Phelps points out that the cave today is much too low-ceilinged and narrow for human use. The cave was first associated with Euripides by Sylvia Benton and so is the inscription by Lapatin and others. This is highly speculative.

7424.

Salerno, Caudium T 227.

- A] RF bell krater. From Montesarchio (Caudium), tomb 227.(1)
Unattributed. End of fifth. Ca. 400 (Johnston). *A.W.
Johnston, AJA 82 (1978) 224-25, fig. 2,a-b and Ill. 2 (dr.).
TGV 112/18C 48; 161/14F 6; 167/23F 3.
- C] Under foot, Grr.: κρατηρες ΓΙΙ. ενθηματα ΓΙ. Also a line crossing the foot.
- D] Listed as Naples in AJA. Price Grr.: 8 obols for (two?)
kraters. Seven obols for the contents. ενθηματα are batches of small vases accompanying a larger vase.

(1)G. d'Henry's excavations; not previously published.

7425.

Salerno, Museo Provinciale.

- A] BG cup. From Fratte. Unattributed. 500-450 (Johnston). *L.H.
Jeffery, The Local Scripts of Archaic Greece(2) (with supplement by A.W. Johnston 1990) 457/I (not ill.). Studi etr. 49 (1981) 338/28.
- C] A name is inscribed on the inside.

7426.

Samos.

- A] BF fr. From Samos. Unattributed. First half sixth. *Vidi Oct.
7, 1989.
- B] Naked legs.
- C] At left, vertically down: ηεφα[ιστος(?)].
- D] Closed heta.

7427.

Samos.

- A] Frs. of BF cup. From Samos. Unattributed (Beazley). Sophilos
(Karouzou). First quarter sixth. *ABV 347. *Karouzou, AM 62
(1937) 135.
- B] Ext.: symposium? Under a handle: a cow and a calf.
- C] In red: [--- επ]οισεν.
- D] Karouzou took quick notes on Samos in 1936 and then thought it was Sophilos, but not having been able to go back was not sure when writing the article in AM.

Samos.

- A] BF calyx krater. From Samos, sanctuary of Artemis.
Unattributed. 550-500 (Bea. Arch.). *Beazley Archive db, no.
45,105. *K. Tzakos, Delt. 35 (1980), B' 2 Chronika [pub. 1988]
463, pl. 274,1. *BCH 113 (1989), Chronique 673 and fig. 180
(A). *Delt. 35 (1980) 2,2, pl. 274,a.
- B] A: upper row: procession of divinities, all inscribed.
Lower row: a frieze of grazing deer.
- C] The small photo. in Delt. shows: female: 6 letters. Poseidon: to right of his trident, toward him: Ποσειδων. Female: to right of her face: ηεφ[α]. Male: to right of his face:

- Ζευς. Female: to right of her face: ηεστια. A young god playing the lyre to left: 5 letters could be: Απολλ·λ·δ·v. Other figures do not show in the photo.
 D] The readings are incomplete.

Samos.

- A] Frs. of BF pyxis. From Samos. Taleides Painter (Bea. Arch.). Taleides potter. Third quarter sixth. *Add.(2) 402. AAA 13 (1980) 315, figs. 10-11. *H.W. Catling, Arch. Reports 1982-83 (1983) 50, figs. 88-89. Beazley Archive db, no. 9113.
 B] Procession of chariots.
 C] On a small fr., below the top maeander: Ταλειδες. A break right after the sigma; εποιεσεν must have followed.
 D] Small letters.

7430.

Samos.

- A] Frs. of BF lid.(1) From Samos? Unattributed. Third quarter sixth. *Photos. *W. Technau, AM 54 (1929) 39/9, Beilage 23,3.
 B] Chariot race: fr. a: legs of horses. Fr. b: front parts of horses. Fr. c: rear parts of horses.
 C] Fr. a: to left of the legs: [--]θος. Fr. b: under the horses' bellies: Ζανθηπ·π·ος. Under the horses' front legs: Ευφορο[ς].(2) Fr. c: under the horses' bellies, to right of the crotch: Χα[--].
 D] Three frs. Names of charioteers and perhaps of horses. This vase supports Beazley's and Payne's reference to a xi on a sixth-century fr. from Naukratis for which see 'Script', p. 152. Attic exep̄t xi (shape: the two upper horizontals joined by a vertical, the bottom horizontal separate).

(1)of a pyxis? (2)my reading; for the name in Athens, see LGPN ii.

Samos.

- A] Frs. of BF band cup. From Samos? Unattributed. Third quarter sixth. *Photo.
 B] Fr. a: handle. Fr. b: komos of satyrs and maenads.
 C] Fr. b: handle zone: three nonsense inscriptions; one: ΤΟ ΕΚΕΚΕΟ.
 D] Two frs.

7432.

Samos.

- A] Fr. of BF band cup. From Samos? Unattributed. Third quarter sixth. *Photo.
 B] A: handle zone: upper part of an animal; tail of another(?).
 C] A: handle zone: above the animal's back: nonsense: δεοδσεν. Between the animals, downward: τε[--].
 D] In a letter of 15 March 1978, Gerhard Schmidt refers to this fr.: a lion is attacking a stag. Beside the stag: δεοδιε(v) [reversed nu], which he interprets as δειδιεν,

'er hat Angst.' It is more likely nonsense.

Samos.

- A] Fr. of BF cup. From Samos, Heraeum. Unattributed. Last quarter sixth. *W. Technau, AM 54 (1929) 40/14, Beilage 24,4.
- B] A: lower parts of a naked male with a staff(?), and of a draped male with his staff(?).
- C] Nonsense: A: to left of the left staff: four dots are preserved; incomplete before and aft. Between the right staff and the right male: eight blots are preserved; incomplete aft.

7434.

Samos.

- A] BF fr. From Samos. Unattributed. Date? *Vidi Oct. 7, 1989.
- B] A draped male.
- C] At left, vertically down: Πρι[αμος(?)].

Samos.

- A] Fr. of BF prize Panathenaic. From Samos. Eucharides Painter? First quarter fifth. *Photo.
- B] A: Athena.
- C] A: τον Αθ[ενεθεν αθλον].
- D] ABV 396/5-8 lists four frs. of Panathenaics (three from A: Athena; one from B: athlete, trainer) by the Eucharides Painter; he refers to AJA 47 (1943) 446. The fr. listed here may well be one of the three from A, but my note is not specific enough.

Samos.

- A] BG handleless cup. From Papavangelenou. Unattributed. Probably first half fifth. *V. Giannouli, Delt. 43 (1988), B 2 [pub. 1993], 489/7, pl. 291,δ.
- B] Undecorated.
- C] Under the foot, Gr.: Ερησιερηκη.
- D] The inscription is not illustrated. Miswritten or misreported? Perhaps for Hermesikrates (owner)?

7437.

Samos.

- A] BG cup skyphos. From Papavangelenou. Unattributed. Probably first half fifth. *V. Giannouli, Delt. 43 (1988), B 2 [pub. 1993], 490/12, pl. 292,δ.
- B] No figured decoration.
- C] Under foot, Gr.: Ηροφ<>.
- D] Ηροφ<ιλος>, owner.

7438.

Samos.

- A] Frs. of RF/WG cup. From Samos, Heraeum. Akin to Pistoxenos

Painter.(1) Second quarter fifth. Ca. 470 (Technau). *Photo.
*ARV(2) 865/1, 1561. *Technau, AM 54 (1929) 41-42, pls. 5-6.
Robertson, AVCA 158.

- B] Int.: WG: Heracles. A: RF: youths.
- C] Int.: to left of Heracles' middle: [Αλκι]μαχ[ο]ς(?).(2)
- D] Beazley says 'akin to Pistozenos Painter'; Robertson thinks probably by him. This might be Alkimachos, son of Epichares, who appears as kalos on vases of this period; cf. ARV(2) 1561 and Davies, APF, p. 13. Very neat BG letters.

(1)the WG cups. (2)I thought I saw perhaps the tip of a final sigma in the photo.; Technau and Beazley do not give it.

Samos 2294.

- A] Fr. of BF hydria. From Samos. KX Painter (Komast Group).
Second quarter sixth. *Vidi. *Beazley, Dev(1), pl. 7,1 (after Buschor); (2), pl. 16,3. *E. Buschor, Meermänner (1941) 17. ABV 25/18, Para. 15, Add.(2) 7. 'Script' 59. *J. Kluiver, BABESCH 70 (1995),fig. 51 top (shows inscriptions).
- B] Heracles and Nereus, between sphinxes and lions.
- C] To left of Herakles' face: ηρακλες, retr. By Nereus' face: Νερευς. E..., retr.(1)
- D] Listed in K. as Samos K 1211. Closed heta.

(1)non vidi. Buschor noted that this could be the beginning of a signature; so also Beazley.

7440.

Samothrace, Museum 65.1057A.+

- A] Fragmentary BF column krater. From Samothrace. Painter of Louvre F 6. Ca. 550 (Moore). *M. Moore, Hesp. 44 (1975) 234/A, 1-2, fig. 1, pls. 51-52.
- B] A: Departure of Warrior, with men and women. B: parts of four standing figures and two sphinxes.
- C] B: near the sphinxes, a vertical row of thick blotches imitating inscriptions.
- D] + many frs. listed under A, 1-2. For the blots cf. the vases by the Painter of Louvre F 6, Houston 34.129, CAVI 4011, and Boston 60.1452, CAVI 2803.

7441.

Samothrace, Museum 65.1060.+

- A] Fragmentary BF column krater. From Samothrace. Princeton Painter (E. Davis, M. Moore). Third quarter sixth. 550-540. *M. Moore, Hesp. 44 (1975) 238-50, esp. 246-47, pl. 55,a. *A. Boegehold, AJA 87 (1983) 89-90, pl. 13. *Boardman, OJA 2 (1983) 247-48. *A.W. Johnston, ZPE 54 (1984) 115-17. 'Script' 955. Add.(2) 406.(1)
- B] A: Heracles and Cycnus; at left, a frontal horseman and Athena; at right, Zeus and Ares. (The right portion is missing.) B: Heracles and Athena in a chariot, with Nike; probably going into the battle on A.

- C] Along the top of an unframed panel: $\text{φεχεκλειδες [ε]ποιεσε.}$
 D] + 71.1014a and 71.1072. Moore reads a final nu which Boegehold did not find. The initial digamma may be a closed heta, as Boegehold admits as a possibility and Johnston suggests while comparing Acr. i, 914, ABV 666, CAVI 997 (which he restores accordingly). I think digamma more likely. Boardman's (F)erchekleides seems improbable. Moore's discussion of the inscription on p. 239 is superseded by Boegehold and Johnston.

(1)listed as 65.1055.+

Samothrace, Museum 68.250.+

- A] Frs. of RF column krater. From Samothrace. Unattributed. Second quarter fifth. *Add.(2) 404. *E.B. Dusenbery, Hesp. 47 (1978) 212/1, pls. 51-59. J.H. Crowel, Chariots and Other Wheeled Vehicles (Allard Pierson Series 9 (Amsterdam 1992), pl. 15,1A. Beazley Archive db, no. 1726.(1) *GAI ii, 512.
 B] The rim is decorated. A, B, each: Departure of Warriors; chariots (Seven against Thebes?).
 C] A: fr. 1a: on the shoulder just below a tongue pattern below the neck, horizontal: $\text{Ερασινοσ εποιησεσεν.}$ (2) Below this inscription: $[-]επω.$ (3)
 D] + 71.102 + many other frs. The rim fr. does not certainly belong with the other frs. Erasinios: e.g., IG i(2) 957, line 13. Does the second line give Erasinios' father's (a potter's) name or is it the end of a dedicatory inscription (of a bespoke piece)? The alphabet is probably Attic, but note the omega.

(1)the number given is 65.1055; cf. also 65.1060, which is also listed by some under that number! (2)Threatte in GAI ii, 512, takes the final nu for sideways sigma and reads εποιεσεσεν. (3)no doubt omega for -ου, i.e. gen. $[-]επων.$

 B] Lip: A, B, each: Atalanta and Peleus wrestling(1), between two men looking on.
 C] Handle zone: A: nonsense inscription: 16 letters. B: similar.
 D] Ex collection G.M. Denman, Jr. Ex Freiburg, Puhze.

(1)this is surely the same vase as that listed in Bea. Arch.

- A] BF eye cup. Unattributed. Last quarter sixth. Ca. 520-510 (Cohen). *B. Cohen in: H.A. Shapiro, C.A. Picon and G.D. Scott III, eds., Greek Vases in the San Antonio Museum of Art (1995) 103/50 (ill. includes part of sig.). J. Jordan, Attic Black-figured Eye Cups (Diss. NY University 1988) 83-84, pl. 31,2-3.
- B] Int.: Gorgoneion. Ext.: between eyes and vines: A: Dionysus. B: a maenad (Ariadne?).
- C] A: between each eye brow and eye: Νικοσθενες and εποεσεν.(1)
- D] Ex collection G.M. Denman, Jr. Except for the nu, the inscription (epoesen) does not look like Painter N, nor does Cohen attribute the cup to him. Neat letters.

(1)the first word is in the text only, the second is illustrated.

Langridge, The Eucharides Painter and his Place in the Athenian Potters' Quarter (diss. Princeton 1993) 405/E 170 (not ill.) (no bibl.).
- B] Int.: Iris(1) to right, but looking back, before a flaming altar, holds a caduceus in her left hand and a satchel (tablets bound up with a handle; no stylus) in the right. Ext.: plain.
- C] Int.: to left of the lower part of the figure, starting below the right wing, vertically down and facing the figure: κ(α)λο(ς), retr.(2)
- D] Ex collection G.M. Denman, Jr. For other representations of Iris with tablets Shapiro refers to nos. 16, 29, 34, and 35 in LIMC. Here the tablets replace a more appropriate phiale.

(1)so Shapiro after Kossatz-Deissmann in LIMC v, 741ff.; Langridge says Iris or Nike. (2)the alpha lacks the cross stroke; the final sigma is unclear in the photo.

- C] Under the horses' bellies of the leading team: ελφοσαι.
- D] Smith thinks the inscription is not quite pure nonsense; he suggests that without the digamma it is ἐλῶσαι, intransitive [from ἐλάω], present rather than future participle, and compares other Leagran 'nonsense' inscriptions. But it is clearly just meaningless. GAI i also raises the possibility of reading ἐλῶσαι.

- B] A: Leto; Apollo seated, with a lyre and phiale; a column; Artemis pouring for Apollo; Apollo's bow and and quivver hung up. B: a boy between two youths.
- C] A: Above Leto: καλε. Under the quivver: καλος. Above Apollo's head: καλος.(2) Above Artemis: καλ[ε].
- D] This vase imitates the Niobid Painter (Beazley); the attribution is H.R.W. Smith's, accepted by Beazley. Probably mixed alphabet.

(1)so stated in the Sotheby cat. May 23/4, 1921, no. 240.

(2)this and the last must be above each other.

- A] RF alabastron. From Greece.(1) Aischines Painter. Second quarter fifth. *H.R.W. Smith, CV, USA 10, pl. 14,4. ARV(2) 717/226.
- B] A: a woman with a taenia and an alabastron; behind her, a chair. B: a woman with a box and taenia.(2)
- C] B: the woman is inscribed: καλε, retr.(3)

(1)so stated in Sotheby cat. May 23/4, 1921, no. 239. (2)so Smith, who calls the woman on B a servant. Beazley reverses the order of A and B, perhaps because the 'servant' is called καλε. Beazley also gives the woman on his side A an alabastron instead of a taenia; that may be an error. (3)note that she is facing left.

- C] A: to right of Zephyrus' forehead: καλε.(2) B: to left and right of the boy's head: καλο(ς).(3) On his left, a pillar, on which kion., nonsense: ιλι(.).
- D] Replica: Naples inv. 126,057, ARV(2) 974/24, CAVI 5478.

(1)see ARV(2): the figure on A may have a female breast and is inscribed καλη[sic]; Smith 19, n. 28, suggests Eos and, on B, Tithonos. [Smith actually suggested Cephalus.] See Sichtermann. Beazley wonders if Iris is possible and refers to ARV(2) 416/5. Sichtermann considers this a Zephyros - Hyacinthos replica of an Eos - Kephalos scene. Robertson thinks the pursuer is definitely female; according to him, H.R.W. Smith suggested Eos pursuing Tithonos; K. Schefold, Göttersage (1981), Chione, daughter of Boreas and Oreithyia. See also Naples inv. 126,057. Robertson thinks Smith may be right. (2)so pl. 13a in Smith; in the text he gives καλη. CV has καλε, Attic. Beazley in ARV(2) has καλη with Attic lambda, which would be mixed alphabet. (3)so CV.

- C] Handle zone: A: Χσενοκλες : εποιοσεν. B: Χσενοκλ[ε]ς : εποιο(ε)σεν.
- D] The number given by Bliquez is 59.100. Typical hand of Xenokles Painter. Very messy writing. B has irregular spacing, with gaps after the first and eleventh letters. On A, note nu with a curved top and backhand sigma.

(1)inscriptions and palmettes are in the usual style [i.e., by the Xenokles Painter], but the figure work is not clearly by the same hand (Beazley).

- B] A: Sacrifice at the Wedding of Theseus and Helen: at left, a bearded man, seated (Tyndareos?); the Dioscouri; Theseus to right at an altar, with Eros flying toward him; to right of the altar, Perithous with phiale and kanoun; Leda to left, holding a staff and wreath; Helen to left, with Eros placing a wreath on her head; two female figures; under the scene, an amphora and a boy leaning over a chest (the pais amphithales?).

- C] Theseus. Above the youth's head, roughly horizontal: Περρθός. Leda. Helen.(1) Above the head of the Eros who is above Helen, horizontal: Ερως.
D] Oakley and Sinos interpret the scene as the προτέλεια of a wedding. On the relation of this scene to Theseus' abduction of Helen, see their p. 13. Ionic alphabet.

(1)so Oakley and Sinos. The dr. shows some of the letters, but faintly. Those near Theseus, Leda and Helen do not seem very close to the names: in each case, the dr. shows only three letters, but it is probably reduced and hence unclear.

B] A: a warrior with shield and spear and a loin cloth. B: a warrior.
C] A: to right of the warrior's forehead, above the shield: Τι(ο)χσεν(ο)ς.(2) Below the shield: κ(α)λος. B: καλος.(3)

(1)may be by the painter himself (Beazley). (2)Beazley reads Τιμαχσενος, CV the same, but with alpha lacking the cross stroke. The photo. in CV shows a filled triangle, which could be intended for omicron, cf. the Oionokles Painter who regularly writes triangular omicrons. The second omicron is also a (small) triangular blob. (3)I think this is understood in CV.

- B] Fr. of LM cup, the lip missing: no figured decoration preserved.
- C] A: [Τλε]σων επο[ι]σευ.(2)
- D] Ex Siena, Marchese Chigi 226. For two other Tleson signatures omitting the father's name, see Heidelberg 81/10 and 91/1, CAVI 3967-8. In JHS Beazley seems to have attributed this and the preceding fr. (38,446) to the same cup. Neat style.

(1)lip or band. (2)The 2nd omicron is 1/2 preserved.

Siena, Marchese Chigi.(1)

- A] Fr. of RF cup. Unattributed. Last quarter sixth. Early RF (Beazley, ARV(1)). *dr. *ARV(1) 919 (no bibl.). Not in ARV(2), Para. or Add.(2).
- B] Int.: symposium: a youth reclining and raising his arm as if in salute. Ext.: plain or not preserved?
- C] Int.: above the youth, ending at his head: κ(α)λ(ο)(ς).(2)
Under the outstretched arm: κ(α)(λ)ος.(3) In the exergue: X(α)^ιρ<ι>ας.(4)
- D] Surely not related to ARV(2) 344/49 (ARV(1) 235/30): manner of the Antiphon Painter: A: symposium, parts of two youths.

(1)probably now: Siena, Museum. (2)sloppy writing: alpha is nearly triangular. Omicron is in two widely separated parts. Sigma = < reversed. (3)sloppy: alpha as above. Lambda with the short stroke almost missing. (4)sloppy: the alpha is a high-kicker. Sigma = S. ARV(1) says: perhaps [Chairias]. I think it must be for that. Drapery intervenes.

- A] Frs. of BG Attic pottery, mostly cups. From a sanctuary, probably of Zeus Koryphaios. Unattributed. Late sixth - early fifth. *I. Votokopoulou and E. Trakosopoulou, Delt. 45 (1990) B 2 [pub. 1995] 319, pl. 145,α-β.
- B] No figured decoration.
- C] Pl. 145,α: 2 rim frs.: Ext.: Grr.: 1. [αυ]εθεκεν. 2. (.)ον.(1)
3. on this fr. the authors say that among other scratches one can perhaps discern the name of Zeus. This is pl. 145,β, which I cannot read.
- D] These are three unconnected frs. if I understand the text.

(1)the authors mention the name of a dedicator, e.g. Θεοτιμος, but I did not see this name in the photo.

Sorrento.

- A] RF hydria. From Sorrento. Cassel Painter. Third quarter fifth. *Nsc. 1928, 218-19, fig. 3 (A). ARV(2) 1085/35.
- B] Pyrrhiche: at left, a seated woman playing the flutes; a small Eros flying; a nude girl with shield and spear, dancing; a youth leaning on his stick.
- C] Above the dancer's head, a two-liner: καλος|καλ(η).
- D] Eta lacks the horizontal stroke.

- B] A: a woman running with a torch; a small rock. B: a woman running with a mirror.

- C] A: to left of her head are the letters οο, retr.; not mentioned by Smith. [καλ]ος, retr.? B: to left and right of the head: κα^λε(?). Not mentioned by Smith.
 D] The letters are very small and the readings are uncertain.

(1)may all be by one hand (Beazley).

 B] Int.: a woman (hetaera) with crotala, running. Ext.: plain.
 D] See 'Script' on the style of lettering. The writing is in irregular lines. The inscriptions do not much resemble Oltos'.

(1)her right leg intervenes. (2)the head intervenes. So Buitron. Hesp. Art Bull. had read wrongly: καλος καλη.

Sozopol inv. 266.

- A] RF chous.(1) From an Opferrinne on the Harmanite peninsula.(2) Eretria Painter (Oakley, Lezzi-Hafter). Ca. 425 (L.-H.). A. Lezzi-Hafter in: J.H. Oakley, W.D.E. Coulson, O. Palagia, Athenian Potters and Painters: The Conference Proceedings (1997) 353-359, figs. 1-11 (fig. 10 is a rough dr. showing the inscriptions) (bibl.: p. 368,3). M. Lazarov, Antichna risuvana keramika v Bulgaria (1990), no. 17.

left: [Θα]^λεια, retr.(4) A standing Muse; above her head, nearly horizontal: [Ο]ρανια. A male figure in himation, the head missing; above him: Α[πολλων(?)], retr.(5) At the far right, a Muse seated and playing the lyre (phorminx); above her head, roughly horizontal: Ερατῶ.

- D] Sozopol is in Bulgaria; the vase was made for Thrace (Lezzi-Hafter). She thinks the vase was a special order for a funeral in Thrace (of a Greek or Thracian), which explains the snakes (see note 1 below); Kalliope, who is a central figure, was the mother of Orpheus. For the two Muses whose names are lost, Klio, Melpomene and Terpsichore are available. From the same find spot comes a mug with Thracians, also attributed to the Eretria Painter, which Lezzi-Hafter also considers a commissioned piece (see pp. 359ff., figs. 12-17). - Mixed alphabet. The inscriptions are horizontal or nearly so.

(1)of the rare globular shape, with twisted handles, ending in two snake tails. (2)on the Black Sea at ancient Apollonia Pontica. Used in a funeral rite with the bottom smashed. (3)so the dr., but the text gives Polyhúmmnia, "the way the name was pronounced." This remark and the spelling must be wrong. (4)so the dr.; the raised arm intervened; the text has [Th]áleia, retr. (5)the extant letter must be very high up, near the top margin, as there is only a small bit of original surface preserved in this area (see figs. 8 and 9); the dr. is not accurate. The depiction of Apollo without attribute is unusual (Lezzi-Hafter).

Sparta.

- A] BF prize Panathenaic. From Sparta, Athena Chalkioikos. Leagros Group. Last quarter sixth. 510-500. *Dickins, BSA 13 (1906-07) 150f., pl. 5 (drs.). Hondius and Woodward, BSA 24, 119/70. Beazley, AJA 47 (1943) 44/1 (wrong no.). Brauchitsch, no. 28. ABV 369/112.
- B] A: Athena. B: a chariot wheeling around.
- C] A: to right of the left column: [τον Αθ]ενεθεν αθλο[v].
A-B: under the figured panels, a Gr. in large letters: [-]τ[-3-] τῶθαναα[i].(1)
- D] Dickins, p. 152 n. 1, remarks on the rarity of dedicated prize Panathenaics.

(1)this reading follows the facts. on pl. 5 of BSA 13 and differs somewhat from the reading in the text of BSA.

7489.

Sparta.

- A] Frs. of BF prize Panathenaic. From Sparta, Athena Chalkioikos. Unattributed. Late sixth - early fifth (Dickins). *Dickins, BSA 13 (1906-07) 152 (not ill.). Hondius and Woodward, BSA 24, 119/71.

- B] A: Athena. B: a chariot.
- C] A: by the left column, prize inscription: [---]v[---].
B: below the chariot, a dedication: Gr.: A.(1)
- D] Same dedicator, same victory as the preceding?

(1)so the text. I.e.: [---]α[---] or A---.

7490.

Sparta.

- A] Fr. of BF prize Panathenaic. From Sparta, Athena Chalkioikos. Unattributed. Late sixth - early fifth (Dickins). *Dickins, BSA 13 (1906-07) 153 (not ill.). Hondius and Woodward, BSA 24, 119/72.
- B] Subjects not mentioned.
- C] A or B: dedication: Gr.: [--- τὰθαι]αι[αι]?(1)
- D] Same dedicator, same victory as the preceding?

(1)Dickins simply gives A1.

7491.

Sparta.

- A] Fr. of BF prize Panathenaic? From Sparta, Acropolis. Unattributed. Date?(1) *Woodward, BSA 30, 247/1, fig. 4 (dr.).
- B] A or B: no figured decoration preserved. At the top, two horizontal bands and above them, small remains.
- C] A or B: below the top bands, Gr.: [---]ε[---].(2)
- D] No doubt dedicatory.

(1)the epsilon is archaic. (2)Woodward suggests: ανεθεκεε, but the dr. does not show that the epsilon is final.

7492.

Sparta.

- A] Fr. of BF prize Panathenaic? From Sparta, Acropolis. Unattributed. Date?(1) *Woodward, BSA 30, 247/6, fig. 4 (dr.).

Hayashi, Bedeutung und Wandlung des Triptolemosbildes (1992), cat. no. 102.
- B] A: Sending Out of Triptolemos in the winged chair: at left, Demeter seated, with a companion pouring her a libation; at right, Kore (Persephone) pouring into a phiale held by Triptolemos; another companion. B: Dionysiac thiasos: a maenad playing the lyre; an old satyr; Dionysus; a maenad with an oinochoe. Under the handles: between the maenad with the oinochoe and the seated Demeter: Pan. Between Kore's companion and the lyre player: a satyr.

- C] A: Δεμετερ. Her companion: Παρθ[ενο]ς(?).(2) [Τ]ριπτολεως, for [Τ]ριπτολε(μ)ος.(2) Miswritten. Κορε. Her companion: [-]ε[-]. B: ...αιτ..αλε-πομ..ς(?).(3) Διον[υσο]ς]. Under the left handle: [Π]αν.(4)
- D] Ex Basel Market (M.M.). The two scenes are connected as being Eleusinian. The inscriptions are very faint and hard to read. Attic alphabet.

(1) somewhat fragmentary. (2) Cahn. (3) so Cahn's text. It is unclear how these letters are to be divided among the first two figures: [-]αιτ-. (K)λε<ο>πομ[πο]ς(?). (4)..αν, Cahn.

- B] A: Athena between Diomedes with the palladion and Odysseus.
B: a woman between two bearded men.
- C] Under the foot, Grr.: ΚΡΟΕΜΠΡΟ.
- D] Ex Lucerne Market (A.A.). For the interpretation of the abbreviations see TGV 217 and 227. Milne had suggested κρωσσοί and Johnston suggests ἐμβάφια and πρόχους. There seem to be no numerals with these vase names.

Gropengiesser, AA 1977, 591f., n. 33 and 600 n. 65.
- B] Odysseus and the Sirens: at left, three sirens on a rock, one with a lyre; at right, the forepart of a ship; at the far right, Odysseus tied to the mast.
- C] Above the sirens: σῆρῆν. To their lower right: σ(ἔ)ρῆν.(1) To left of Odysseus' lower middle: Ολυτ<τ>-ε-υς.(2) Starting from his mouth and to right of the sail: λῦσ<ο>ν, retr.(3)

(1) The letters are clear, except that the first epsilon seems to lack the bottom horizontal. The reading given by confirms this, if we mean the inscription below the lyre.
She seems to mention only the one occurrence of 'siren', if my note is correct. (2)- indicates wider spacing. (3) Rendered ΓΥΣΝ by Schauenburg in the text (i.e. the retr. is not mentioned), but later explained by him as λῦσον.

 B] "Mistress and Maid": woman seated in a chair to right, playing the lyre; above and behind her, at the top, a sash; above her head, at the top, an oinochoe hung up; woman to left holding a sash; behind her and at the top, a sash and oinochoe hung up.
 Διφιλος | καλος | Μελανοπιδ.

:(1)
 D] Listed as G. 2107 in ARV(2). The final letter written above the line to square the tabella. Ionic alphabet with omicron for omega. Ionic lambda, once with the second leg shorter and once resembling lambda S 6 (see chart in 'Script'). Sigmas typical of Achilles Painter. Phi with extended vertical.

(1)the final omicron of the father's name is in the stoichos vertically; but it is not quite in line horizontally with line 2 but is slightly below that line.

- B] Int.: a man courting a boy; at left, a dead hare hung up; at right, a dead fox hung up. Fancy tongue pattern, crenelation and line border. Ext.: lip: plain.
- C] Handle zone: A: Σοκλες εποιοεσεν. B: the same.
- D] In n. 1, Schauenburg lists addenda to Beazley's article on homo-erotic vases in the Cyprus Museum.

(1)Para. wrongly lists AA 1955.

- A] BF lip cup. Tleson Painter. Tleson potter. Third quarter sixth. *Photos. in Beazley Archive.
- B] Lip: A: a siren to right, looking back. B: similar.
- C] Handle zone: A: Τλεσων ho Neapxō εποιοεσεν. B: Τλε[σ]ων ho Neap]xō εποιοεσεν.
- D] Ex New York market? In the normal style of Tleson signatures. Beazley has a note on the mounting sheet: 'Tleson Painter 39 bis'. But no such number is found in the published books. Probably = Basel Market (M.M.), CAVI 2097, *Sonderliste G (M.M., 1964), 47/81 (A, details of B, no bibl.).

B] Two mounted Amazons.
C] Nonsense: to right of one face: νοε. Similarly for the other: οκτο. Between the horses' legs: ενο(.)με.(1) To right of the last: καλε. On the horses' right: τιυενανεοσ.
D] = a lost olpe mentioned in ABV 667? This note is based on the identification of the vases mentioned in my note from the tracing, ABV and Add.(2). Bothmer compares New York 06.1021.47, CAVI 5534, which has similar inscriptions including however the name Ευφιλετος.

(1)the bracketed letter somewhat resembles a disjointed Ionic gamma. Is this intended for a proper name?

B] A: Athena mounting a chariot seen in three-quarter view. B: Duel of Achilles and Memnon? Two fight over a fallen comrade (Antilochos?), with a woman (goddess?) on each side.
D] Ex Lucerne Market (A.A.). kados is here used for the amphora itself. For this word, Schauenburg refers to Amyx, Hesp. 1958, 186ff. See also Agora 12, 201-203 and TGV. - B] Athletes: two pairs of wrestlers, an acontist, a discobolus, two boxers, a bearded flautist, a man crowning a victorious boy athlete.
- C] The photos. show inscriptions too small to be read. Drougou says the vase is inscribed, but the inscriptions are not known to her, as the vase is unpublished; presumably, she thinks, they are the names of the athletes (see n. 316). [Perhaps nonsense, as common in Pezzino Group?]
- D] Listed by Drougou as 'Priv.-Slg. Bellinzona'. Cf. New York 10.210.18, CAVI 5591, the Oltos psykter.

The Achilles Painter (1997) 156/N 10, pl. 163A-C (side, front (showing inscriptions) and detail).

- B] Man (king) with scepter seated to right on the upper step of a funeral monument, on top of which a lion is now lost.
- C] High above the man, close to the top margin, horizontal: Ακρισιως. On the upper step, at mid-height but displaced to the left: Περσέως. In the same position on the bottom step: [-]ς. J. suggests: [Δαναη]ς.
- D] Ex Swiss Private. Restored (parts missing). J. says that the vase is in the Swiss Market, but also that it is in private possession in Switzerland. Akrisios is sitting on the tomb chamber in which he has buried his daughter; he may be hearing the voice of the infant Perseus. - Ionic alphabet. Omega for omicron: see 'Script' 167. Most letter forms of the Perseus inscription are only partly preserved, to judge by the photo.

- A] WG lekythos. Achilles Painter (Sommer). 450-445 (Oakley). *J.H. Oakley, The Achilles Painter (1997) 11 and n. 4, 140/195, pl. 105B-D (both show inscription).
- B] Two women. The photos show: remains of a woman seated to right on a stool and holding a plemochoe; above and behind her, at the top, a mirror hung up; traces of a standing woman, with an offering tray; above and behind her, at the top, an oinochoe hung up.
- C] In the middle between the figures, below the top margin, horizontal stoich. three-liner with the second line centered:
Τιμοδημος | καλος | [...]παγητῶ. (1)
.....
.....
//.....
/.....
- D] Much broken and the surface rubbed off. The inscription is better preserved than the figures, which makes one wonder if it has not been redrawn (although the letter forms resemble those used by the Achilles Painter); this might explain a possible confusion of gamma and rho, and the peculiar tau which resembles an upsilon (Υ). For the name Timodemos see ARV(2) 1610 (Cab. Méd. 508, CAVI 6145); LGPN ii, s.v. - Ionic alphabet. The writing is not very regular. - Sommer is unidentified.

(1)Oakley, p. 11 n. 4, restores the gen. of Ἐπάγητος, an Eretrian name, although he says that the tabella format suggests "one or two" missing letters at the beginning. But if the third line is centered like the second, [E]παγητο can stand. If, however, line three is left-aligned, there are perhaps other possibilities, although the photo. does not show a trace of a letter to the left of the break in which the second missing letter is lost. I note that the gamma has a wavy horizontal and wonder if it is not a rho of shape S 5 in the chart published in 'Script'. Hence perhaps [Ελ]παρετῶ; the name is found on a BF hydria in Boston, 01.8058, CAVI 2713, as a kalos-name. If a gamma, perhaps [Ελ]παγητος(?). Oakley mentions also Ἰππάγητος and Ὑπάγητος, but rejects them as not being found in Attica.

- B] Amazons arming: the photo. in Haspels shows: a shield at left; Amazon to right; shield (probably held by her}; below it, a sword and two upright spears; at right, Amazon to left holding a shield in profile, with a satyr head as device sticking out.
- C] Nonsense. Part imitation. Small letters strewn in field. Those shown in Haspels' photo. do not look like the usual nu's; they are small and resemble lambda 2, sigma 1 (cf. the chart in 'Script'), and perhaps one looks like a nu; others are imitation letters. But from the Beazley photo. I had concluded the letters were the usual nu type, but tinier. CAVI 7540 had Syracuse 2358 in error, which is not inscribed.

- C] A: to right of the warrior at right, near kion.(?):
α(λ)οχ(.)().φ.
D] The rest of the letters are unclear.

(1)K. lists as a slender amphora, which amphorae he says are either very early or early, but he does not say which this one is (the listing may be chronological; it goes from 167-179; this vase is 175, a bit past the middle).

B] The child Achilles brought to Chiron by his father.
C] Benndorf saw traces of an inscription beside the head of a female at left and connected them with καλος ναιχι. Beazley did not see these traces and read: καλος.Πε<λε>ιδες = Achilles and ναιχι.(1) Hence Peleus and Chilon are not inscribed.

- A] BF lekythos. From Gela, 'predio Leopardi'. Recalls Acheloos

Painter (Haspels). Last quarter sixth. *Haspels, ABFL 49. P. Orsi, NSc. 1901, 309. Orsi, Mon. Linc. 17, pl. 20. Lippold, Neue Beiträge 136. T.B.L. Webster, Potter and Patron (1972) 77 n. 4 (mention).

B] Symposion.

C] ἡμερα.

D] Orsi, NSc: "un gruppo di figure sdraiate sopra una kline, sormontate dall' enigmatico nome: ἡμερα." Webster discusses the name and thinks it should refer to the Sicilian town or its nymph; the inscription might have been commissioned by a Sicilian in Athens. I think probably the name of a hetaera (whether present or as a kale-name); for the name, cf. LGPN ii, IG i(3) 571 (500-480).

B] A woman running with an oinochoe and phiale; a taenia.

- C] Below the taenia, a two-liner: Ελαιὼν|καλος. For Εὐαίῶν(?).
- D] The same inscription occurs on Lyons E 413 (ARV(2) 643/116, CAVI 4873), at which Beazley remarks: "The name may be Euaion, although in both vases the second letter of the name is written like a lambda." On p. 1579, he keeps both vases under Euaion, but states: "I have kept nos. 1 and 2 under Euaion, but ... Elaion, which Orsi [in Mon. Linc.] read in no. 1 [Syracuse 21,146], is a possible name." Fairbanks also read Euaion. Ἐλαιῶν is not in PA, Pape or LGPN ii, but note the deme Ἐλαιοῦς. Euaion is perhaps rather early to be found in the Providence Painter.

- B] Artemis and a woman.
- C] Between the figures, at shoulder height:
Κλευιας|κ(α)λος|Πηδιῶς.(1) Under foot, Gr.: alpha with a horizontal line at the apex. [Cf. TGV 71/A 1, examples 1, 3 and 8.]
- D] O. and S. interpret the scene as a bride offering her belt to Artemis. Mixed alphabet. Sigma twice three-stroke and once four-stroke.

(1)tabella inscription; the first two lines probably stoich., the third at some distance below and not stoich. For the gen. of Πηδιεύς, see Meisterhans(3), p. 141, para. 10. Actually the name is Πῆδιεύς, but we could hardly read Πῆδιῶς(?). More likely eta is here substituted for short e, see GAI i,39 and 159; ii, 685.

- B] A: duel over a falling comrade, with Athena. B: Dionysus with a drinking horn, with two maenads with krotala.
- C] A: between Athena and the fighters: (A) $\rho\epsilon\varsigma$.(1) To Athena's right: A(θ) $\epsilon\nu\alpha\text{i}\alpha\varsigma$.(2) Between the left warrior's legs: $\kappa\alpha\lambda\text{o}\varsigma$, retr.(3)
- D] The readings are unreliable. Theta lacks the dot.

(1)my reading; CV reads $\gamma\rho\epsilon\varsigma$. (2)so CV. I read A(θ) $\epsilon\nu\alpha\text{i}[\alpha]$, probably wrongly. (3)so my reading; CV, text, reads it not retr. and with Ionic lambda.

B] Shoulder: Birth of Aphrodite, with the Semnai. Body: A Warrior Leaving Home.
C] Under the foot, Gr.: a Gr. line crossing the foot. Α†† and a long vertical line.
D] Johnston 203 thinks the line means that the vase is reserved (ordered or even bought). Cf. Ragusa 26,556. The other Gr. is a price inscription: A, three drachmas and 1 obol? [But I am not sure that the vertical line in fig. 6,b is part of the numeral.]

- C] A: above the heads: Ακαμας. Πανδιων. Χοιρος. Οινευς.(1)
- D] Three tribal heroes: the tribes Akamantis, Pandionis and Oineis are commemorated. Oineus is here not the son of Pandion, but his brother or ἡλιξ (Beazley). Pandion occurs also on Palermo 12,480, CAVI 6046, by the Eretria Painter and Naples Stg. 311, CAVI 5503, by the Meidias Painter. Cf. also London E 224, CAVI 4531, by the Meidias Painter, with Oineus, Akamas and others. Choiros is the name of a maenad on Naples 2369, CAVI 5426, RF bell krater by the Dinos Painter, ARV(2) 1154/29. (Reff. from Beazley). Harrison discusses the figure of a youthful Pandion; on p. 77 she mentions Oineus bidding farewell to a girl with the maenad name Choiros. That should be this vase. - Ionic alphabet.

- A] BF Droop cup. From Tarentum.(1) Unattributed. Antidoros potter. Third quarter sixth. 550-530. *C. Drago, CV, Italy 35, p. 7. fig. 2 (photo. of signature), pl. 31. ABV 160/2, Para. 67, Add.(2) 46. E. De Juliis and D. Loiacono, Taranto: Il Museo Archeologico (1985) 150/136 (A).
- B] A-B: chariot race: three chariots with charioteers on each side. Under one handle: a standing figure; under the other, a seated figure.
- C] A-B: nonsense: A: to left of the leftmost chariot:(2) (ν)σλιν. To right of the chariot rail: ννν:(3) To right of the charioteer's hands: ν(.)νσ.(4) Below the horse, close to the bottom of the picture: ν(π)νθνθν(.)[--(?)].(5) Under the foot, around the central hole: Αντιδορος εποε.
- D] The location of the signature is as in I.G. 4435, below, but it is more carefully done; the words are NOT separated as they are in 4435; the signature fills 1/2 of the circumference and there is no word separation at all. By the same hand as the signature of 4435 [if so and if, as it seems to me, the nonsense is NOT by the same hand, then the signatures must be written by another, e.g. the potter, which would explain their position.] Pl. 31,1 shows all of B, with 10 inscriptions (one is fragmentary), mostly horizontal and mostly in sequences featuring nu's. The scheme of two short horizontal inscriptions to the charioteer's right and a long one under the horses is repeated; in addition, the central charioteer has a short one behind his back as does the lefthand charioteer illustrated in pl. 31,3 (from A). These inscriptions do not look to be by the same hand as the single one on 4435; note what Beazley says about the hands of the figured decoration.

(1)from the same tomb as I.G. 4435: Via Nitti, 1897. (2)see pl. 31,3. (3)the two dots may be accidental, as they are fainter. (4)the first nu could be a sideways sigma; the second consists of two parallel vertical strokes; the final sigma is three-stroke. (5)the inscription extends to the break.

- B] A: boar hunt. B: battle of pygmies and cranes.
- C] B: at the extreme left, a crane attacks some pygmies. Above the crane: nonsense: imitation letters: α(δ)(π)(.)(.). Under the foot, around the central hole: Αντιδορος ^ επροε. The words are slightly separated.
- D] Location of the signature: around the central hole, very close to the edge, covering less than 1/2 of the circumference. The verb is slightly separated from the name (not so in 4434, above). The lettering is less careful than in 4434. For signatures under the foot, which are not uncommon on Droop cups, see 'Script', p. 49 n. 47. The nonsense inscription is in thick and coarse letters, probably not by the hand of 4434.

(1) from the same tomb as I.G. 4434, Via Nitti, 1897.

Under the other: $\Sigma\alpha\kappa\omicron\nu\iota\delta\epsilon\varsigma|\epsilon\gamma\rho\alpha\phi\omicron\epsilon\nu$. The signatures are each a two-liner, not stoich., the lines rather far apart. Fig. 7 shows: $\text{Κ}(\alpha)\nu\lambda\omicron\varsigma|\epsilon\pi\omicron\iota\epsilon\sigma\epsilon\nu$. Fig. 6: the Sakonides signature is clear; line 2 starts to left of line 1 by one letter space.
- D] A multfigured cup. On the hands connected with Sakonides, see 'Script'. Beazley in ABV 172 notes that Louvre F 150, CAVI 6340, a BF pyxis, is close and probably by the same hand [it has very similar nonsense inscriptions]. Beazley in Para.: only the fourth letter of the 'Kaulos' signature is doubtful; the second letter may be [a pointed alpha]. This is in answer to ABV, where it is said that the last three letters of the name are hard to read.

D] The inscriptions are in unusual positions. For a pensive Agamemnon Beazley compares the fr. of a pot at Paestum by the Meidias Painter, ARV(2) 1314/19, CAVI 6025. Burn thinks Agamemnon is not pensive as Beazley said but in turmoil. She suggests the scene is connected with the sacrifice of Iphigeneia, comparing Euripides' Iphigeneia in Aulis. Apollo and Artemis may be watching Iphigeneia's approach. To left of Agamemnon's rock there is a flower not mentioned by Burn.

(1)may be by the painter himself (Beazley).

- D] There is a winged figure over each chariot; Ferrari considers them keres. On p. 54 n. 12, she discusses previous interpretations: Greifenhagen, Griechische Eroten 34-37, thinks they are Deimos and Phobos, but Ferrari says Phobos is the name of the charioteer as on Berlin 1732, ABV 110/37, CAVI 2219 [but the reading is uncertain there]; she intimates that there are other parallels. Shapiro also disagrees with Greifenhagen; he gives Phobos to the (bearded) charioteer of Cycnus; the (young) charioteer of Heracles must be Iolaus. The phi in the signature has a diagonal hasta.

(1)CV, text, with a vertical line inserted: κα|λός. (2)CV, text, has ΦΟΒΟ; I have added the sigma. Perhaps rather: Φοβο[ς].

ARV(2) 405/1, 1651, Para. 371 (bibl. on p. 370), Add.(2) 231. Robertson, AVCA 109.
- B] Int.: Menelaus leading Helen? A: Menelaus pursuing Helen in the sanctuary of Aphrodite at Troy. B: Theseus leaving the sleeping Ariadne, with Hermes and Eros; vine.
- C] Int.: to Helen's left, along the margin: ἠοπαίς. To Hermes' upper right, along the margin: [κ]αλός.(2)
- D] The second sigma is not turned.

(1)in ARV(2) attributed to the manner of the Foundry Painter: "They [this cup and London 95.5-13.1, CAVI 4689, q.v.] might be by the Foundry Painter at the point of his career when he was nearest to the Brygos Painter." Another difference from the article on the Foundry Painter (which is of 1965, published in 1966) is that the scene on the Int. is called Agamemnon and Briseis(?), and the Menelaus scene on the Ext. is labeled B. (2)CV has all letters extant.

- B] Int.: a nude young horseman with a spear. A-B: horse race of 15 nude youths.
- C] Int.: to right of the youth's back: Πεδίευς. Under the horse's legs (they intervene), upside down: καλ^ος. A: above the scene: Πεδίευς καλός. Below: καλός. B: above: Πεδ[ι]ευς καλός.(2) Below: καλός.
- D] Kirchner, PA 11747-48, thinks the kalos might be the archon of 449/8; he dates the vases 500-480.

(1)close to Skythes; perhaps late works of his (Beazley).

- B] A: Dionysus with two pairs of a satyr and a maenad. B: Heracles and the tripod.
- C] A: to right of Dionysus' face: [Δ]ιο[ν]υσο[ς]. To left of the right satyr's face: Σιμαδες, retr.(1) Above the head of a maenad: Κισκονιε.(2) Between the legs of the right-hand satyr, non-stoich. two-liner: Φιντιας and εγραψεν, both retr. B: to right of Heracles' face: ηερακλᾶες.(3) Similar, but toward Apollo's face: [Α]πολλᾶον, retr. Under his legs: Φιντικᾶς, and between the legs of both figures: εγραψεν.
- D] Ferrari gives the present state of the inscriptions, citing them in Italics: [Dionys]o[s]. Kisine. Sima[des]. Phintias egrafsens. A[-]polon. Herakes. [Ph]intis. e[g]r[a]ph[e]n [the omission of sigma is probably an error]. Ferrari, on p. 21 n. 2, gives also the readings of Della Seta in the ms. Catalogo della Raccolta Comunale (1911): A: iousos. simades. ksine [sic?]. phinias. egraphsens. B: apolon. herakes. egraphsens. phinis. Della Seta noted a large gap in a break after the alpha of Apolon and Kretschmer suggested A[p]polon.

Ferrari [Pinney], I vasi attici a figure rosse del periodo arcaico (Materiali del Museo Archeologico Nazionale di Tarquinia 11, 1988) 23/3, pls. 4-7 (vast bibl.).
- B] Int.: a warrior. A: deities in Olympus. B: Dionysus mounting a chariot, with satyrs and maenads.
- C] Int.: along the margin: Ευχοιθεος εποιεσεν, retr. A: to left of Hebe's head (she looks left): ηεβε, retr. To right of Hermes' head: ηερμε[ς]. Similar: Αθεναα. To right of Zeus' head: Ζευ[ς]. To Ganymedes' left: Γανυμεδες, retr. Similar: ηε^στια, retr.(1) Under her chair, an irregular two-liner, vertically up: Ολτος|εγραψεν.(2) In the same position as for Hestia: Αφροδιτε, retr. To left of Ares' head (he looks right): Αρε[ς], retr. B: between a thyrsus and the back of a leading maenad's head: (θ)εός.(3) Behind

- D] Shapiro thinks that the divinities on A are expecting Heracles; Dionysus on B is setting out to join them. Differences in Ferrari's readings: Int.: epo[i]esen. B: Terpos or Terpes, retr. [she says the fifth letter resembles G, which is probably an omicron]. Thero kal[e] (maenad). Kali[s] (maenad). Terpos (retr.) kalos (satyr).

(1)an arm intervenes. (2)the nu is displaced for lack of space. (3)so CV and others (including K.-D.), but Fränkel (after Hartwig? See Roscher) reads Θερῶ, which is much more plausible. The theta lacks the dot (= 0).

- A] Fr. of BF Droop cup. From Thasos, Artemision. Unattributed. Third quarter sixth. *BCH 105 (1981) 935, fig. 14.
- B] One handle with palmettes on either side; at right, left portion of A: a chariot racing to right.
- C] A: nonsense: above the horses, horizontal: four letters before the break. Under the horses, curving upward: six letters, complete.

D] Probably imitation letters.

- A] Fr. of RF cup. From Thasos, Artemision. Epiktetos (Maffre). Last quarter sixth. *J.-J. Maffre in: Thasiaca (BCH suppl. 5, 1979) 63/21, fig. 37, a-f (a is dr. showing inscription). *Maffre and F. Salviat, BCH 100 (1976) 781, fig. 28. *D. Williams, JbBerlMus 24 (1982) 28 and n. 38 (mention). L. Rebillard, BCH 106 (1992) 507 n. 10 (mention).
- B] Int.: no figured representation preserved; traces of coral red. A: upper portions of figures: Artemis with a bow; a youthful Apollo with his lyre (barbiton); Hermes; an arm supporting a panther, probably a maenad.
- C] A: Dipp.: starting to right of Artemis' face and running across the figures roughly horizontally: Ἀπολλόδωρος.(1) Below, also roughly horizontally and curving downward at the end: ὁ Διῖφιλο̅.(1) Continuing downward: ἀν[έθηκε].(1)
- D] Note the absence of heta, although room for it is preserved; Ionic lambda; phi with the vertical extended above and below; and omega. The inscription is in the Ionic alphabet, which to Epiktetos would have been foreign. No doubt a commissioned vase by a non-Athenian, perhaps a Thasian, acquired to be dedicated to Artemis on Thasos. See Maffre in Thasiaca, pp. 67-69. Compare the dinos by Exekias, Villa Giulia 50,599 (ABV 146/20, CAVI 7202) with an inscription in the Sikyonian alphabet written by Exekias. Differently (and wrongly?) Rebillard.

(1)the figures intervene numerous times:

Ἀπολλοδωρῶρος | ο Διῖφιλο̅ ἀν[-]. The last two letters seem to be retr.

- A] Fr. of RF rhyton.(1) From Thasos, Artemision. Workshop of Sotades? Ca. 450 (Johnston). Ca. 450 (the inscription; Salviat). *L.H. Jeffery, The Local Scripts of Archaic Greece(2) (with supplement by A.W. Johnston 1990) 467/M (not ill.). *F. Salviat, 'Le crocodile amoureux,' BCH 91 (1967) 96-101, figs. 1-4 (fig. 1 is a dr., fig. 2 a photo. of the fr.). H. Hoffmann, Sotades: Symbols of Immortality on Greek Vases (1997) 156/F 7, 19-33 (discusses all nine copies of this type, all from the same mold (see Cat. F1-9); the Thasos copy is not illustrated; for the inscription see p. 21).
- B] No figured decoration is preserved. The base is not glazed.
- C] On the side of the base, horizontal, in a somewhat uneven line, Gr. after firing: ὦ κρωκώδιλος ἐρασθ[εῖς].
- D] Salviat interprets the inscription: the crocodile is in love with the negro so it eats him. I would compare this inscription with the Boston ball (63.119, CAVI 2809, q.v.): a comment by the owner of the vase. (Salviat says written by the merchant or the owner; I think the owner because of the local alphabet.) Despite the fact that the base is not glazed, Salviat associates it with Sotadean plastic vases. Frs. of such a one with a crocodile eating a negro have been found on Thasos. The first omega is not preceded by another letter (just enough is preserved), hence there was no heta. Thasian (Parian) alphabet. Omega for omicron. H. Hoffmann connects the base with the fragments of the crocodile-negro rhyton without discussing them in detail. He notes that to a fifth-century Athenian the plight of the negro would not arouse pity but ridicule (for his lack of heroism). On p. 21 he quotes Salviat for the interpretation of the crocodile's love for the negro as representing the religious concept of a god in his animal form ravishing a young mortal in order to make him immortal.

(1)base only; from a Sotadean plastic vase of a crocodile eating a negro, because of the inscription.

- A] Fr. of RF pot.(1) From Thasos. Unattributed. Third quarter fifth (Jacquemin).(2) *A. Jacquemin, BCH 107 (1983) 874, fig. 17.
- B] A: a male head to right remains. On the reverse: an incised 'spider web'.
- C] A: across the surface, a horizontal Gr.: Ηρηκαλη.
- D] Jacquemin thinks Hera is here the divinity who had an altar at the entrance to the Poseidonion and who is known to have had a sanctuary, as yet unlocated, on Thasos.

(1)cut down as a small circular game piece. (2)the pot; Jacquemin dates the inscription, rightly, to the mid-fourth century.

- B] A: upper portions of figures: youth with spear to left; gap; youth with spear to right; bearded man.
- C] A: above the head of the bearded man: Ανφι[-].
- D] Rolley suggests: Ανφι[τριτη], referring to a lost figure to the right of the man. But why not: Ανφιαρεός. Note the youths with spears.

- B] No figured decoration.
- C] Under the lid, and under the foot of the pyxis: monogram consisting of pi, omicron and upsilon.(1)

- D] Pyxis type D; see Agora 12, no. 1312. Grr. to fit lid and pyxis together are usually simple letters, not monograms.

(1)so TGV, sketch; I thought the main letter rather a rho; unclear whether an upsilon was really intended.

B] Int.: coral red used. A: The Struggle for the Tripod.
C] A: fr. a: above Heracles' arm and below his raised club, slightly bearing upward, in two irregular lines:

(X)αχρυλιῶ[v] | εποι[--].(1)

... .[

- D] + 80.144.21. + 80.144.22. Three non-joining frs. Maffre's attribution is not mentioned in the Euphronios exhibition cats., whence Maffre 1992 thinks that his attribution (at the Copenhagen symposium) was rejected. The first chi = an inverted tau?

- B] A: a satyr armed with a phallus stick. B: a light-armed warrior.
- C] Nonsense, near imitation: A: at left, in a curve: κε(.)ε.(2) at right, similar: ρ(.)[1-2]υ(.).(3) B: similar: ρτ.. and (.)πεε.
- D] Done from the facss. in BSA, which are probably not reliable. The lettering is very sloppy.

(1)glauz type handles, but otherwise type A (Beazley). (2)the third letter is unclear. (3)the second letter is a horizontal line, the last a dot.

B] A: upper part of a satyr.
C] A: Εχ(.)[-] or εχ(.)[-].(1)
D] It is unclear to me whether this is sense or nonsense; the latter is perhaps unlikely as nonsense inscriptions are not common in Onesimos. K.-D. wonders whether this is a satyr name or an exclamation.

(1)Para. Εχ ... followed by a partial letter, which may be alpha or mu (Beazley). K.-D. reads : Εχλ[-], but if the third letter is considered alpha or mu by Beazley, this should be an Ionic lambda, which is unlikely.

- B] No figured decoration.
- C] On the resting surface, a Gr. in a complete circle around the outer rim:
:κυλίφακτος ἡ ἀθλίωνος τῷ Ἡγησιλόχῳ.(2)
- D] The inscription is not Attic, but not Theran either. Island Ionic? The punctuation marks the beginning; it has no space of its own. Cf. London B 196, CAVI 4252, which has the Gr., underfoot: κυλίφα:(?)K. Kontoleon had read:
κυλίφακτος Ἡραθλίωνος τῷ Ἡγησιλόχῳ. kyliphaktos is a vase shape; see Johnston.

- B] No figured decoration.
- C] A: on the BG and offset lip, in large letters, Gr.: Ἀ(ν)εμῶνας σᾶμα, retr.(1)
- D] Offset lip. The alphabet is Theran. Ἀνεμῶνη is listed in LGPN ii from Collignon-Couve 1600 bis, '?v BC'. [= Athens, N.M. 2510: RF pyxis lid with obscene decoration: ἡ ἀύλητρίς Ἀνεμῶνη.]

(1)Guarducci reads: A(γ)εμονες (error for A(γ)εμονας); the second letter is not clear in the 1995 reprint of EG iii, but it looks like 'Y'. I think the second letter should be a miswritten nu, not gamma. - The same reading in BCH 94: Ἀγῆμῶνας σᾶμα. The second letter is unclear in the photo.; it looks like a mere upright stroke. Very large and sloppy letters, lightly incised. - The letters very hasty on the offset lip, disjointed: Ἀ(ν)εμῶνας σᾶμα, retr. The nu = upsilon 2 reversed (see chart in 'Script').

- B] A: Heracles and the Lion; in the center, Athena; Heracles; an olive tree; a lion emerging from a cave; a woman (muse?) seated on a rock. B: three youths.
- C] A: in front of Athena: καλος καλιος. (1)
- D] Reported in small letters by E. Blegen.

(1)not read as a kalos-name by Beazley; I would read καλ{ι}ος, rather than Kallias miswritten.

- B] A: Heracles and the Stag(1); at right, Athena. B: similar.
- C] Nonsense: A: to right of Athena's legs: οδεγ. B: between the stag and Athena: οδεσ.
- D] The writing is rather more sloppy than is usual for this painter. Done from the facss. in CV. The stand is not by the Acheloos Painter: see Para. 169.

(1)the animal is male, not female as had been thought.

- B] A: Achilles and Ajax playing a board game between palm trees; behind them, Athena. B: athletes: a trainer; two acontists; a flautist; a trainer; a jumper. At the handles: grape vines.
- C] A: to left of Achilles' back, facing him: καλός ἡο παῖς, retr. To Achilles' right, facing him: Ἀχιλλεύς.(1) To right of Ajax' face: Ἀίας, retr. Starting above his head and curving down to his right (to Athena's right): Ἀθηναίος.(2)
- D] Ex Arlesheim, Schweizer. The foot is modern. Neat lettering. Done mainly from the facss. in CV. The surface of the vase is full of black specks so that the inscriptions are hard to recognize in the photos; they are almost invisible in CV.

- B] Komos: Int.: a youth with a lyre, singing, and a bearded man; both dancing. A: a youth playing the flutes; a bearded komast dancing while holding a skyphos; a bearded komast playing the lyre and singing; a bearded komast dancing with castanets; a boy carrying a stick and a large bag(?). B: a boy; a man listening (trying to sing); a girl piper; a young dancer.
- C] Nonsense: Int.: from the youth's open mouth: $\text{vo}\epsilon(\nu)(.)\circ(.)\nu\epsilon.$ (1) A, B, each: many nu's. A: the photos show an inscription issuing from the singer's mouth. Cf. the Int. picture. See also the facss. in CV.
- D] "On the background can be seen remains of inscriptions with many nus." (Beazley). On the Int.: imitation of a song?

(1)The first (.) is incompletely preserved, the others are imitation letters. Two nu's are reversed.

- B] A: Ransom of Hector: Hermes; an attendant carrying a tripod and a stack of three phialae; Priam; Achilles reclining; a woman [Briseis?] with a hydria.(1) B: Departure of a Warrior, in a chariot.
- C] Mainly nonsense: A: to right of Hermes' face; $(\kappa)(\epsilon)(.)[h] \epsilon\rho\mu\epsilon[\varsigma]$. Around Priam's head: $(\delta)\omicron(\gamma)(.)\alpha\delta(.)$. B: to right of the charioteer's face: $\sigma\upsilon\sigma$. To right of an old man's face, similar: $\tau\lambda\omicron\sigma$.(2)
- D] Very small letters, quite different from the sense inscriptions on London B 195, CAVI 4251. The inscriptions are sloppy and CV's facss. are hard to decipher; B.&L. do not explain them. My readings are therefore uncertain. It is hard to distinguish the letters from drips.

(1)Shapiro thinks she is a servant to wash Hector's corpse rather than Briseis. (2)the sigma is a reversed three-stroke sigma.

- B] A: a chariot with a bearded warrior and driver wheeling to right; two horses are Kalliphoras and Pyrrichos. B: similar: a chariot; the warrior(?) Anchippos. Lid: a deer;

- D] The only genitals showing are of the right trace horse; they are male.

(1)by the same hand: Louvre F 53 (ABV 136/49, CAVI 6291) and London B 147 (135/44, CAVI 4243); the former has very similar inscriptions. (2)complete; the final sigma of the name was added later; egrafse lacks the final nu, cf. Louvre F 53. (3)not Καλλιφόρα, as CV, Bell and Bea. Arch. Kalliphoras was probably a famous stallion; he occurs also on Louvre F 53 and Berlin 1720, CAVI 2216 (cf. Bell 84 and 'Script'). B.&L. give Pyrichos and Kalliphora and refer to Beazley, AJA 54 (1950) 315/6; for horse names in general, to Moore's diss. (4)B.&L. think this the name of the warrior; I thought, rather the name of the charioteer.

- C] A: above the boy satyr, said to be miswritten: καλος.
- D] Not clearly visible in the photos; rendered in the Roman alphabet by CV; hence I do not know how the word is miswritten.

- A] BF prize Panathenaic. From a tomb in Aslaia near Barca in Cyrenaica. Manner of Kleophrades Painter. 480-470 (Maffre and Ali M.). 500-490 (Vickers & Bazama). *Neils et al., Goddess and Polis (1992) 196 n. 34. M. Vickers and A. Bazama, 'A 5th century BC tomb in Cyrenaica,' Libya Antiqua 8 (1971) 74-75, pls. 27-28. *J.-J. Maffre and Fadl Ali Mohammed, 'Une nouvelle amphore Panathenaïque découverte à Barca, Cyrénaïque,' RA 1993, 91-94, figs. 1-4 (A and part, B and part). *M. Vickers and J.M. - B] A: Athena; device, pegasus. B: pentathlon: in the center, a discobolus between a bearded flautist and a trainer.
- C] A: τον Αθηνεθεν αθλον.
- D] Tolmeta is ancient Ptolemais. The tomb is dated ca. 425, the vase 50 years earlier. Found 1969. The earliest Panathenaic found in Cyrenaica. Vickers and Bazama date it to 500-490 and assign the vase to the Kleophrades Painter himself. Maffre and Ali Mohammed date it 480-470 and assign it to the workshop of the Kleophrades Painter, following S.B. Matheson, 'Panathenaic Amphorae by the Kleophrades Painter,' GVGettyMus 4 (1989) 111-12 and E. Kunze-Götte, Der Kleophrades-Maler unter Malern schwarz-figuriger Amphoren (1992) 84-85. Shapiro in: Neils, ed., Goddess and Polis (1992) 56 and n. 24, mentions that there are only two prize Panathenaics with a flautist on B, one of which must be this vase; the other is Tarentum 115,474, CAVI 7619. - The lettering is typical of the Kleophrades Painter, but the spacing is unusual: there is a good-sized vacat both before and after the inscription, which makes it look centered. Usually, the Kleophrades Painter fills the whole space, or nearly so. It is unclear whether this forbids ascribing the amphora to his hand.

- C] On the shoulder, immediately to right of the handle, Gr.: hE.
- D] = 916.3.16 (formerly C. 329). The letter forms seem to me to show that the inscription is not Attic; Johnston agrees. The Gr. may be Greek ("since there is a good chance that the piece had a Greek-speaking provenance", p. 187) and an owner's inscription, or Etruscan. But Johnston overlooked the fact that the Gr. is on the body, not the foot, and should be listed in the supplementary list 1; this makes the idea of an owner's inscription even more likely. Closed heta. The Epsilon has a vertical extended above and below.

- B] A: Athena. B: horse race.
- C] A: τον Αθ<ε>νεθεν αθ<λ>λον. Under the foot, Grr.: α<ρ>υσ<τ>η<ρ>ες<. A large Q. ΗΛ[. (the third letter = digamma).(1) Also a monogram: heta with a horizontal at the left top and the middle hasta extended to the right (TGV 13E has some similarity). There is also a modern restorer's signature: 'Repd. W.H.Y. Sept. 92,' referring to the second restoration of the vase by W.H. Young in 1892. The first two Grr. are close together (hence Johnston's reading is right); the other two are on the opposite side of the foot.
- D] = 919.5.148 (formerly C. 335). The reference was originally given me by E. Langridge. A near replica of London B 133, CAVI 4236, which is also by the Eucharides Painter. The athla inscription is not quite parallel to the column (moving away as it goes down); at the end, vacat 1-2. Large and strong letters. aryster: see Hdt. ii 168: a measure equivalent to the kotyle.

(1)Johnston discusses only the first two marks: probably 90 arysteres, the quantity of oil sold in a secondary transaction. Is the third mark an owner's abbreviation: $\text{Hy}(\epsilon)\langle\rangle$? Mercantile Grr. on prize Panathenaics are extremely rare.

B] A: two men preceded by a youth bringing offerings to a herm; boucranium and column. Beside the youth is a rectangular block apparently covered with a cloth (altar?). B: ?

C] Between the heads of the two men, a horizontal irregular two-liner: καλος|Ψολων.

D] Once Mastrillo. See 'Script' 774 and p. 22, 72, and p. 27, 97. Clearly the same as ARV(2) 1607.

D. von Bothmer, 'Les vases de la Collection Campana,' Revue du Louvre 27 (1977) 216.

B] A: two bearded men with their sticks, seated and playing a board game; under the table, a krater. B: similar (a replica except for the inscriptions).

C] Nonsense: imitation letters: numerous inscriptions: A: behind each player and above them: three inscriptions; diagonally down from each player: two inscriptions. B: one inscription above the players; vertically down between the players another inscription; to right of (behind) the right player: a third inscription. Under the foot, Gr.: see the facts. in 'Glimpses'.

D] Probably now Jerusalem, Borowski. The Plousios Painter's name piece is Vatican 413, CAVI 6994. Many letters are recognizable, some are disjointed, and many are imitation letters. Hasty writing.

- B] Int.: a maenad holding a leopard and a thyrsus. Ext.: Death of Pentheus: A: Dionysus seated; a satyr playing the flutes; three maenads (women of Thebes) with portions of Pentheus. B: four maenads tearing apart Pentheus.
- C] Int.: starting from the back of the maenad's head, along the margin: ηε vac. πας ^ καλε.(1)
- D] Probably now Jerusalem, Borowaki. The inscription is planned: the gap (of 2 letters: see the note below) after the article brings πας down to the maenad's hand and thyrsus; καλος is written along the thyrsus. For the gap after the article in Douris see TAPhA 79 (1948) 184.

(1)to right of top of head: ηε; then a gap of 2 letters; then curving downward to stop at the maenad's left hand that holds the thyrsus: πας; along the thyrsus stalk, vertically down: κ υ. αλε. The two parts of the word are separated by the node in the stalk.

- B] A: Death of Aktaion: Artemis; Hekate winged; a tree at a higher level; Aktaion fighting off the dogs; two companions fleeing. B: a bearded man with a scepter (king?) between two women.
- C] The inscriptions in white. A: to right of Artemis' forehead: Ἀρτεμις. In the same position for Hekate, among tree branches: Ἑκάτη. Above Aktaion's head: Ἀκταίων.(2) Above and between the heads of the companions: Διοκλῆς.
- D] Probably now Jerusalem, Borowski. Close to the Kleophon Painter, to whom E. Simon had attributed it; see her 'Hekate in Athen,' AM 100 (1985) 276. Diokles is a Megarian hero (Leipen).

(1)"Relatively early", 430-420 (Guy). (2)The photo. in Leipen shows only Ἀκταί; then two spears; then no room to continue horizontally, it seems.

Matheson, Polygnotos and Vase Painting in Classical Athens (1995) 389/D 43 (not ill.).
- B] A: fragmentary: Persephone with a scepter; upper portion of a white-haired Hades (Plouton); upper portion of Demeter with a torch and scepter. B: sale(?) of sacred oil: a young servant holding an amphora; an olive tree; a bearded servant pouring from an amphora into a small amphora standing on the ground; Athena.
- C] A: Φερρέφαττα. Πλουτων. B: Αλκιμος (the seller). Trace of inscription. Αθηναα.
- D] B: Finck suggests delivery of sacred oil for the Panathenaea. Scheibler notes that the amphora into which the oil is poured is small and suggests it functions as a measure. Geroulanos suggests a yearly gift by the farmers for Athena; Scheibler suggests delivery of 1/10 from the sacred olive trees. (It is clearly oil, because of the olive tree and Athena at right.) Ionic alphabet. - According to an e-mail from Olga Palagia to Aegeanet, December 1, 1998, the RF vases from Trachones are now on display in the Piraeus Museum, which has reopened.

- A] RF oinochoe (mug). Painter of Philadelphia 2449.(1) Second quarter fifth. Ca. 480 (CV). *ARV(2) 815/5 (wrong number S 425), 1583/3: wrong number 5525 (w/o the S), Add.(2) 292. *B.M. Scarfi, CV, Italy 43, Trieste 1 (1969), III I, pl. 5,4-5.
- B] At left, a nude young athlete squatting, with one halter in right hand, his left hand raised (without another halter); in front of him, a pick axe.
- C] To right of the top of his head: καλ[ο]ς.(2) Below the last two letters of kalos: [h]ικετες.
... / .
- D] Rather large letters. The position of the inscription is unusual. Has the athlete just landed, having lost one of his halteres? He is certainly not in the starting position.

(1)a follower of Makron. (2)so the photo., which is not very clear. CV prints κανος, but the third letter looks more like a lambda; probably a misprint. The omicron does not show in the photo. but is given in the text as extant; it is probably there.

Kluiver, BABESCH 70 (1995) 67/38 and 72/38 (inscriptions done by C.J. Ruijgh) (not ill.).
- B] A: Calydonian Boar Hunt. B: swans between sirens.
- C] A: To right of the first warrior: Τελα(μ)ῶν. Between the legs of a third: Μελεαγρος. Similarly for the fifth: Μελα(ν)ιῶ(ν), retr.(1) Similarly for the seventh: Πελ(ε)υς, retr.
- D] = S/12 2452. Ex Berlin 1706. Much restored and fragmentary. Attributed to the Timiades Painter by Bothmer in AJA 1944, but not so listed in ABV or Para. One epsilon lacks the middle stroke. Some sigmas are reversed.

(1)the last four letters of Μελα(ν)ιῶ(ν), retr., are upside down.

- A] Fr. of BF hydria. Unattributed. Third quarter sixth. 550-530. *J. Burow, CV, Germany 47, pl. 17,1, fig. 10 (dr. with facs. of inscr.). *C. Watzinger, Griechische Vasen in Tübingen (1924) 23, pl. 5. K. Schauenburg, JdI 80 (1965) 80 nn. 14 and 17. ABV 104/130, Add.(2) 28.
- B] Middle portions of Hermes and a female; at right, legs of a horse (whence Watzinger's chariot, not mentioned by Burow).
- C] To right of Hermes' loins: ηερμ[ες]. To right of the female's lower right (she faces right): [-]ια vacat 1 before the break. Burow says either [Aθενα]ια or [Μα]ια. He does not have the first alpha given by Watzinger (...αια); the area is dirty. It is true that there probably is not enough space for [Aθενα] below the figure's hands, hence Maia is perhaps preferable. I had read [Aθεν]αια(.)(1) Both inscriptions face the figures.
- D] = inv. 1678.

(1)but I was not certain that this is the name of Athena and the trace of a letter at the end is bothersome, unless the name is in the genitive. Beazley says Athena; see also Watzinger who puts a question mark. But it is probably best to read [M]αια.

- B] A: a warrior (Cycnus?) meeting Heracles, in the presence of a youth with a spear and Athena. B: an armed horseman with a void horse, between a youth with a spear and a warrior.
- C] A: behind the horseman and above the horses' rumps: nonsense: 6 imitation letters, the third one, I think, rubbed off.

Brommer, Vasenlisten 441/2.
- B] Fr. a: at left, a huge naked male on one knee, with an object (a cup?) in his hands; black and white stripes representing rocks; a ship, with a seated bearded man; another rock on which appears (part of) a large siren. At the extreme left, drapery of a female(?) figure. Fr. b: ornament only.

- C] Fr. a: nonsense: behind the giant's back: imitation letters: [-]υ(τ)σι(2); to right of his chest: υτο(ο).(3)
 D] = S./10 1507a-b. Two frs. Burow thinks with Fellmann that the rocks separate the Polphemus adventure from that of the sirens; Touchefeu-Meynier had interpreted the whole as the Polyphemus adventure, but that does not fit the siren.

(1)the shape was identified by Bothmer, Mary Moore and A.J. Clark. Not an oinochoe as Watzinger thought. (2)my readings from the photo. in Watzinger. υτοο, Watzinger; υτοε, Fellmann; υτοσ, Touchefeu-Meynier. This could represent the name of Odysseus (Burow). I think it is probably nonsense. The tau resembles an Ionic gamma. (3)the omicron open at the top.

- A] Fr. of BF/WG oinochoe. Unattributed. Rycroft Painter (Burow). Last quarter sixth. Ca. 520 (Burow). *dr. *C. Watzinger, Griechische Vasen in Tübingen (1924) 32, pl. 16 (dr.). *J. Burow, CV, Germany 47, pl. 22,2; p. 31, facs. of inscription.
 B] Head and shoulders of a draped and bearded man.
 D] = inv. 1718. In the dr. I saw has a trace of a letter at the left break, a small high loop, which I could not make out. Watzinger restores: [X]ειρδν. The last letter may be delta or a triangular rho; I prefer the former, since if it is a rho the letter would lean forward.

(1)there is no trace of a letter preserved before the epsilon; the iota is very short and apparently not considered a letter by Burow, but I think it is. Hence Burow reads [-]ειδ[-], widely spaced. Including the iota, there is a longer vacat before the epsilon than between the remaining letters; perhaps: Ειδ[-], not a very common beginning, but see LGPN ii.

Drougou, Der attische Psykter (Beiträge zur Archäologie 9, 1975) 20/B 7, 92-93 and nn. 307-308, pl. 12 (A), side). *F. Brommer, AA 1979, 488-90, no. 3 (much bibl.). ARV(2) 28/11, 1620, Add.(2) 156. 'Script' 377.
- B] A: two youths wrestling. B: two young athletes with strigils.
- C] A: between the legs of the left youth (Theseus):
 $\text{Ευθυμιδες | εγρα(φ)σεν | η}\ \text{Π}\langle\omicron\rangle\lambda\langle\lambda\rangle\iota\omicron$.
- D] Brommer discusses at length the different views concerning the identity of Theseus' opponent on A. He cannot be Kerkyon who is always bearded. He concludes that the scene is definitely mythological, but we do not know the opponent; for the complement Klytos (who was the son of Pallas) is too short and no Klytios (the name suggested by Klügmann) is known to have been in contact with Theseus. If Brommer is right, we might as well accept my suggestion Κλ[υμεν]ος (see below). Note that Io Porto in CV claimed that at least three letters are missing in the gap. M. Scheller, MusHelv 38 (1981) 226-227 follows Hoppin in taking $\epsilon\tilde{\upsilon}\gamma\epsilon, \nu\acute{\alpha}\iota\chi\iota$ with the signature, comparing the $\omega\varsigma\ \omicron\delta\acute{\epsilon}\pi\omicron\tau\epsilon\ \text{Ε}\tilde{\upsilon}\phi\rho\acute{\omicron}\nu\iota\omicron\varsigma$. There is a discussion of the 'vulgär' meaning of $\nu\acute{\alpha}\iota\chi\iota$. For a list of occurrences see GAI ii, 410-11. Threatte, ibid., 743, lists the form $\text{Π}\lambda\iota\omicron$ as an example of the omission of unaccented vowels. - Pl. 12 in Drougou shows very clearly the first two lines of the signature on A (is the inscription redrawn?); it starts out in oblique stoichedon and turns into regular stoichedon at the $\mu\upsilon$ in line 1; the photo. also shows clearly the inscription $\Theta\epsilon\sigma\epsilon\upsilon\varsigma$. Drougou reads the name of Theseus' opponent as Klytos, not Klytios, following Beazley who she says followed Philippart, Col. Cér. en Italie I 9, whereas CV Turin read Klytios. She says there is no room for more letters. (This contradicts my suggestion supra.) Klytos she says is a Palantid (Theseus fought the Pallantidae), and this is the earliest mention of him. On B she reads Orthagoras (O[...]OPA).

(1)Philippart, with Beazley agreeing. Beazley in CB iii, n. 2 accepts Κλυτος as a companion of Theseus; cf. also AJA 54. But I thought there was room for 4-5 letters in the gap. Hoppin reports other suggestions: Κερκυον (but the second letter is not an epsilon), Κλειτος, Κλυτιος (Klügmann). (2)My complement; probably a name in -γορας. Hoppin discusses Olympiodoros and Timagora. Beazley in AJA 54 accepts Wolters' suggestion O[ρθαγ]ορα, which should be O[ρθαγ]ορα<ς>.

- A] RF lekanis lid. From Gerona in Spain. Manner of Meidias Painter (Burn). Last quarter fifth. *H.A. Shapiro, Personifications in Greek Art (1993) 74 (bibl.). Also: ibid., 236/28, 73, fig. 25.(1) *L. Burn, The Meidias Painter (1987) 75-76, 116/MM 134, pl. 19,b (listed as 'Gerona, from Ullastret'). *I. Wehgartner, 'Das Ideal massvoller Liebe auf einem attischen Vasenbild,' JdI 102 (1987) 190 (mention). M. Picazo, La ceramica attica di Ullastret (1977) 78ff., 78/231, pl. 22,1. P. Pericay, Miscellanea Arqueologica: XXV Aniversario de los cursos de Ampurias (1974) ii, 167 [fuller citation in Burn 116/MM 134]. MadMitt 20 (1979), pl. 28,b. E. Sanmarti and J. Barbera, Arte griego en Espana (Barcelona 1987) 115, fig. 118. CV, Ullastret 1, pl. 34,1. LIMC iii, 389, s.v. Dike, no. 4; iv, 50, s.v. Eukleia, no. 7; 64, s.v. Eunomia, no. 9.
- B] Less than 1/2 of the circle is preserved: at left, a lost figure, no doubt seated; Eunomia and Chrysis, both turning toward the lost figure; Nike (or Dike) presents a necklace to Eukleia who, seated, turns her back to her; between them, a deer.

- C] Shapiro: Eunomia. Chryseis. Nike.(2) Eukleia. Burn 75: Χρυσει. [sic: read Χρυσείης?]. Ουνομία [misspelled for Εὐνομία].
- D] Ullastret is ancient Gerona in Spain. Pericay suggested that the divinities in the scene represent the cult of Artemis, in whose sanctuary the vase was found, but Burn argues against this. Pericay also suggested Chrysei was written in error for Peitho. Burn suggests the intended name is Χρυσή, who may have had a sanctuary in Athens; she is a warrior goddess and Nike would be appropriate.

(1)Shapiro does not attribute the vase and does not refer to Burn who attributes it to the manner of the Meidias Painter. (2)also read Dike by R. Olmos in a review of Picazo in ArEspArg 50-51 (1977-78) 471, repeated by Shapiro in LIMC ii, 389, s.v. Dike, no. 4 [but no longer in 'Person.']. CV, p. 37, is said to be reading AIKH and interpreting it Νίκη; so also K. Huber, review of Burn, Gnomon 61 (1989) 613.

The Aesthetics of the Greek Banquet, tr. by A. Szegedy-Maszak (1990; orig. 1987) 81-83, fig. 68 (sketch of parts of A and B, showing several inscriptions; after Vickers, fig. 17). M.
Vickers, Greek Symposia (n.d.) 15, fig. 17. *H. Giroux, CV, France 28, p. 44, under pls. 66,3-4 and 67,1-2 (mention).
- B] Int.: horseman. A-B: symposium with kottabos players.(2)
- C] Signature of Apollodoros (see Giroux). A: at right, youth to right and bearded man with lyre to left, on a couch; the youth holds two cups with offset lips, one raised for kottabos: on each cup, on the lip: καλος. Under the handle A/B: flat pan, on which is a small tripod surmounted by a phallos bird (taking the place of a kottabos stand); on the pan's body:
κότταβος.(3) B: at left, two youths to left on a couch; that on the left raises a cup for the kottabos throw; that on the right holds a cup; the kottabos cup is apparently shown in profile with an inscription on the inside: καλε; on the body of the other cup: καλος. Neither cup has an offset rim.

D] The above readings are from the sketch in Lissarrague; they are clearly incomplete. I know the signature only from its mention by Giroux. Lissarrague discusses the game of kottabos on pp. 80-86.

- B] No figured decoration preserved.
- C] Gr.: Vickers and Jeffery:
μυσοστο· Ἀπόλλωνι : ἀντὶ μιᾶς δύο :.
Matthaiou:
Μῦς Ὠστοῦ Ἀπόλλωνι ἀντὶ μιᾶς δύο.
Vickers and Jeffery: the inscription is not Attic; it could be Aeginetan, but a Sicilian origin is not excluded (Jeffery). Matthaiou 78 thinks the inscription Attic. Perhaps mixed alphabet? Ionic lambda and sigma.
- D] The foot has a rattle: an X-ray shows 10 pieces and the opening through which they had been inserted. Jeffery interprets the inscription in two possible ways: (1) Μυσοῦς τῶ... 'The Mysian' as a proper name. Two errors are assumed: omission of iota and misplacement of punctuation. (2) μυσοστά. Cf. Hsch. μυσοστὰ· γελοῖα. Misspelled as μυσοστο. 'A pair of jokes for Apollo: two rattling cups(?) for Apollo'. Matthaiou: Ὠστής is an unknown name. (This reading is meant to correct Jeffery.) LGPN ii reads Μυσοῦς after Jeffery. The last word is written larger to fill out the circle.

(1)USA, Private. (2)compared by Vickers and Jeffery with Agora 12, 265/412, which is there dated ca. 480. Jeffery, by letter, dates the inscription ca. 470 plus or minus, and the vase earlier.

- D] The reading is Beazley's, using the letters reported without explanation by Gabrici. Agora P 5157, CAVI 338, has (according to Lang's reading): Σοσίας καταπύγῶν, and ἡὸς φ(η)σὶν ἡο γράφος. Attic alphabet (as given by Gabrici). Beazley's restoration is reported by Milne and Bothmer in Hesp. 22 (1953) 218.

Wolf, Herakles beim Gelage (1993) 27f. and n. 89, 46, 214/rf. 12, fig. 46 (Int.).

- B] Int.: symposium: Heracles and a warrior reclining.
- C] Int.: at upper left, to left of Heracles' face, along the margin, and continued on his right (curving downward and partially on the warrior's BG hair, if I understand the photo.): $\eta\omicron\pi\alpha[\iota\varsigma^{\wedge}\kappa\alpha\lambda^{\wedge}\omicron^{\wedge}\varsigma.$ (1)
- D] For Heracles at a banquet with a warrior see Wolf, p. 46 (possibly Ares). - Wolf got his information from B. Kaeser in Munich; the vase appeared in the market in 1991.

- A] BG lekythos. From Gela.(1) Unattributed. Fifth. *P. Orsi, NSc. 1901, 311/(b).
- B] Shoulder: palmettes.
- C] Gr.: $\text{Εὐδοξία ψάλτρια καλῆ Σενοφιλοῦ. Γέλων οὔτος ἐπευκεῖ Εὐνοϊκὸς κατεῦξε.}$ (2)
- D] Orsi says that the vase is Attic. The inscription was discovered during a washing, some time after the excavation. Orsi thinks it false. De Sanctis says that Σενοφιλος [for Ζενοφιλος] is impossible for the fifth century [but I thought it could be a misreading for a xi written with a comma between two horizontal lines.] Orsi reports other forgeries in this article. Western alphabet.

(1)from a tomb at Capo Soprano. (2)The inscription is given in capitals by Orsi and I am not sure that I have transcribed it correctly.

Jung, Die Sagen von den Argonauten, etc. (Munich 1989) 86-87, figs. 68-69(A, B).
- B] A: a queen or goddess with a scepter holds out a phiale toward a woman with an oinochoe moving away from her while turning back; behind the first woman, a stool. B: at right, a woman holding a mirror and kalathos moves to right, but turns back toward another woman, who stretches out her arms toward her.
- C] A: to right of the left woman's face: $\Theta\epsilon\beta\epsilon.$ B: in a similar position (a bit lower): $\Sigma\alpha\lambda\alpha\mu\iota\varsigma.$
- D] Ex Basel Market (M.M.). The inscriptions are widely spaced and Cahn says it is uncertain to which figure each refers; but I think they go with the left-hand figures (the servants).(3) Both Thebe and Salamis are local nymphs, daughters of Asopus (Cahn). Four-stroke sigma.

(1)of Corinthian type. (2)Cahn compares the Stieglitz and Euaichme Painters (so also Oakley); the ornament recalls Polygnotos II. (3)so also the entry in the Beazley Archive.

- A] Fr. of ring foot from a large plate. From Gela, Pozzo del Purgatorio. Unattributed. Date? *P. Orsi, NSc. 1901, 310/(a).
- B] No figured decoration preserved.
- C] On a red circle, Gr.: [μ]νήσομαι Νικασιν ὑπὸ γαί[ας].
- D] The vase is Attic (Orsi). Orsi takes the name to be Νικα (gen. Νικας) and declares the rest of the name to be obscure. I would prefer Νικασίη, but the acc. presents a problem. The inscription is funerary with a poetic phrase.

Orsi considered the inscription genuine, but reported it together with forgeries.

- A] BF cup. Unattributed. Ca. 500. *K. Schauenberg, in: Studien zur griechischen Vasenmalerei (AK Beiheft 7, 1970) 36, pl. 18,1-2 (Int., A). F. Brommer, ibidem, 58 and n. 66.
- B] Int.: tondo: a satyr. Around the tondo, a multi-figured frieze, with winged male figures, Hermes and, I think, satyrs. A: Heracles and Prometheus; on Prometheus' right, an eagle is swooping down; the whole scene is between two horsemen. B: a kneeling archer between horsemen.
- C] Nonsense: A: above the eagle: 9 thick dots. To right of Prometheus' bent knees: 9 dots.
- D] There is some controversy whether the vase is Attic (so Schauenberg) or Boeotian (so Brommer). I do not know whether B is inscribed.

- A] RF lekythos. Cartellino Painter. Second quarter fifth. *D. Buitron-Oliver, Douris (Kerameus 9, 1995) 2 n. 17 (mention).
- B] A striding warrior.
- C] On the chlamys [in BG or relief?]: Δῶρις.
- D] Here probably the name of the vase painter rather than that of a hetaera (Δωρίς); see 'Script' 86. Add this to the list of the Cartellino Painter's lekythoi in ARV(2) 452,1-5.

- B] Int.: a youth seen from the back, with his stick and a cloak over his shoulder; on the wall, a sponge and aryballos. Ext.: komos: A: a youth playing the flutes; a male dancing; a male with a large bowl. B: a youth with an amphora; a youth playing the lyre; a youth with his stick.
- C] Int.: around the margin: Αρισταρχος and καλος. A: ho vac. (π)αις and below: καλος. B: [ho]π(α)ις and καλος.(1) Under the foot, Grr.: ΙΛ (Attic lambda reversed: ΛΙ?) and AX (or AT).
- D] Ex Basel Market (M.M.). To judge by the facss., the inscription on the Int. is much neater than the rough inscriptions on the Ext. They were probably written by two hands. The Int. has four-stroke sigma, the Ext., three-stroke.

(1)the facsimiles suggest rough two-liners on both A and B.

- C] Nonsense: imitation letters: the inscriptions are placed where one would expect names: A: to right of a spear held up before the man's face: (γ)(ι)ν(σ)ν. Under the horses' bellies: (.)νγσν.(1) In front of the horses: κσνκ(γ)σνε. To right of (behind) the youth's head: six letters. B: to left of (behind) the left rider's chest: seven letters ending in σν. Under the left horse's belly: (κ)σκσ(κ)σ. To left of the right rider's face: γογογ. Under the right horse: κσκσγ. To right of the right horse: five letters.
- D] 'Midwestern' (in index) lists the location as Champaign, not Urbana. The letters are small in the photos. and hard to read. The rightmost inscription on B is de trop, imitating A, where there is an extra horse. The letters are disjointed. These readings are from 'Midwestern', but compare the photos in CV. Are these mock inscriptions or illiterate attempts?

- C] Nonsense with imitation letters: between the left pair: γ(.)(ν)(.)=(σ)=σν. To right of the middle maenad's head: (.)σπσσ. To right of the right maenad: three plus six letters, very disjointed and unrecognizable.
- D] The letters are fairly large.

B] Shoulder: women washing.
C] Under the foot, Gr.: ΟΝ ΤΙΜΕ(?) ΙΙΙΙ ΠΡΟ ΔΔΔΔΔΙΙΙΙΙΙ.
D] It is not certain but probable that τ marks a price. Milne thinks ον and προ should be vase names: ὄνον(?) or unknown, and πρόχου. More likely it stands for ὠνητόν, 'ready for sale(?)'. See further Jonkees, Amyx and Johnston. Delta is arrow-shaped.

B] Shoulder frieze: A: Achilles and Memnon between Thetis and Eos, between horsemen. B: obscene: satyrs and maenads.
Below: A-B: three animal friezes.

C] Shoulder frieze: A: three nonsense inscriptions: between Thetis and Achilles: 8(?) letters. Between Achilles' legs:
7 letters, ending in digamma(?). Between Memnon's legs:
(ο)χα(σ).(2)

D] K. indicates that the Sotheby cat. attributes to the Kyllenios
Painter, and that he (K.). made the attribution to the Guglielmi Painter. [But Para. 36 attributes to the Guglielmi Group, and 41 says that both 'Auktion' 26 and the Sotheby cat. wrongly attribute to the Kyllenios Painter, and that Bothmer attributed to the Guglielmi Painter.] - Thick square letters.

(1)not by the Kyllenios Painter as stated in 'Auktion' 26 and stretching out her arms to her; at left, a youth follows; above him, behind a hill, is Hermes with a caduceus; beneath the seated woman, a small Eros rushes toward a woman holding out a wreath; between them, a plant. B: below: a crouching woman between two women; above: a seated woman and Eros.

- C] A: above the woman running up the mountain: Αντισση.(2)
D] Eichler does not explain the scene except for calling the seated woman on A Aphrodite.

(1)by an insignificant draftsman, perhaps in the manner of the Chrysis Painter (Eichler). (2)the photo. on CV, pl. 42,1, shows some letters: alpha and nu above and a bit to right of the running woman, horizontal; then two letters are missing; then what looks like an omicron and a very clear nu; this last letter makes no sense: it should be a pi. From its position, the inscription could also refer to the seated woman.

B] A, B, each: an owl between two olive branches.
C] Under the foot: ΣΟ and ΔΓΙΙΙ.(1)

- D] Eichler reads: 10 skyphoi for 1 dr. 3 obols, but Johnston (see below) rightly objects. The reading should be: ΣΟ ΔΠΙΙΙ = 18.
A batch notation.

(1) Johnston says that SO is a Dip. and is followed by acrophonic numerals adding up to 18 [i.e. the fourth letter is a pi, not Ionic gamma]; he rejects Eichler's interpretation of SO = σ<κ<υ<φ>ο<ι> and of the numbers as a price. He lists parallels for numerals on glaukes in n. 7; they may always add up to multiples of 6.

- C] A: above the figure: ἠοπα[ς]. B: on the amphora: καλος.(1)

(1) so the text; Eichler thinks this is the continuation of the inscription on A. He says both inscriptions are in red, but the letters on B are on the reserved surface of the amphora and look like BG. Also the photo., which is small, seems to show: κ(α)λ(.) and no more; the last letter does not look like an omicron. Miswritten?

- B] A: a seated girl playing the flutes and a female pyrrhichist between two youths; above the flautist, a small temple front(1); further to right, a cross. B: three youths.
- C] A: beside the flautist: καλι. (Miswritten?) Other inscriptions are said to be illegible. Under the foot, Grr.: a line divides the bottom in two halves; on one side, Φ ΙΙΙΙΙ. On the other: ΙΙΙΙ. (Numerals 6 and 5.)
- D] Listed in 'Images' as Vienna I 6788. Done from the text. The inscriptions are in white. Notes from Bérard: the photo. in 'Images' shows imitation inscriptions: above the left youth, horizontal, at least five letters; to right of the flautist's top of head, horizontal: at least four letters, the first in the shape of a quotation mark (") [this is probably the inscription formerly read καλι in CAVI]; there are also two imitation letters, horizontal, visible to right of the pediment of the bird cage, the second = "; under the cross and to left of the pyrrhichist's back of head, nearly horizontal, an imitation inscription of 5 letters; it ends closely to the youth at left. The inscriptions show only very faintly.

(1)called a bird cage in form of a temple by Bérard; this makes sense.

- C] Under the foot, Gr.: $\nu\upsilon\gamma\epsilon$, (2) or $\nu\upsilon\lambda\epsilon$.

(1)Beazley suggests the youth on A may be Apollo, and the women on B may be Hera and Hebe (the youth and one woman on B have scepters). (2)interpreted by Johnston as $\nu\upsilon$ with $\gamma\epsilon$, which he lists on 6 vases; he considers $\nu\upsilon$ an unknown vase name. He does not explain the $\gamma\epsilon$ [probably reading it as $\lambda\epsilon$ for lekythoi?]. So: $\nu\upsilon\langle\rangle\lambda\epsilon\langle\rangle(?)$.

- C] Shoulder: to right of the left sphinx: τελοπυσφος. Between the left warrior's legs: χιλκες, retr. Between the right warrior's legs: λεοτις. To left of the right woman's head: (κ)ο·(χ)λει, retr.(1) To left of the right sphinx: σουετπολος.(2) Body: to the lower right of the man at left:

- D] Ex Oest. Mus. 220. A mixture of sense and nonsense: the nonsense inscriptions on the shoulder mock or imitate names; there are sense inscriptions in the body picture. Bothmer thinks the shoulder picture may be a duel of Achilles and Memnon. "It is, in fact, not impossible to recognize an attempt at writing Achilles in the letters that appear between the legs of the victorious warrior." (Bothmer). [Referring to χιλκες, I assume.]

(1)read differently in Masner's text, dr., and facs. (2)the facs. shows a diagonal stroke preceding the first sigma. (3)the last letter seems to be kappa placed vertically; it should be the name of a horse (Masner). (4)perhaps an unlikely name for a horse; it may possibly pertain to the man at the right. Beazley in AJA points out that the reading is Κλιπος, which should be either for Κ<α>λ<λ>ιπ<π>ος or more probably Κλ<ε>ιπ<π>ος.

- D] Ex Oest. Mus. 221. "The shoulder picture is nearer the Tyrrhenian Group than the chief one," ABV. Cf. Vienna 3613, above, for the inscriptions. Johnston mentions the reading Πορομος as a parallel to a Corinthian inscription which he reads: Πορο[-]. It is the name of a bystander in the scene of Perseus and the Gorgons. One wonders whether on this and Vienna 3613 the inscriptions on the shoulder and the body are by the same hand; they certainly do not follow the same model.

(1)done after Masner's facsimiles. >(ε)πες he thinks to be intended for Ερμης; Οετος is under the right hand of the Gorgo and is intended for κῆτος [sic]; see Masner for further speculations.

- B] Int.: a youth and a girl. A:-B: men and boys.
- C] On the reserved inner part of the right leg of handle B/A, in BG, facing out: Dip. in BG: ηιερον εποιησεν. Under the foot, a complex Gr.: Eichler says the first four letters may be the Etruscan apas, retr., which is clearer on Vienna 3699, ARV(2) 467/127, below, and Villa Giulia 50,396, ARV(2) 365/82, CAVI 7180, both cups by Makron. [The facs. seems to show: APAS, retr. and separately AT. Johnston lists this under AT and speaks of the rest as a pair of marks; he calls the whole Gr. complex and obscure.]

Eichler, CV, Austria [1], Vienna, Kunsthistorisches Museum 1 (1951), pl. 5,5-6 (no bibl.). ARV(2) 342/15 (Vienna), 343/29 (Leipzig). *D. Williams, RA 1996, 244, fig. 12a-c (all frs. joined).
- B] Int.: [hoplitodromos?] A nude warrior holding helmet and shield and wearing greaves, to left, but looking back.
- C] Int.: starting to right of his waist, vertically down, nonsense inscription (4 imitation letters show).(2)
- D] 2 frs. in Vienna. + Leipzig T. 607. + Dresden AB 431. All joining.

(1)Beazley att. the Vienna frs. and the fr. in Leipzig to the manner of the Antiphon Painter.; the Dresden fr. (giving the head) was unattributed. (2)so it seems from the photo., but Williams does not mention any inscription and I am not quite sure that these are letters. Eichler seems to have on one Vienna fr.: [h]οπ(α)[ςκαλος], with alpha lacking the cross stroke.

Beardsley, The Negro (1929) 28/49. Beazley, JHS 49 (1929) 49/10, 51, 77/12. ARV(2) 1534/18.
- B] Palmettes.
- C] At the bottom of the neck, below the palmettes, horizontal Grr.: A: $\eta\omicron\pi\alpha\iota\varsigma\ \nu\alpha\iota$. B: $\kappa\alpha\lambda\omicron\varsigma\ \kappa\alpha(\rho)\tau\alpha\ \gamma\epsilon$. (1)
- D] Ex Oest. Museum 347. The palmettes and Grr. inscriptions are similar to the Vatican head vase, ARV(2) 1533/7, CAVI 6964, of the same class, q.v. The letters on A are well spaced, i.e., planned, and fill the whole space. The same is no doubt true of B also.

(1)CV prints the rho as D-shaped; it appears to be extant. Beazley in JHS interprets: $\eta\omicron\pi\alpha\iota\varsigma\ \kappa\alpha\lambda\omicron\varsigma, \nu\alpha\iota, \kappa\alpha\rho\tau\alpha\ \gamma\epsilon$. But why not as written: $\eta\omicron\pi\alpha\iota\varsigma, \nu\alpha\iota, \kappa\alpha\lambda\omicron\varsigma, \kappa\alpha\rho\tau\alpha\ \gamma\epsilon(?)$. At any rate, it is a single inscription in two parts.

imitation(?) letters beginning with ε. At right: ε(ο)(χ). (2)
- D] Ex Oest. Mus., inv. 1091. Formerly attributed to Epiktetos on the basis of a reading of the inscriptions (Klein, MS 108/26, Hoppin, Pfuhl, and Beazley, VA 28/50). Kraiker disagreed. Beazley, VPol. 15, n. 3: painted by Epiktetos under the influence of Euthymides. Later Beazley connected it with the Kleophrades Painter, while Richter attributed it to the painter himself. Cf. Robertson, AVCA 66, on the 'Epiktetos' signatures.

(1)Beazley says 'perhaps'. Richter in AJA thought perhaps by the very earliest Kleophrades Painter, before his style was formed. (2)after the dr. in A.E.M.; clearly poor. Richter in ARFV says: formerly read as : Epi..e...egr.ph.... and Ep..... e....., i.e., two signatures by Epiktetos. Den Tex informed Richter that Wilhelm and others considered the letters meaningless.

B] Unexplained subjects: Fr. 1: [heads of] Athena and Talthybios, facing (the last figures on the right side, near the handle root). Fr. 2: head and chest of a man to left, wearing pilos and himation: Telamon, or Ajax, or Teucer, and Aegina. Frs. 3-10: bits of drapery, and on fr. 4 also floral and tongue pattern.
C] Fr. 1: above the man: Θαλθυβ[ι]ος.(1) Fr. 2: above the man: [-]να: Τελα[-].(2)
D] Oakley lists 10 frs., all carefully described and figured.

He notes on p. 12 that this is the only use of punctuation by the Achilles Painter.

(1)so Kenner in CV, 38. AA had red $\Theta\alpha\lambda\theta\upsilon\iota\beta\omicron\varsigma$, which is repeated by Kretschmer. (2)Kenner suggests either $[A\theta\epsilon]να$ or $[A\gamma\iota]να$ for the first name; Beazley cites only the latter, which is more likely as the contracted form of Athena is fairly rare. For the second name, Kenner restores $\text{Τελα}[\mu\omicron\nu]$ or $\text{Τελα}[\mu\omicron\nu\omicron\iota\varsigma]$, i.e., Telamon or Ajax. Oakley reads $\text{Τελα}[\mu\omicron\nu]$ or $\text{Τελα}[\mu\omicron\nu\omicron\iota\varsigma]$ referring to Teucer rather than to Ajax.

Matheson, Polygnotos and Vase Painting in Classical Athens (1995) 78f.,

250-52, 354/P 38, pl. 62A-D. J.M. Barringer, Divine Escorts: Nereids in Archaic and Classical Greek Art (Ann Arbor 1995), app. no. 19, pls. 20-21.

- B] Upper row: A-B: Nereids riding sea animals with the armor of Achilles. Lower row: A: Ransom of Hector. B: Achilles mourning for Patroclus.
- C] Upper row: near one Nereid: καλε. By a Nereid and the snout of a horse: Θε[τις]. Below it: Κυ[μ-].(1) Near another Nereid and a dolphin: Να<υ>σι-.(2) Near a Nereid who holds a dolphin: Ψ[ψ]αμαθε.(3) Below it: καλε. B: the last figure on the right (Beazley): Θ[α]λθυβιος.
- D] 14 frs. Two-row. The third play of Aeschylus' Achilleis was Nereids. In the Iliad, Talthybios is connected only with the abduction of Briseis.

(1)Kymatolege, Kymo, Kymodoke, and Kymothoe are mentioned in CV. (2)CV's suggestion. (3)the psi is supplied in CV. Matheson reads: Ψαμαθε καλε.

Ca. 510. *Photo. *CV, Germany 5, III I, fig. 2, pls. 7, 8,1-3. Caskey-Beazley iii, 9-10 (incorrect description). *Robertson, JHS 85 (1955) 93. Id., ÖJh. 47 (1964-65) 107-17, figs. 65-68. ARV(2) 54/3 and 6, *Para. 326, Add.(2) 163. 'Script' 339.
- B] A: The Struggle for the Tripod. B: Ares and Aphrodite remain.
- C] A: by Athena's hand: [Aθε]να.(1) In front of her helmet: χαρ[ε]. Between Heracles' legs: ηε[α]κλες]. Between Apollo's legs: Κ[2-3]φς or καλς(?).(2) Behind Apollo: χ[αι]ρε. B: in front of Ares: Αρ[ε]ς, retr.(3) Behind him: χαρ[ε].
- D] + Boston 10.219, ARV(2) 54/6, see Para. 326. "The masterpiece of the painter's fully developed style," Beazley.

(1)why not [Aθε]ναια. The break occurs right after the alpha. (2)CV suggests the second part of a kalos-inscription. But the photo. shows a clear phi; hence a name (a kalos-name?) is perhaps preferable. Κ[ὄνο]φς seems possible; see LGPN ii. (3)so CV (including the photo.); but I saw on Beazley's photo.: Αρες, retr.

- B] A: Leto; Apollo; Artemis. Arming (legs of a warrior or an Amazon).
- C] A: on Apollo's right, facing him: [Απο]λλῶν, retr.
- D] Three frs. formerly associated with 631a (above): ÖJh 47 (1964-65) 116. Part ex Freiburg.

- A] Fr. of BF lebes. Unattributed. Last quarter seventh. *CV, Germany 5, III H, pl. 5,2-3. J.M. Cook, BSA 35 (1934-35) 200, n. 2. Beazley, AJA 45 (1941) 596. 'Script' 58.
- B] Head and shoulder of a hairy male (centaur). At right, his opponent; on the left, a hand.
- C] In front of the centaur's face, facing: Πετρ[αίος], retr.(1)
- D] Beazley did not attribute the fr. to the Nessos Painter, as had been suggested, but thought it contemporary.

(1)suggested in CV; Beazley considered it, but opted for Πετρε[ος], which seems less likely.

- A] RF lekythos. Unattributed. Second quarter fifth. *Kretschmer, Vas. 234, para. 128. *ARV(2) 1582/28 (info. from Kretschmer quoting: Katalog der Archäologischen Ausstellung vom 22. Mai bis 31. August 1893 in Wien 79).
- B] The subject is not mentioned by Kretschmer.
- C] Κλαυκῶν.(1)
- D] Is this the vase cited by Kretschmer, Vas. 237, for the inscription Σαπφῶ(?).

(1)for Γλαυκῶν. Probably with καλός, although Kretschmer does not mention it. Beazley adds: 'Doubtful?'. Cf. also GAI i, 437.

- A] Miniature amphoriskos imitating an SOS amphora. From Pharsalos? Unattributed. First quarter sixth. *Vidi. *facs.
- B] No figured decoration. Three reserved lines around the widest part of the body.
- C] On the shoulder, in large letters, making more than a half-circle, facing out, Gr.:
Φιλέταιρος ἰμέδῳκεν ἰΝικίλλᾶλοι, retr.
- D] A perfume vase. Neck and handles are missing. I believe the inscription is Attic; Philetairos is a good Athenian name (see LGPN ii). A similar amphoriskos with a gift inscription is in the Kanellopoulos Museum in Athens, CAVI 1890, q.v.

Warsaw, National Museum?

- A] BF oinochoe. Unattributed.(1) Third quarter sixth. *CV, Poland 1, pl.12,2 (bibl.). ABV 301, bottom.
- B] Dionysus; a maenad between two satyrs.
- C] Nonsense.
- D] Ex Goluchow, Czartoryski 13. A small vase.

(1)somewhat recalls two vases from the Princeton Group (see ABV).

- A] BG oinochoe (olpe). From Cervetri. Unattributed. Kriton Group. Last quarter sixth. *CV, Poland 1, pl. 16,2. ABV 446/2, Para. 192.
- B] Undecorated.
- C] Body, in a cartellino: (Κ)ριτῶν εποιησεν : λεπσοσ.
- D] Ex Goluchow, Czartoryski 98. The end of the inscription is probably nonsense (so Beazley). There are four olpai with a cartellino, 3 of them inscribed with potters' signatures, the fourth blank: see ABV. Attic alphabet. Kappa miswritten as two loops. Three-stroke sigma, normal (see Para.).

Warsaw, National Museum?

- A] BF amphora. Diosphos Painter.(1) First quarter fifth. CV, Poland 1, pl. 12,3. Beazley, VPol. 6 (attr.).
- B] A: Chiron receives the child Achilles from Peleus. B: Maia and Hermes.
- C] A: to right of Chiron's face: Χῆρῶν. Behind Peleus' back: Πῆλευ(ς). B: nonsense: behind Maia's upper body: 7-8 nonsense letters. To left of Hermes' face, in the same position: λχλ(ο)χ.
- D] Ex Goluchow, Czartoryski 15. Are the inscriptions on A and B by the same hand?

- B] Neck: A: twice: a satyr attacking a sleeping maenad. B: a satyr playing the flute and Dionysus sacrificing at an altar.
- C] Nonsense: neck: A: σν(h). υι. Above the satyr at right: υυνοσ. B: υ[.]σνοι. σνοσ.(2) "Nonsense inscriptions in field" (Hoffmann).
- D] Ex Goluchow, Czartoryski 119. Hoffmann lists as: Once Goluchow, Czartoryski 119, and says: "Stolen during the war from the Museum Narodowe." For the irregular heta (S4 in the chart in 'Script', reversed) cf. perhaps Boston 01.8038, which has S 3 sideways.

(1)said to be now lost [not mentioned as ever in Warsaw]. Listed as 'once Goluchow' in ARV(2), but as Warsaw, once Goluchow, in Add.(2). Robertson, AVCA 305 n. 328, lists as 'Once Goluchow, Czartoryski'; on p. 100 he says it is lost. (2)all inscriptions, except the third, from CV, text, only.

- B] A: Hermes and Athena. B: a draped youth.
- C] A: on Hermes' lower right: a nonsense inscription. Under the foot, Gr.: Π.
- D] Ex Goluchow, Czartoryski 172 (CV). ARV(2) 666/1 lists this vase as Once Goluchow, Czartoryski, F[röhner] 28, while 671/12 refers to it as Warsaw F. 28. TGV lists the vase as 'ex Goluchow 28'. I am assuming, perhaps rashly, that Beazley knew the vase was in Warsaw.

Warsaw, National Museum?

- A] BF thymiaterion (incense burner). Unattributed. Date? *CV, Poland 1, pl. 16,1. Beazley, VPol. 53 (not ill.). von Massow, AM 41 (1916) 93,1.
- B] Marriage of Heracles and Hebe: A: an altar; Aphrodite; Hebe; Heracles. B: Hermes; Apollo; Athena; Demeter. C: a marriage bed; three women.
- C] A: nonsense: two imitation inscriptions.
- D] Ex Goluchow, Czartoryski 165. The vase has the form of a tripod (the identification is CV's).

7993.

Warsaw, National Museum?

- A] RF cup. Unattributed. Date? *CV, Poland 1, pl. 29,1. W. Fröhner, Collections du château de Goluchow: Antiquités (Paris 1899) 91/29 (not ill.).

- B] Shoulder: a youth departing? (Youth; youth with a horse; woman; at an altar). Body: Eos and Cephalus.
- C] Shoulder: at the top and center of the scene, behind the head of one of the youths: καλε. Body: to right of Eos' forehead: ηεος.(3)
- D] Ex Goluchow, Czartoryski 40. Mixed alphabet.

(1)with two rows of pictures. (2)if not by Polygnotos himself, a close imitation, but inferior (see ARV(2)). (3)in white, repainted. Cited also by Matheson.

- B] A: Nike with cithara, fillets and taenia. B: citharode: a young musician, in a flowing robe to right, turns back to receive the lyre.
- C] A: nonsense: γυιοσει. γυιοσυοο. B: to left of her forehead: γυιοσι, retr. Behind her head and back: γυιοεγυιοο.(1) Under the foot, Gr.: ΔΙ.(2)
- D] Ex Goluchow, Czartoryski 34. Beazley cites the inscriptions as parallels to Boston 01.8028 (CB ii, 39/86, CAVI 2705) by the Briseis Painter.

(1)the inscriptions here mainly after CV's text; one photo. shows on A: γυιο... to right of Nike's nose (her mouth is closed). The inscriptions on B show partially in another photo. in CV. Serbeti gives nonsense: αλιοσειλι. αλιοσει(α)λιοο. αλιοσιαλοο. ιοιλ(α). (α) = alpha without cross stroke. She seems to read the gammas as alphas and the upsilons as lambdas. (2)not in TGV.

- B] Int.: a trainer; an athlete with halteres. A-B: school: A: a seated youth reading from an open book roll; a youth with a lyre; a man leaning on his stick. B: a man leaning on his stick; a youth with closed tablets (satchel: handle, string, no stylus); a youth.
- C] A: on the book roll which is displayed horizontally (not in perspective), in four stoich. lines of five letters each: $\eta\omicron\varsigma$ (= $\omega\varsigma$) $\delta\acute{\epsilon}$ | $\mu\omicron\iota$ $\kappa\alpha\iota$ $\mu\acute{\alpha}\lambda\lambda\omicron\nu$ $\acute{\epsilon}\pi\acute{\epsilon}\sigma\langle\sigma\rangle\tau\omicron$ $\theta\upsilon\mu\omicron\varsigma$ $\acute{\alpha}\gamma\acute{\epsilon}\nu\omicron\rho$
- D] The reading is Beazley's in AJA, who cites Iliad 9.399 and 13.538. In 'Ullman Studies' I suggested an alternative: $\omicron\varsigma$ $\delta\acute{\epsilon}$ $\mu\omicron\iota$ $\kappa\alpha\iota$ $\mu\acute{\alpha}\lambda\lambda\omicron\nu$ $\acute{\epsilon}\pi\acute{\epsilon}\sigma\langle\chi\rangle\epsilon$ $\nu\omicron\omicron\nu$ $\tau\epsilon$ $\kappa\alpha\iota$ $\lambda\acute{\epsilon}\mu\alpha$. B] A: Iliupersis with Rape of Cassandra: 4695: parts of two warriors descending from the Wooden Horse; in back, a temple (pediment: Athena in Gigantomachy). 4706 + 4728: probably from the same side: Rape of Cassandra (only her raised arm is preserved) at the Palladion.

C] A: 4695 preserves a bit of the reserved rim profile, under which: [-]i[-]. 4706+: above Cassandra's raised arm, to left of the aegis, in white: Κασσανγρα, for Κασσάνδρα.(3)

The photo. however shows only Κασσαν, with the nu abutting one of the snakes of Athena's aegis. I do not know where the remaining letters would be (perhaps curving downward?). According to my note Simon did not read the last three letters, so where did CV get them? Is the third letter from the end really a gamma or an incomplete delta?

- B] Lip: A and B: no figured decoration.
- C] A: handle zone: short and well centered: ϕομαιο(ς).(1) B: ϕομαιος.(2)
- D] The photo. (of A) is small, and my own readings are uncertain: ϕο(μ)αιοι (first reading); ϕομαιο(ς) (second reading). The first letter does not look much like a koppa unless the head attaches to the top left of the vertical; but CV clearly indicates koppa. The mu on A seems to consist of a vertical plus Attic gamma. I originally thought a nonsense inscription more likely. The final sigma resembles iota in the facs., probably so on both sides. Lissarrague reads ϕομαιος and interprets it as 'a vase for the komos,' or epithet of Apollo Komaios. LGPN ii has two proper names: Κομαῖος (4 BC) and Κωμαῖος (4/3 and 2 BC), but does not list the vase under either. Hölscher thinks the name is Komaios, a common name, for which he refers to E. Simon, AA 1968, 135f, figs. 18-19 who discusses this vase. See further, L. Robert, REG 47 (1934) 26ff.; JHS 25 (1905) 116/32 (dedicatory inscription on a vase fr.). Κωμαῖος is also an epithet of Apollo: Simon, op. cit. 135f. She herself reads Φομαῖοι: the known epithet of Apollo Komaios in the dative. Hölscher speculates that since the name recalls κῶμος [but is it not from κώμη(?)] it is perhaps an anonymous dedication to the drinker, cf. RE, s.v. komos (Lamer). Could it be a kalos-name without kalos?

(1) Simon reads Φομαῖοι, but considers it a known epithet of Apollo Komaios. The regular ending would be κομοιος, but cf. σκότος/σκοταῖος, χέρσος/χερσαῖος. The suggestion is originally Herter's. The last letter is a vertical stroke, which could be a simplified sigma (see above). (2) the last letter looked more like a sigma than that on A.

Simon thinks the scene represents a satyr play. B: at least one fr. belongs there: see CV, p. 62, d and pl. 42,2: unclear subject, the drawing more casual.

- D] This four-letter sign occurs frequently on vases of the period, mainly BF hydriae; several are by the Antimenes Painter or possibly by him (see Burow and TGV 115/1D); the version without tau is found also with the Euphiletos Painter. Johnston 204 argues against the mark being Etruscan, as has been suggested (see 242, 1D n. 1); he thinks it is perhaps Aeginetan. He has 9 examples of AΘΙ and 14 of AΘΤΙ. He follows Nogara, NSc. 1937, 451 in deriving the word from Ατθίς with metathesis. I have not included all instances in CAVI. Johnston is not certain whether this is an adjective or a personal name [but he seems to prefer the former]. Cartwheel theta, nearly rectangular but with rounded corners.

Würzburg 190.

- A] BF neck amphora. From Vulci. Group of Würzburg 199 (Antimenean).(1) 530-520. *E. Langlotz, Griechische Vasen in Würzburg (1932) 32 and 174 (facs. of Gr.), pls. 39 and 53. ABV 287/4, Para. 126. *Photo.
- B] A: Heracles and Athena. B: two warriors fighting over a third (who is on his knees).
- C] A: 3 nonsense (imitation) inscriptions. On Heracles' right, starting at the face: (π)οκ(γ)(ο)ν(ι)(ι).(2) Also: ν(.)(. and (.)(.νοτ. B: to right of the left warrior's face: (λ)ιο. Between the helmet crests of the two standing warriors: γ(υ)ο(ο)(.). To the right of the falling warrior's head: γτυ. Under the foot, Gr.: σο. See TGV 81/21A 59.
- D] Many letters are miswritten or blobs.

(1)see Vatican 389, CAVI 6993. (2)an uncertain reading from pl. 53 in Langlotz; on the photo. I saw: ποκ(.h(.).

Würzburg 193.

- A] BF amphora. From Vulci. Unattributed. Ca. 500 (Langlotz). *E. Langlotz, Griechische Vasen in Würzburg (1932) 33, pl. 58. *CIG 4.7747. *Jacobsthal, Hermes 45 (1910) 158. W. Bühler, Europa (1968) 52. *Photo. Beazley Archive db, no. 44,251. LIMC iv, pl. 34 Europa I 27 (A, B).
- B] A: Europa on the bull. B: similar.(1)

- C] A: on Europa's left: ταυρος, retr. Around her arm: Ευροπεια.(2) Below the bull: φορβας.(3) B: to left of Europa's face, not retr.: E[v]ροπ[ει]α.(4) Starting to right of Europa and curving around the neck of the bull to below the belly, facing out: [τα]ῦρος ἀνιαδες.(5)
- D] The inscriptions on both A and B seem retouched.

(1)not well preserved and partly restored. (2)see Pape. (3)Langlotz reads ταῦρος φορβάς, as does CIG. The letters ρ, β, α are partly written over breaks, hence retouched. (4)I follow Langlotz' reading which agrees with the photo.; the alpha is upside down, unless it goes with the next inscription. (5)so Langlotz, but see the last note for the pertinence of the alpha. CIG reads ταῦρος ἀνιάδης, but Jacobsthal, with greater probability, suggests amending to ἀναιδής [for the meaning, cf. LSJ, suppl.(2), s.v. ἀναιδής II].

- B] A: Heracles and Apollo: the struggle for the deer. B: Athena and a warrior (Ares?), with Hermes and a woman.
- C] B: nonsense: imitation inscriptions: on Hermes' left: πο(.)γγ. On his lower right: (.)(.)(π). To lower right of the central figure: πολιλ. To the woman's lower right: ρντ(π)γ, retr.(2)
- D] The inscriptions surely by the same hand as those on Würzburg 190, CAVI 8059. A is not inscribed.

(1)see Vatican 389, CAVI 6993. This is the name piece. (2)uncertain reading from Langlotz, pl. 55; may be identical with (λ)στω[.]σ, which I thought I saw in the photo.

Würzburg 204.

- A] BF neck amphora. From Vulci. Acheloos Painter (Leagros Group). Last quarter sixth. 510-500. *E. Langlotz, Griechische Vasen in Würzburg (1932) 36, pl. 45. ABV 383/8, Add.(2) 101.
- B] Palaestra: A: a discus thrower, a flautist, and a bearded jumper. B: a trainer, a discus thrower, a flautist, and a jumper.
- C] Nonsense: A: behind the lower body of the discus thrower: νχεδι. To left of the flautist's back: νχειοιορ. Above his head: (ν)δευδο. To left of the jumper's chest: (ν)δεδ, retr. B: along the back of the discus thrower: ν(δ)ερεδι. Above the jumper: (ν)χε(σ)υ.(1) Around the jumper's head and arm: (ν)χεροδ. Above the flautist's head: (ν)δεδ, retr. To right of his middle: ιχεροι. Under the foot, Gr.: ΠΣ with pi having equal verticals, and a three-stroke sigma. Not in TGV.

- D] = HA 173. Most nu's are reversed (they could be sideways sigmas); once upside down.

(1)the fourth letter is unclear; perhaps a reversed sigma.

Würzburg 205.

- A] BF neck amphora. From Vulci. Three-Line Group. Last quarter sixth. 510-500. *E. Langlotz, Griechische Vasen in Würzburg (1932) 36 and 174 (facs. of Gr.), pl. 59. CIG 4.7866. Kretschmer, Vas. 185. Beazley, AJA 54 (1954) 317 (not ill.). ABV 672, *Para. 141 and 318. *photo. 'Script' 913.
- B] A: two pairs of young horsemen. B: similar.
- C] A: above their heads, starting above the left ephebe: Ο(ρ)θαγορα<ς> υ. καλος. Under the foot, Gr.: P, angular. See TGV 118/6D 4, read as ligature ΠΔ.
- D] Gamma has the shape of a half-arrow. Rho is irregular and D-shaped.

Würzburg 215.

- A] BF neck amphora. From Vulci. Leagros Group. Lea Class no. 2 (Bloesch). Last quarter sixth. 510-500. *E. Langlotz, Griechische Vasen in Würzburg (1932) 39/215, pl. 59. CIG 4.7874. Kretschmer, Vas. 86 n. 2. *Photo. ABV 375/213.
- B] Athletes: A: a trainer; a bearded jumper; two runners (one bearded). Between their legs, a discus. B: discobolus; a kneeling youth (javelin thrower); a trainer; a bearded javelin thrower.
- C] A: between the runners' legs, above the discus: Πολυμένων, retr. To right of their middles: Νικᾶς.(1)
- D] = U III 118.

(1)the alpha and sigma lie sideways. Polymenon is not listed in Pape or PA (but Polymenes is); he appears only here in LGPN ii; Νικᾶς is listed in Pape on a Coan coin, not at all in LGPN ii. Both names seem to me to be punning: the victor and the second in endurance. Πολυμένων, νικᾶ<ς> seems much less likely (an iota would be missing), although Kretschmer gives νικᾶς, Πολύμενον. Langlotz also thinks Νικᾶς is a name. Νικᾶς seems to be the right reading, Νικῶν being excluded by the penultimate letter. One of the runners is not a youth, but I did not note which it was.

8065.

Würzburg 220.

- A] BF neck amphora. From Vulci. Pasikles Painter. Last quarter sixth. *E. Langlotz, Griechische Vasen in Würzburg (1932) 40 and 174 (facs. of Gr.), pl. 50. ABV 328/1, Add.(2) 89. *Photo. 'Script' 918a.
- B] A: Apollo with Artemis and Leto. B: Dionysus with a maenad and a satyr.

- C] A: Above Leto's head: Λετώς. On her lower right: Πασικλές υ. καλός. To right of Apollo's lyre, above Artemis: Απολλωνος. To Artemis' left: Αρτεμι(δ)ος, retr. except for the last five letters(?). Under the foot, Gr.: ΣΜΙ. See Hackl 261 and TGV 78/20A 43.
- D] Attic. Dotted delta. Attic lambda turned 180 degrees (not necessarily Ionic: see 'Script', lambda 5).

8066.

Würzburg 228.

- A] BF neck amphora. Group of Oxford 216.(1) Early fifth. Ca. 520 (Langlotz). *E. Langlotz, Griechische Vasen in Würzburg (1932) 42, pl. 63. ABV 592/6.
- B] A: komos: youths and a woman. B: 3 warriors: hoplite, archer, hoplite.(2)
- C] B: the shield device of the left hoplite is a large X.
- D] Small. It is unclear if this is a letter.

(1)"All may be by one hand," Beazley. (2)Langlotz calls them Amazons.

8067.

Würzburg 232.

- A] BF neck amphora. From Crete? Painter of Würzburg 232. Early fifth. *E. Langlotz, Griechische Vasen in Würzburg (1932) 43, pl. 62. Haspels, ABFL 200/32. ABV 592/1.
- B] A: Dionysus; a maenad, dancing. B: a satyr with a kantharos and a wineskin on his back, running.
- C] B: to left of his mouth near-horizontal: (ο)υο. No doubt nonsense.
- D] The first letter is an almost completely filled circle, the last is altogether black. The first letter could be a phi (hardly a theta), the last should be an omicron. This inscription is visible in the photograph, but is not mentioned by Langlotz. I think it imitates an exclamation.

8068.

Würzburg 243.

- A] BF amphora. From Vulci.(1) Painter of Würzburg 243.(2) Third quarter sixth. Ca. 550 (Langlotz). *E. Langlotz, Griechische Vasen in Würzburg (1932) 44/243, pls. 70, 80 and 84. ABV 304/1.
- B] A: a warrior leaving home, between a youth and a woman on each side. B: similar, but the left pair is of a man and a woman.
- C] A: nonsense: to right of the left woman's face: six dots and imitation letters. Between the heads of the pair at right: similar (six dots and imitation letters), but smaller.

(1)Langlotz; not mentioned in ABV. (2)not far from the Princeton Group (Beazley).

8069.

Würzburg 248.

- A] BF amphora. From Vulci (TGV). Group E. Third quarter sixth.

Ca. 550 (Langlotz). *E. Langlotz, Griechische Vasen in Würzburg (1932) 46/248, pls. 80 and 84, p. 175 (facs.). Hackl, p. 19/19 [sic]. ABV 134/18. TGV 77/17A 13.

- B] A: Theseus and Minotaur, between, at left, a youth and a woman, and, at right, a woman and two youths. B: Heracles and the Lion, between Athena and Iolaus.
- C] A: nonsense: dots and imitation letters: eight inscriptions. Clearest is a horizontal inscription above the heads of the group at right: $\pi\chi>\lambda\omicron\chi\omicron\sigma(o)$.(1) Under the foot, Dip. in red: $\text{O}\Pi$.
- D] See also Würzburg 251.

(1)the digamma could be a sloppy epsilon.

- B] A: Departure of three warriors; on either side, a frontal horseman. B: warriors departing, between, at left, a youth with a spear, and at right, a man in a similar pose.
- C] A: nonsense: to right of hoplites' lower legs: $\pi\lambda(o)\iota(o)/(o)$ -.(1) Under the foot, Gr.: $\Upsilon\Sigma$, with three-stroke sigma; see TGV.
- D] = U III 244. The inscription is similar to Würzburg 248 , above.

(1)the omicrons are blots.

- B] Warriors Leaving Home: A: a man with two spears leading a horse; at left, an archer and an old man; at right, a dog and an archer.(1) B: four hoplites: three shields are black, with [white?] devices; the third shield from the left is white.
- C] B: on the white shield, a device in BG: a large A. Under the foot, Gr.: XII .
- D] = U III 262. Alpha with a slanting bar (not pointed).

(1)Beazley mentions only one archer.

- B] Shoulder: Heracles and the Lion. Body: a fountain scene (five girls).
- C] Body: between a column and the fountain head, facing the latter: $\text{Ανθυλ}\langle\lambda\rangle\epsilon\text{καλε}$. Between the heads and backs of the first and second girl: $\text{Ροδον}^{\wedge}\text{καλε}$. Between the second and third girls: $\text{ηγεισι}\langle\lambda\rangle\alpha$. Under the foot, Gr.: ΣO , with three-stroke sigma and a compass-drawn omicron. See TGV 81/21A, vii 53, and Hackl 32/242.
- D] For the social status of the girls, see recently Hannestad; for the names, e.g., Hesp. 22. The replica London B 333 (ABV 677/3, CAVI 4288) is by a different hand (Beazley) and the inscriptions differ in position and include nonsense, although two names recur (Anthylle and Rhodon).

(1)a faulty entry; see Add.(1). (2)see ABV 306.

- B] Shoulder: Heracles and Cerberus. Body: Demeter mounting a chariot; behind it: Apollo with his lyre, and Artemis. To the horses' right, Hermes and a woman. Predella: lions and boars.
- C] Body: starting to right of Demeter's forehead and continuing past Apollo's to near Artemis': $\Delta\epsilon\mu\epsilon\tau^{\wedge}\epsilon\rho^{\wedge}$.
- D] = U III 135. Good lettering. (The lettering is much neater than on the earlier vases. A comparison of the hands is hardly possible.) Shapiro thinks Demeter is inscribed because she would have been difficult to recognize without attributes. No other figure is inscribed.

- B] Shoulder: Heracles and the Lion. Body: 5 Amazons, harnessing a chariot.
- C] Body: to left and right of the leftmost Amazon: $\eta\pi\kappa\alpha\rho\chi\omicron\varsigma$. By the head of a horse and by the head of an Amazon: $\eta\omicron\pi\alpha\iota\varsigma$ and $\kappa\alpha\lambda\omicron\varsigma$. On the right side of the scene: $\Delta\rho\rho\theta\epsilon\omicron\varsigma$. Under the foot, Gr.: ligature BY , the upsilon sideways.
- D] Now cleaned (Para.). Beazley notes (ABV 667) that there is no $\kappa\alpha\lambda\omicron\varsigma$, "unless, as is possible, $\eta\omicron\pi\alpha\iota\varsigma\kappa\alpha\lambda\omicron\varsigma$ serves both proper names." The letters are strewn about; there are many drips from the brush.

Shapiro, Art and Cult under the Tyrants in Athens (1989) 110, pl. 52,c. F. Lissarrague, L'autre guerrier: archers, peltastes, cavaliers, dans l'imagerie attique (1990) 110, fig. 60.
- B] Shoulder: deer-hunting on horseback. Body: Adrastus leaving home in a chariot, with an archer.
- C] Body: below the horses' mouths: $\text{A}\rho\iota\omicron\nu$, retr. Below, facing away from the horses: $\text{P}\alpha\pi\epsilon\nu\pi\lambda\omicron\varsigma$.(1) To right of the horses' manes: $\text{A}\gamma\rho\epsilon\tau\omicron\varsigma$. Between the horses' legs: $\text{X}\omicron\lambda\alpha\rho\gamma\omicron\varsigma$. To the warriors' right: [---]τος. Below, to right of the horses' tails: $\text{X}\omicron\chi\alpha\nu(\theta)\omicron\varsigma$, i.e., $\text{X}\omicron\chi\alpha\nu\theta\omicron\varsigma$. Under the foot, Gr.: a pictogram, see TGV 122/9D 1 and comments, p. 207; Hackl, 24/100.
- D] Much restored. The four horse names are Arion, Agretos, Cholargos, and Xanthos (see Moore, after Jeschonnek); Moore gives Cholargos as Κωλλαργος, but it is clearly Χολ-. Arion is the offspring of Poseidon and Demeter (Paus. 8.25.7-8); one owner was Adrastus as on this vase (Il. 23.346; Thebaid, cited by Paus., loc. cit.). Xanthos, also on the vase, need not be Achilles' horse as it is a common horse name (see Shapiro, 110 n. 91). All four horse names face the horse team. Piapenplos(?) must be the archer; it is clearly miswritten. The [--]tos faces the pair in the chariot and could be restored: [Αδρασ]τος. The reason for identifying Adrastus must be the horse Arion.

(1)so Langlotz' text. The photo. shows: Πια(.)πενπλος, the fourth letter a diagonal line, the 'alpha' a high-kicker. Lissarrague cites Beazley, AJA 54 (1950) 311-15 as suggesting Παρθεν<ο>πας [i.e., -πα<ο>ς], one of the Seven, for ΠΙΑΓΕΝΓΛΟΣ (with three-stroke sigma), the name of the Scythian archer. I thought of Π(ε)ριενπ<ο>λος, which presupposes an Ionic lambda. At any rate, a personal name.

- B] Int.: in the exergue: 2 cocks facing. Around, a Doric kymation.
- C] Above the heads: Ασοονι(α). Below the cocks: χαίρε.
- D] = U III 400. - Langlotz, p. 77, gives: Ασοονιαχαίρε, but corrects it on p. 173 into: ...ΙΔΧΑΙΡΕ. The index (p. 167) has both readings! But there are no other letters visible. Pape lists a Beoetian name Ἀσκώνδας. Hence perhaps: Ασοονι:α (voc.), χαίρε. Or Ασοονιδ<α>, χαῖρε. See Kretschmer, who also compares the Boeotian name Ἀσκώνδας.

- B] Lip: ivy.

- C] Handle zone: A: εμε[^]συ[^]ποιεκελυ[^]εμιυ[^]εσε.
B: ευκλευσ:ευποιεσκυνε.
- D] Clear letters (A). The inscription on A after the photo. in Langlotz; that on B after his text. He reads:
A: ἐμὲ οὐ ποίει, κέλευ' ἐμὲ εἰς σέ. And: B: εὖ κελεύεις : εὖ ποιεῖς, κυνέ. In this, he is approximately following Urlichs; see Kretschmer who is more doubtful, but thinks it might be obscene. Beazley rightly considers the inscriptions meaningless. Cf. also GAI i, 300. Note the slight gaps between the letters on A, here marked by ^. The inscriptions play with a number of words common on vases, such as εποιεσεν and ευ, plus some others. Illiterate or deliberate mocking?

- B] Int.: hoplitodromos. A: two groups of warriors fighting over a fallen comrade. B: at left, similar; at right, man mounting a chariot.
- C] Int.: starting to the right of the head, widely spaced, in rough letters: $h^{\circ}\pi(\alpha)^{\iota}\zeta$, retr.(1)
- D] = U III 360. The letter forms are hard to classify.

(1)the pi apparently not retr.; cf. 'Script' 721. The head, helmet and two legs intervene.

- B] Int.: a satyr with a pointed amphora. A: six dancing satyrs (four with wineskins). B: six dancing satyrs (the second has a pointed amphora, the third a wineskin).
- C] Int.: around the figure, in a circle: nonsense: $(\alpha)\sigma(\omicron)\omicron\gamma\omicron\kappa\iota(\cdot)(\cdot)\nu(\delta)$.(2) A: nonsense inscriptions: on the rightmost wineskin, in BG: $\omicron\sigma$.(3) B: nonsense inscriptions (some omicron's can be distinguished in Langlotz). On the reserved upper edge of the foot, in BG: $[\Pi\alpha\nu]\phi[\alpha]\omicron\varsigma \epsilon\pi\omicron\iota\epsilon\sigma\epsilon\nu$.
- D] = U III 343. Damaged in WW II: the vase has much deteriorated during the 'Nachkriegszeit' and the inscription can only be read partially: a dot that may belong to the first alpha; one diagonal line belonging to the second, and remains of $\omicron\iota\epsilon\sigma\epsilon$.

(1)a slight connection with the Nikosthenes Painter: see ARV(2) 131 and CF, text to pl. 4.46. (2)an uncertain reading from a rather unclear facs. in CV. Sloppy and casual writing. (3)three-stroke sigma reversed.

- B] Int.: symposium: a bearded man reclining, playing the lyre and singing; a basket; a flute case. A: Heracles and Cerberus, with Hermes. B: a youth leading two horses.
- C] Int.: starting to left of the head and running along the margin: $\text{ho } \pi^{\wedge}\alpha\iota\varsigma$.(1) A: below the rim: $\text{ho } \wedge \text{ } \pi\alpha\iota\varsigma, \nu\alpha\iota \text{ vacat.}$ (2) B: below the rim: $\text{ho } \pi^{\wedge}\alpha\iota^{\wedge}\varsigma$.(3)
- D] = U III 359. Very crude drawing.

Shapiro, Hesp. 51 (1982), pl. 25,d (A). O. Masson, RPhil 53 (1979) 244-45. A. Kossatz-Deissmann, GVGettyMus 5 (1991) 153, EUKRATES (bibl.); 168, S(I)BYRTAS 1.
- B] Int.: a warrior. A: sacrifice: two youths, a man at an altar, a youth and a man. B: Dionysus on a donkey, with two satyrs and a maenad.

- C] Int.: Περικ[λε]ιδες. On his shield (only the upper part is preserved): --]χ(ε)κ[--.(1) A: the left youth: Καλ·λ·ιας.(2) The sacrificer: Λυ[σι]στρατος.(3) The man on the right: Α[....]εὐν. He says: καὶ[δ]εῦρ[ο].(4) B: the left satyr: Σατυρβς, for Σατυρος.(5) Behind Dionysus, diagonally upward: Διο[ν]υσος. The satyr at right: Ευκρατες.
- D] = H 1646. + ex Louvre S 1366 (see Beazley, AJA 58). Langlotz points out that the dr. by Brunn is more complete, but may include restorations; the vase may have been damaged since his time. Shapiro's article identifies Kallias with the son of Kratias of Alopeke. For the readings see also CV; there appear to be some differences as well as additional letters but they are not clear to me.

(1)so the photo. in Langlotz, the epsilon resembling an inverted digamma; his text gives: τε:κ. (2)Beazley in ARV(2) 1588 points out that this Kallias is earlier than the kalos. See now Shapiro. (3)Langlotz added the letter(s) near the second youth to the sacrificer's inscription and read Λυ[σι]στρατος, and I have followed this; but G. Neumann thinks that they are more likely to be from the name of the second youth. The distribution appears to be: Λυ[--] near the second youth and [--]τρατος by the sacrificer. (4)Langlotz does not restore the inscription. Beazley in AJA suggests Α[ντιλ]εὐν. καὶδεῦρο is a phrase from a prayer, asking the divinity to come to the site of the sacrifice. (5)so Langlotz and Hölscher who reject the retr. reading Σιβύρτας of Schulze and Fränkel (after a town Sybrita in Crete). K.-D. accepts Σ<υ>βύρτας; cf. Masson who cites, e.g., Ar., Acharn. 118 Σιβύρτιος. Most think the 'Satrybs' inscription is Σάτυρος miswritten.

Würzburg 486.

- A] RF cup. From Vulci. Villa Giulia Painter. Second quarter fifth. Ca. 470 (Langlotz). *E. Langlotz, Griechische Vasen in Würzburg (1932) 95/486, pl. 154. ARV(2) 626/108.
- B] Int.: a Doric column; a girl holding a taenia; a mirror. A: a bearded man leaning on his stick and holding an alabastron; a woman holding the hand of another; two mirrors; sandals and a cup in the field. B: a similar composition: at left, a youth; a stool behind the first woman; at right, a youth (rather than a second woman).(1)
- C] Int.: on the column: καλε παις.(2) A: ho παις. B: ho παι[s].
- D] = U III 429. The inscriptions dane after Langlotz' text. He thinks the scenes on the Ext. are seduction scenes.

(1)I have kept Langlotz' A and B, which are reversed in ARV(2). (2)I am uncertain of this reading; the article should not be omitted.

- A] RF cup. Painter of London E 777 (Penthesilean). Second quarter fifth. Ca. 460 (Langlotz). *E. Langlotz, Griechische Vasen in Würzburg (1932) 96/489, pl. 157. ARV(2) 941/35, 1675.
- B] Int.: two draped youths dancing. Exergue. A: two youths dancing; a man.(1) Three draped youths dancing.
- C] Int.: καλοι.(2)
- D] Training of a chorus? The youths all wear wide fillets. One of several cups with this subject; see ARV(2) 941 and 1675.

(1)Langlotz calls him the chorodidaskalos. (2)so Langlotz' text. The plural, if correctly reported, is most unusual.

B] Int.: lower leg of a warrior; at left, an unexplained rectangular object (part of a wall?). A: Achilles and Ajax playing a board game: at left, part of a crouching leg and of an arm with the hand holding a game piece; a shield. From the right comes the hand of the right-hand figure, holding another piece. In the middle, a low base with eight pieces on it.
C] Int.: nonsense: on the 'wall': οφ.(2) Elsewhere: τεαγ.(3)
A: on the stone base, in BG: οφσ(ο)(.)(4)

D] The inscriptions are hard to read.

(1)Beazley compares Boston 08.30a (ARV(2) 135/(a)). (2)so Langlotz' text. (3)CV. (3)Langlotz' text; he conjectures Leagros, but also says that the inscription is probably nonsense. CV has the same letters. (4)the last letter consists of two dots, one above the other. This reading is from a photo., but my note from Langlotz' plate differs and resembles more the second inscription on the Int.

- A] RF amphora with lid. From Vulci. Kleophrades Painter.(1) Ca. 500. Very early; before 500 (Beazley). Ca. 500 (Hölscher). *F. Hölscher, CV, Germany 46, pls. 8,1-2, 9,1-2, 10,1-2, 11,1-8, figs. 7-8 (profile); pp. 18 and 20, facss. of Grr.; p. 19, facs.of Dipp. (vast bibl.). *FR ii, 222-26, pl. 103. *E. ARV(2) 181/1 (much bibl.), Para. 340, Add.(2) 186 (much bibl.). 'Script' 487. Cf. J. Mentz, Philologus 88 (1933).
- B] A: a young warrior leaving home (extispicy), with a 'Scythian' and a young woman looking on. B: komos of two bearded men with a hetaera.
- C] Nonsense(?): A: to the Scythian's lower right: τλετυ. To left of the warrior's face: ιταισ. Above the dog: εισσ. Above the woman: ισλει. B: above the left komast: ιι. To right of the amphora: εισ, retr. To left of the hetaera's head: ισττ. On her right, similar: ισε.(2) Under the foot, Gr.: ρ|, retr. Under the lid, Gr.: ρ|, the same as that under the foot. ==>> Information given me at a luncheon in Berlin at the time of the Euphronios colloquium 1991 by Dr. Martin Boss at the request of Erika Simon: B: the inscriptions are not senseless: the hetaera is Ανυτε. The middle komast is [--]ες. The left komast is: [--]εμο[--]. [This seems odd, for the nonsense on both A and B would be typical early Kleophrades Painter nonsense.] [Anyte of Tegea was a Hellenistic poetess (Pal. Anth.). Pape has no other person by the name; LGPN ii does not have it. Nothing was said about A.]

- D] = U III 318. = HA 120. The vase is now very fragmentary and some letters are now missing. The inscriptions are Euthymidean and the style of lettering is more regular than later. Hölscher thinks it strange that the inscriptions should be meaningless, as the Kleophrades Painter could write, cf. Vatican 16,573 and Munich 2305. For ΕΙΟΣ as a dog's name, see Mentz. The two inscriptions by the hetaera (ΙΟΥΤ and ΕΟΙ in CV) on B can be read as [Α]ΝΥΤΙΝΕ (G. Neumann apud CV); but see above. On the writing skills of the Kleophrades Painter, see also Boardman, AK 19 (1976) 15 and n. 56. Note that reading Anytine presupposes reading the sigmas as nu's which is possible.

(1)attributed to Euthymides by Hauser. (2)could be one inscription: ΙΟΥΤΙΟΕ(?). But see now the information from Boss, above.

Hölscher, CV, Germany 46, pls. 12,1-2, and 13,1-6, fig. 9 (profile); p. 22, facss. of Dipp. (vast bibl.).
- B] A: Ajax and Phoenix. B: Hector and Priam.(1)
- C] A: Ajax' name is lost. To right of his legs: [κα]λὸς εἶ. To right of Phoenix' face: Φοινιχς. B: Priam's name is lost. To left of Hector's helmet: ηκτῶ[ρ], retr. To right of his lower body: καλὸς εἶ.
- D] = HA 119. B: the old man leading Hector away is now generally agreed to be Priam, except by Davies, LIMC, s.v. Antenor; see the bibl. in CV.

(1)"That the old man is Priam is suggested by the inscription on a stamnos by the Triptolemos Painter [Swiss Private] (361, no. 7)." (ARV(2)). This supersedes Beazley, Kleophr. (Antenor perhaps preferable to Priam).

1639, Para. 350, Add.(2) 203.

- B] A: a citharode and a man. B: a jumper and a trainer.
- C] Under the foot, Grr.: listed in TGV, cat. as: ΛΕ. EM. ΚΡΟ.
The facs. however, shows only: ΕΜΛΕΚΙ, probably with a break following.
- D] Johnston, p. 216: he agrees with Milne that ΛΕ is a vase name [λῆκκυθοί]. For EM see p. 217 under 18E: perhaps ἐμβάφια. For ΚΡΟ Milne suggested κρωσσοί, pitchers, which could refer to the inscribed vase [if in sing.?].
Hence three vase names?

- B] A: Warrior Leaving Home: a warrior with a phiale; at left, a woman with an oinochoe; at right, a bearded man. B:
similar: a woman with a cup; a bearded man; a warrior (perhaps meant to be the same as on A, as the shield device is similar).
- C] A: on either side of the warrior: a nonsense inscription. B:
on either side of the old man: a nonsense inscription.

- A] Fragmentary RF stamnos.(1) From Tarquinia. Syriskos Painter.
First quarter fifth. Ca. 480 (Langlotz). *E. Langlotz, Griechische Vasen in Würzburg (1932) 107/527, pls. 135 and
212. ARV(2) 261/17.
- B] A: three wreathed men talking to two youths. B: four men conversing.
- C] A: καλος, twice.
- D] U III 337. The inscriptions ought to refer to the two youths.

(1)so Beazley; Langlotz thinks this wrong and declares the vase to have been a column krater. The neck and mouth were alien and have been removed.

B] Peleus and Thetis, with many Nereids.

C] Πηλ[ευσ]. Θετις. Νηρευς. Ναω. Ψαμαθη.(2) Κυματολήγη. Μελίτη. Σπεω. Γλαυκη.(3) Κυμαθοη.

D] Done from Langlotz' text. Oakley: broken during WW II and recomposed with loss of some frs. [his pl. 63 shows the state before and after.] The Nereid names are found in Hesiod, Theog. 240-264, except for Ναώ, which B. Schweitzer, Mythische Hochzeiten: eine Interpretation des Bildkreises an dem Epinetron des Eretriamalers (1961) 13 believes to be (here and on the epinetron) a mistake for Σαώ who is found in Hesiod. Further bibl.: Oakley, n. 52.

A] RF alabastron. From Boeotia. Group of Paidikos Alabastra γ(1) (Manner of Euergides Painter). Last quarter sixth. Late (Beazley). *E. Langlotz, Griechische Vasen in Würzburg (1932) 112/544, pl. 207. ARV(2) 100/24.

B] A girl conversing with a youth leaning on his stick; on either side a column. On the bottom: a black wheel.

C] On the reserved topside of mouth: nonsense: πγισο(γ).(2) On the columns, nonsense inscriptions.(3)

(1)may be by one hand, Beazley. (2)so Langlotz' text; he wonders if this is miswritten for Παιδικος. (3)Langlotz' rendering of these letters is not repeated here. From his description it is not clear how many columns and inscriptions there are.

B] Two women washing: a woman, kneeling on a low stool, hands her clothes, shoes and ointment jar to another who is washing.

C] Nonsense: above the head of one woman: σμιλχ. Above and to right of the other (horizontal and vertically down, respectively): γυ(ο)υερλ and γιχρ(φ)κ(.)χ(χ)χ.(2)

D] The inscriptions after the drs., which are perhaps inaccurate.

(1)not far from the Sappho Painter. (2)the seventh letter is a short diagonal stroke placed high, which may be accidental.

- A] WG alabastron. From Athens. Two-Row Painter. Second quarter fifth. Ca. 470 (Langlotz). *E. Langlotz, Griechische Vasen in Würzburg (1932) 113/558, pl. 207. ARV(2) 726/14, Add.(2) 282.
- B] A: Nike with a taenia. B: a woman holding a ball or an egg.
- C] A: to Nike's lower right, facing her: κα[λ̄ε]. B: in the same position (i.e. behind the woman): καλε.(1)
- D] This vase has only one row.

(1)I read this with Ionic lambda; Langlotz read it upside down with Attic lambda.

- A] RF skyphos. From Nola. Curtius Painter (Penthesilean). Second quarter fifth. Ca. 470 (Langlotz). *E. Langlotz, Griechische Vasen in Würzburg (1932) 119/610, pl. 212 (part). ARV(2) 935/73. *TGV 249, 25F n. 3, fig. 14,q (facs.).
- B] A: a draped youth with his stick (about to leave). B: a youth leaning on his stick, looking at the figure on A.
- C] A: to left of the youth: καλος. B: similar: καλος. Under the foot, Gr.: above: |-ΔΔΠ|. Below: ||ΛΗ.
- D] TGV 249, 25F n. 3: "There is more obviously a price cited somewhere in the graffito on another skyphos, dating after 450, Würzburg 610 (not 614 as Langlotz); as Langlotz' facsimile is inexact I give a corrected version in Fig. 14,q. A price of a drachma for twenty-six pieces may be given, but this ignores part of the mark (see also Chapter 7, p. 34)." I have not included Langlotz' 614, but I wonder if Johnston has not confused 610 and 614, since the former is hardly after 450.

8152.

Yale 1909.12.

- A] Fragmentary BF prize Panathenaic. Kleophrades Painter. First quarter fifth. *D.M. Buitron, Attic Vase Painting in New England Collections (1972) 60.25. Dev.(1) 111 n. 37. S.M. Burke and J.J. Pollitt, Greek Vases at Yale (1975) 42/39 (A, B). ABV 404/4, Add.(2) 105.
- B] A: Athena. B: chariot race: a chariot racing to right.
- C] A: to right of the left column, the last letter curving to right: $\tau\omicron\nu\ \text{A}\theta\epsilon\nu[\epsilon\theta]\epsilon\nu\ \alpha\theta\lambda\omicron\nu$.
- D] The letter forms resemble those of the Kleophrades Painter, but the lack of planning at the end of the inscription is unusual for him, if the vase is really by himself.

8153.

Yale 1909.13.

- A] BF prize Panathenaic. Kleophrades Painter. First quarter fifth. Ca. 490 (Neils). *J. Neils et al., Goddess and Polis: The Panathenaic Festival in Ancient Athens (Hood Museum of Art, Dartmouth College, New Hampshire; Princeton University Press; 1992) 174/45, photos. on pp. 174 (B) and 175 (A). - A] RF oinochoe. Shuvalov Painter. Third quarter fifth. *A. Lezzi-Hafter, 'Der Tod des Orpheus auf einer Kanne des Schuwalow-Malers,' AK 29 (1986) 90ff., figs. 1 (facs. of Gr.) and 2, pl. 16.
- B] Death of Orpheus.
- C] Under the foot, Gr.: ΛΗΚΔ.
- D] Johnston, by letter, suggests tentatively: λῆκ<υ>θοι Δ = 10 lekythoi; but this shape is not elsewhere found mentioned on an oinochoe; and there should be punctuation before the numeral. He thinks that the 'gammoid' lambda suggests perhaps an Island Ionian (AK 90 and n. 3).

- A] RF cup. Cat-and-Dog Painter.(1) Second quarter fifth. *ARV(2) 866/1, 1673, Para. 426, Add.(2) 299. *Auktion 22 (M.M.), pls. 49/172 and 57.
- C] Int.: to left of the youth: καλός, retr. On his right: Γλαυκῶν.(2) A: Χαρμίδες and below it: καλός.
- D] Ex New York Market, Royal Athena (Eisenberg). Add.(2) has 'Switzerland, Private'. Three erotic scenes.

(1)Group of the Pisto Xenos Painter. (2)the position may suggest that the kalos-name refers to the youth.

- B] Multifigured: A: warriors arming. B: warriors departing.(3)
Under the handles: a draped youth with a lyre and a dog; dogs fighting.
- C] A: to right and above one warrior, curving over a woman next to him: Στροιβος καλος. Under one handle: around the picture of copulating dogs: Στροι[βος κ]α[λος].(4)
- D] I think the exhibition was shown both in Basel and in Zürich. The inscriptions are curved and look very casual.

(1)a band cup on a low foot; really a cup-skyphos. (2)listed as Basel Market (M.M.). (3)there are three warriors. (4)Add.(2) has Στ<ρ>οι[βος κ]α[λος], but the Emmerich text, as well as Bea. Arch., print the rho; the picture in the cat. is too small to tell.
